Eftestøl-Wilhelmsson, Suvi Sankari, Anu Bask, 2019 The EU Commission has set the goal of facilitating a competitive transport system increasing mobility and supporting growth while simultaneously reaching a target of 60 per cent emissions reductions by 2050 In light of past performance and estimated development the target will not be reached without further behavioural change in the transport sector This interdisciplinary book examines how such a behavioural shift can be achieved by various organizational and legal means focusing primarily on the European Union and its specific policies related to greening transport Analytical Decision-Making Methods for Evaluating Sustainable Transport in European Corridors

Isabella M. Lami, 2014-07-26 Eurocorridors are characterized by intensive transport flows and dynamic patterns of establishment and household locations They are also considered the backbones of powerful spatial and economic forces in the areas that connect urban regions One of the main difficulties in the spatial planning of eurocorridors has been the need to engage in different types of collective action Such an approach can be extremely challenging in practice useful to researchers in the field and to professionals as well In the light of this the book's main objectives are To define the problem by analyzing the key features which include freight and passenger transport policies and issues the territorial context with its geographical social economic and cultural aspects the plurality of subjects with different aims and resources and the lack of homogeneous information To illustrate assessment models and evaluation frameworks MCDA Discrete Choice Analysis Collaborative Assessments Geovisualization Technologies in theoretical terms and by the use of case studies Introduction

Railways and the Economic Development of Western Europe, 1830-1914 Patrick O'Brien, 1983-06-18

Competitiveness and Private Sector Development Competitiveness in South East Europe 2021 A Policy Outlook OECD, 2021-07-05 The future sustainable economic development and well being of citizens in South East Europe depend on greater economic competitiveness Reinforcing the region's economic potential in a post COVID 19 context requires a holistic inclusive and growth oriented approach to policy making

The Common EU Maritime Transport Policy Athanasios A. Pallis, 2017-05-15 During the 1990s there were two major developments to the Common EU Maritime Transport Policy CMTP the establishment of European Union policies on safe seas and on shortsea shipping respectively This book critically analyzes and appraises these and other developments to the CMTP in this period while also studying policy Europeanization It focuses on both the economic environment of maritime transport and the interaction of policy makers and organized interests during the policy making process with an emphasis on the political dimensions By developing an innovative economic model the book examines the ways in which governmental and non governmental policy makers and their ideas interact within the EU s structure and dynamics and shows how these factors account for why when and how the specific common EU policy has developed

Competition Policy in Europe Johann Eekhoff,2003-10-23 The modern industrial states desperately need more competition in order to generate growth and employment Although the European Union pushed its member states to open several sectors to competition there is much left to be done At the same time powerful interest groups try to avoid or to reduce competition on European labour markets in the health systems in the transport and energy sector in public services and in many other areas This book shows that there is much to be gained from intensifying competition and that especially consumers would benefit One task is to lay a sound basis for the application of competition The other task is to implement and guarantee competition The authors cover both issues
