Natural Arsenic in Groundwaters of Latin America Jochen Bundschuh, M. A. Armienta, Peter Birkle, Prosun Bhattacharya, Jörg Matschullat, A. B. Mukherjee, 2008-09-23 Groundwater resources naturally contain high levels of arsenic in many parts of the world Over the last two decades the As containing groundwater in South East Asia has received much attention but the situation is just as crucial in Latin America where the number of studies is still relatively low and the extent and severity of As exposure in the populations has yet to be fully evaluated This book aims to promote knowledge of the occurrence and genesis of As rich groundwater in Latin America It deals with constraints on the mobility of As in groundwater As uptake from soil and water by plants As propagation through the food chain human health impacts and As removal technologies Case studies are presented from Argentina Bolivia Chile Ecuador El Salvador Mexico Nicaragua and Peru amongst others and are viewed against the background of experience from other world regions The book is a state of art overview of arsenic research in Latin America It aims to create interest within the Latin American countries affected by the presence of arseniferous aquifers and to increase awareness among administrators policy makers and company executives It will also serve to inform the international scientific community and improve international cooperation on arsenic in groundwater

Water Availability and Management in Mexico Elena María Otazo-Sánchez, Amado Enrique Navarro-Frómata, Vijay P. Singh, 2019-09-28 This book presents several complex case studies related to water management and planning in the context of pollution growing demands and global climate change in Mexico but which are also relevant for other countries in Latin America These concerns are of critical importance for policymakers who are coping with multiple conflicting interests Water availability in Mexico is polarized with abundant rainfall and large rivers in the south and desert like conditions in the north The central region which is the most industrialized is overpopulated Mexico City pours millions of cubic meters of blackwater into the northern valley daily and receives its clean water from the south To address these unsustainable conditions the world's 4th biggest water treatment plant went into operation in 2018 The water infrastructure and governance must satisfy the demands of all sectors including agricultural urban and economic activities At the same time water resources are affected by drought and climate change puts constraints on the supply As such regulation and monitoring are important when it comes to adherence to agreed plans and priorities The book is divided into four sections 1 Water Availability discusses quantitative aspects such as supply methods of calculation and fracking 2 Water Quality highlights pollution risks and diagnosis of water resources 3 Water Allocation examines the sectoral demands and vulnerability due to unsustainable irrigation 4 Water Governance and Management focuses on laws urban rules national parks planning and integrated water resources management among other topics The chapters include illustrative case studies in Mexico such as basins cities reservoirs and aquifers water supply demand assessment planning and management
