A Passionate Usefulness Gary D. Schmidt,2004 In a literary environment dominated by men the first American to earn a living as a writer and to establish a reputation on both sides of the Atlantic was miraculously a woman Hannah Adams dared to enter and in some ways was forced to enter a sphere of literature that had in eighteenth century America been solely a male province Driven by poverty and necessity and aided by an extraordinarily adept mind and keen sense of business Adams authored works on New England history sectarian history and Jewish history using and citing the most recent scholarly works being published in Great Britain and America As a female writer she would always remain something of an outsider but her accomplishments did not by any means go unrecognized embraced by the Boston intelligentsia and highly regarded throughout New England Adams came to epitomize the possibility in a democratic society that anyone could rise to a circle of intellectual elites In A Passionate Usefulness the first book length biography of this remarkable figure Gary

Schmidt focuses primarily on the intimate connection between Adams's reading and her own literary work. Hers is the story of incipient scholarship in the new nation, the story of a dependence that evolved into intellectual independence. Schmidt sets Adams's works in the context of her early poverty and desperate family situation, her decade-long feud with one of New England's most powerful Calvinist ministers, her alliance with the budding Unitarian movement in Boston, and her work establishing the first evangelical mission to Palestine, a task she accomplished virtually single-handedly. Today Adams still holds a place not only as a female writer who made her way economically in the book business before any other woman or male writer could do so, but also as a key figure in the transitional generation between the American Revolution and the Renaissance upon whose groundwork much of the country's later literature would build.

Musings on Indian Writing in English: Drama Natesan Sharda Iyer, 2007 Legal Pluralism and Empires, 1500-1850 Lauren Benton, Richard J. Ross, 2013-07-22

This volume developed out of a 2010 conference on New Perspectives on Legal Pluralism organized by Lauren Benton and Richard Ross through the Symposium on Comparative Early Modern Legal History under the auspices of the Center for Renaissance Studies at the Newberry Library in Chicago. Acknowledgments Moral Upbringing through the Arts and Literature Pawel Kazmierczak, Jolanta Rzegocka, 2018-12-17

Mark Twain, the great American writer of the South, whose characters struggle with difficult choices, famously said, "Always do what is right. It will gratify half of mankind and astound the other." Taking Twain's phrase as a starting point, this book considers how literature and art explore different systems of values and principles of conduct and how they can teach us to cope at times of trial. Morality remains one of the most contested areas of thought and ethics in the modern world due to numerous misapprehensions and the move away from solidarity from what we share and hold in common, particularly our inherent pursuit of virtue and consideration of principles concerning the distinction between right and wrong, good and bad. Featuring essays by scholars from countries which have seen traditions of virtue and character formation perish in the course of tragic social experiments, this book highlights the role of literature and arts in educating about virtues and character in both a regional and global context. The volume offers philosophical analysis of moral education and engages with the literary canon, discussing the ways in which virtue was taught and can still be taught with Aristotle as one of the regained tools of learning. The essays span countries from England, Spain, Italy, and Belgium to the USA, Costa Rica, ancient China, and Israel, with Poland, the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth, and Central Europe receiving considerable coverage. They address themes of virtue and character formation from the Bronze Age to the present and serve as inspiring reading for educators, literary scholars, historians, ethicists, artists, and active readers.

The Royal Governors of Georgia, 1754-1775 W. W. Abbot, 2014-01-01

The political history of Georgia, the youngest and smallest of the thirteen colonies, condenses into a relatively short span much of the colonial history of America. Abbot's study of the colony of Georgia from the time it came under the administration of the Crown in 1754 until the beginning of the American Revolution tells the story of unprecedented expansion and growth against a backdrop of fast-developing crisis.

The Artless Jew Kalman P. Bland, 2001-07-02 Conventional wisdom holds that Judaism is indifferent or even suspiciously hostile to the visual arts due to the Second Commandment's prohibition on creating graven images the dictates of monotheism and historical happenstance This intellectual history of medieval and modern Jewish attitudes toward art and representation overturns the modern assumption of Jewish iconophobia that denies to Jewish culture a visual dimension Kalman Bland synthesizes evidence from medieval Jewish philosophy mysticism poetry biblical commentaries travelogues and law concluding that premodern Jewish intellectuals held a positive liberal understanding of the Second Commandment and did in fact articulate a certain Jewish aesthetic He draws on this insight to consider modern ideas of Jewish art revealing how they are inextricably linked to diverse notions about modern Jewish identity that are themselves entwined with arguments over Zionism integration and anti-Semitism Through its use of the past to illuminate the present and its analysis of how the present informs our readings of the past this book establishes a new assessment of Jewish aesthetic theory rooted in historical analysis Authoritative and original in its identification of authentic Jewish traditions of painting sculpture and architecture this volume will ripple the waters of several disciplines including Jewish studies art history medieval and modern history and philosophy
