

Intense Market Liberalization in Transition Economies

- Transition economies liberalized their markets- many foreign companies initiated trade and investment relationships with them.
- Privatization provided many opportunities for foreign firms to enter these markets by purchasing former state enterprises. In Eastern Europe, Western companies are leveraging inexpensive labor and other advantages in the region to manufacture products bound for export markets.
- Hungary, Poland, the Czech Republic, and other former East Bloc countries have made great strides in political and economic restructuring. These countries are well on their way to more advanced stages of economic development.

American Book Publishing Record Cumulative 1998 R R Bowker Publishing,1999-03 Real and Financial Economic Dynamics in Russia and Eastern Europe Timothy Lane,Nina Oding,Paul J.J. Welfens,2012-12-06 Russia and many other transition countries are now facing the challenges of opening up restructuring and modernizing their economies which requires addressing numerous institutional weaknesses and supply side distortions From a regional perspective drawing on the experience of other reforming countries the papers examine these issues Aspects addressed include the implications of trade and capital flows the process of labor market reform financial market development productivity growth and innovation dynamics The dynamics of the reform process are also studied in the context of new political economy models

International Trade and Restructuring in Eastern Europe János Gács,2013-11-11 J anos Gaes and Georg Winekler In recognition of the key position of international trade in the transition and the need for concentrated discussions of topical trade issues the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis IIASA organized an international conference on International Trade and Restructuring in Eastern Europe which took place in Laxenburg Austria on 19 and 21 November 1992 The Austrian National Bank joined IIASA to co sponsor the event Participants of the conference were experts of international economics and trade policy from East and West policy makers and representatives of international organizations like the IMF the Commission of the European Communities the OECD and the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development EBRD The papers prepared for the event and the lively discussions during the conference itself prove that the topics are intellectually challenging and timely for policy makers It has widely been recognized that international economic relations play a crucial role in the transition of countries of Central and Eastern Europe The scope speed and success of the efforts to transform the formerly centrally planned economies to market economies have increasingly become dependent on the pattern these countries have in their relation to the rest of the world Transition comprises three major processes macro stabilization marketization and restructuring The success of these three hinges to a large extent on the response of these economies to the new conditions set by international trade and exchange regimes

Transformation of Cities in Central and Eastern Europe F. E. Ian Hamilton,Kaliopa Dimitrovska Andrews,Nataša Pichler-Milanović,2005 Annotation This volume is one in a series initiated by the United Nations University Institute of Advanced Studies on the inter relationship between globalisation and urban transformation It identifies and describes the inter and intra urban transformations of Central and Eastern European cities and considers their pre 1945 historic legacies the socialist period and their contemporary transition towards market oriented and democratic systems The dramatic changes since 1989 including the collapse of Communist ideology the break up of the Soviet Union Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia the end of the Cold War and the impact of globalisation and European integration have reconfigured this region and affected their re integration into European and global networks This book first examines the similarities and differences between significant Central and Eastern European cities comparing the differing patterns of historical context and socialist legacies before 1990 and the impacts of internal and external forces on re shaping these cities and their paths of transformation since 1990 It also examines the role of contemporary planning within the overall development of Central and Eastern European cities The conclusion demonstrates the similarities and differences between Central and Eastern European cities and their re integration into global networks The Political Economy of Dual Transformations David L. Bartlett, 2010-05-06 In the early 1990s scholars voiced skepticism about the capacity of Eastern Europe s new democracies to manage simultaneous political and economic reform They argued that the surge of popular participation following democratization would thwart efforts by successor governments to enact market reforms that imposed high costs on major elements of post Communist society David Bartlett challenges the conventional wisdom regarding the hazards of dual transformations far from hindering marketization democratization facilitated it Bartlett argues that the transition to democracy in East Central Europe lowered the political barriers to market reforms by weakening the ability of actors most vulnerable to marketization to manipulate the existing institutional structure to stop or slow down the process Although the analysis focuses on Hungary whose long history of market reforms makes it an ideal vehicle for assessing the impact of institutional change on reform policy the author shows how his findings call into question the use of shock therapy and arguments based on the experience in East Asia that economic development and democratization are incompatible This book will appeal to economists political scientists and others interested in transition problems in formerly communist countries democratic transitions and the politics of stabilization and adjustment David L Bartlett is Assistant Professor of Political Science Vanderbilt University
