Environment And Development:

Environment and Development: An Economic Approach Jan Bojö, Karl-Göran Mäler, Lena Unemo, 2013-03-09 This book is the second edition of a text based on a report commissioned by the Swedish International Development Authority SIDA. The financial grant from SIDA which made the work possible is hereby gratefully acknowledged. There are already many books on the market about environmental economics, some of them very good. What is special about this one? We do not claim to have obtained new results but we have our own way of presenting the subject matter. In particular, we are of the opinion that policy failures are often overlooked as an obstacle to efficient environmental management. Although the main emphasis in this book is on project level analysis, it is essential that such analyses be linked to an understanding of the disincentives for environmental improvements that general economic and particular environmental policies provide. Another essential feature of the book, although this is not unique, is the links provided between theory and empirical illustrations. We hope that this will illustrate to our readers the practical usefulness but also the difficulties of applying economics to environmental problems. In particular, we hope that the text can be of interest to decision makers, development programme personnel, teachers, and the general public interested in how economics can contribute to better environmental decision making. In principle, this book can be read by anyone interested in the subject matter without any formal education in economics. However, some background in microeconomic theory makes the reading easier.

Women, the Environment and Sustainable Development Rosi Braidotti, International Research and Training Institute for the Advancement of Women, 1994. There is a widespread perception that the development process is in a state of multiple crisis. While the notion of sustainable development is supposed to address adequately its environmental dimensions, there is still no agreed framework relating women to this new perspective. This book is an attempt to present and disentangle the various positions put forward by major actors and to clarify the political and theoretical issues that are at stake in the debates on women, the environment, and sustainable development. Among the current critiques of the western model of development which the authors review are the feminist analysis of science itself and the power relations inherent in the production of knowledge. Women, Environment and Development. WED. Alternative Development. Environmental Reformism and Deep Ecology. Social Ecology and Ecofeminism. In traversing this important landscape of ideas, they show how they criticise the dominant developmental model at the various levels of epistemology, theory, and policy. The authors also go further and put forward their own ideas as to the basic elements they consider necessary in constructing a paradigmatic shift, emphasising such values as holism, mutuality, justice, autonomy, self-reliance, sustainability, and peace. This unique work is a signally useful contribution to clarifying thinking on a topic with immense implications for all women.

Uitto, 2021-03-30 This book provides novel and in depth perspectives on evaluating environment and sustainability issues in developing countries Evaluating Environment in International Development focuses on the approaches and experiences of leading international organizations not for profits and multilateral and bilateral aid agencies to illustrate how systematic evaluation is an essential tool for providing evidence for decision makers Moving beyond projects and programmes it explores normative work on the environment as well as environmental consequences of economic and social development efforts This new edition reflects on the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and Sustainable Development Goals and considers how they have influenced efforts in a wide range of countries and what the implications are for evaluation It also explores ways in which Big Data and geospatial approaches might be utilized Significantly updated throughout to reflect recent developments in climate change research and on the implications of the 2020 pandemic this volume will be of great interest to students and scholars of environment studies development studies international relations sustainable development and evaluation as well as practitioners in international organizations and development and environmental NGOs The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com/books/9781003094821> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Transformational Change for People and the Planet Juha I. Uitto, Geeta Batra, 2022-01-13 This Open Access book deals with the pressing question of how to achieve transformational change that reconciles development with environmental sustainability It particularly focuses on the role of evaluation in finding sustainable solutions Environment and development are closely interlinked as are human health and ecosystem health The pandemic that began in 2020 demonstrated in no uncertain terms how destruction of habitats has allowed hitherto unknown pathogens spill over to humans wreaking havoc on people's lives and livelihoods We are already seeing the impacts of global climate change in terms of heatwaves forest fires and increased storms The Sustainable Development Goals SDGs explicitly recognize the equal importance of the social economic and environmental dimensions of development In these turbulent times when humankind faces multiple complex challenges it is essential to know that our responses are effective and that they make a positive difference Evaluation can provide invaluable lessons to how we design policies strategies and programs and how we allocate limited resources between competing priorities This book brings together key thinkers and practitioners from the public and private sectors from major multilateral organizations and from bilateral donor agencies to present the latest knowledge and experience on how to evaluate interventions in the nexus of environment and development The book does not promote any particular approach or methodology but rather emphasizes the need for mixed methods to address the question at hand in the best and most suitable manner It covers cases from a variety of fields from climate change mitigation and adaptation energy efficiency and renewable energy natural resources management biodiversity conservation and more This book is not a conference proceedings although it has its roots in the Third International Conference on Evaluating Environment and Development organized by the GEF Independent Evaluation Office in October 2019 The conference brought together a larger number of established and upcoming evaluators researchers and evaluation users from the Global North and South representing a wide variety of organizations to discuss the frontiers of environment and development evaluation Following the conference the editors identified and contacted the participants who made key contributions at the conference and asked them to develop their ideas and papers into book chapters according to a coherent plan

The Rio Declaration on Environment and Development Jorge E. Viñuales, 2015 The 1992 Rio Declaration on Environment and Development provides 27 principles to guide future sustainable development This book is the first commentary on the Declaration investigating the origins development and impact of each of the 27 principles on the ways in which sustainable development has been encouraged through international law
