Environment And Resettlement Politics In China:

Environment and Resettlement Politics in China Gørild Heggelund, 2017-07-05 The Three Gorges dam currently being constructed on the Yangtze River in China is controversial both inside and outside China due to the population in the area and the environmental impacts Using material previously unavailable in any Western language it analyses the Chinese discussion and policy making for the resettlement process It also discusses the development aspects of resettling such a large population officially 1.2 million as well as assessing the actual and potential impact of resettlement on this population

Environment and Resettlement Politics in China Gørild Heggelund, 2017-07-05 The Three Gorges dam currently being constructed on the Yangtze River in China is controversial both inside and outside China particularly because of the large number of people to be resettled officially 1.2 million and the environmental impacts Using material previously unavailable in any Western language it analyses the Chinese discussions over policy making for the resettlement process and impacts It concludes that the environment and resettlement policies have been linked in a new way in this project However despite these positive developments it argues that the social impacts from resettlement have not yet reached a high level of political attention and that the Chinese authorities need to acknowledge that resettlement has social costs The book provides an understanding of the social political and economic factors of one of the largest and most controversial development projects currently being implemented It also sheds light on China's policy making procedures and political priorities over the past decade

Challenges Facing Chinese Political Development Sujian Guo, Baogang Guo, 2007-01-01 Examining the challenges of Chinese political development from a holistic perspective each of the authors emphasizes a particular dimension of political culture political economy foreign policy and environmental and social challenges

Environmental Activism in China Lei Xie, 2012-08-06 Major environmental degradation is a serious problem for China as the country's economy continues to grow at a phenomenal pace In recent years environmental organisations have begun to emerge in China and in some cases have had remarkable success in affecting policies which would have had significant adverse impacts on the environment This book based on extensive original research adopts a multi disciplinary research approach to examine environmental activism in China focusing on four cities It analyses the nature characteristics strategies organizational modes and influence of what could be labeled a Chinese environmental movement in the making In particular this volume highlights the specificities of Chinese environmental activism in an increasingly globalizing world along with a comparison to the environmental movement in Western Europe and North America

Political Science and Chinese Political Studies Sujian Guo, 2012-07-25 We have witnessed the substantial transformation of China studies particularly Chinese political studies in the past 30 years due to changes in China and its rising status in the world as well as changes in our ways of conducting research As area studies specialists we are no longer isolated from the larger disciplines of Political Science and International Relations IR but an integral part of them This book contains theoretically innovative contributions by distinguished political scientists from inside and outside China who together offer up to date overviews of the state of the field of Chinese political studies combines empirical and normative researches as well as theoretical exploration and case studies explore the relationship between Western political science scholarship and contemporary Chinese political studies examine the logic and methods of political science and their scholarly application and most recent developments in the study of Chinese politics and discuss the hotly contested and debated issues in Chinese political studies such as universality and particularity regularity and diversity scientification and indigenization main problems challenges opportunities and directions for the disciplinary and intellectual development of Chinese political studies in the context of rising China Global

Implications of Development, Disasters and Climate Change Susanna Price, Jane Singer, 2015-08-11 Displacements in the Asia Pacific region are escalating The region has for decades experienced more than half of the world's natural disasters and in recent years a disproportionately high share of extreme weather related disasters which displaced 19 million people in 2013 alone This volume offers an innovative and thought provoking Asia Pacific perspective on an intensifying global problem the forced displacement of people from their land homes and livelihoods due to development disasters and environmental change This book draws together theoretical and multidisciplinary perspectives with diverse case studies from around the region including China's Three Gorges Reservoir Japan's Fukushima disaster and the Pacific's Banaba resettlement Focusing on responses to displacement in the context of power asymmetries and questions of the public interest the book highlights shared experiences of displacement seeking new approaches and solutions that have potential global application This book shows how displaced peoples respond to interlinked impacts that unravel their social fabric and productive bases whether through sporadic protest organised campaigns empowered mobility or even community based negotiation of resettlement solutions The volume will be of great interest to researchers and postgraduate students in development studies environmental and climate change studies anthropology sociology human geography international law and human rights

Comparing Environmental Policies in 16 Countries David Howard Davis, 2013-12-13 Based on the author's 39 years of teaching environmental policy working in Washington and traveling Comparing Environmental Policies in 16 Countries offers a complete primer in environmental dilemmas and policies from a comparative perspective The book covers 16 countries according to five themes participation interest groups political parties China's Embedded Activism Peter Ho, Richard Edmonds, 2007-10-19 In recent years China has been remarkable in achieving extraordinary economic transformation yet without fundamental political change To many observers this would seem to imply a weakness in Chinese civil society However though the idea of democracy as multitudes of citizens taking to the streets may be attractive it is simultaneously misleading as it disregards the nature of political change taking place in China today a gradual shift towards a polity adapted to a pluralist society At the same time one may wonder what the limited political space implies for the development of a social movement in China This book explores this question by focusing on one of the most active areas of Chinese civil society the environment China's Embedded Activism argues that China's semi authoritarian limitations on the freedom of association and speech coupled with increased social spaces for civic action has created a milieu in which activism occurs in an embedded fashion The semi authoritarian atmosphere is restrictive of but paradoxically also conducive to nationwide collective action with less risk of social instability and repression at the hand of the governing elite Rich in case studies about environmental civic organizations in China and written by a team of international experts on social movements NGOs democratization and civil society this book addresses a wide readership of students scholars and professionals interested in development geography and environment political change and contemporary Chinese society Assessing Treaty Performance in China Pitman B. Potter, 2014-03-10 This volume outlines a new approach for understanding China's treaty performance around international standards on trade and human rights using the paradigms of selective adaptation and institutional capacity Selective adaptation reveals how local interpretation and implementation of international treaty standards are affected by normative perspectives derived from perception complementarity and legitimacy Institutional capacity explains how operational dimensions of legal performance are affected by structural and relational dynamics of institutional purpose location orientation and cohesion The author also offers policy suggestions for more effective engagement with China on trade and human rights issues The Political Economy of Hydropower in Southwest China and Beyond Jean-François Rousseau, Sabrina Habich-Sobiegallo, 2021-01-15 This book conceptualises the ongoing hydropower expansion in Southwest China as a socio political and transnational project transcending the construction of dams Chapters in this volume are organised around three sections spanning hydropower and resettlement governance rural livelihoods and international relations connected to China's hydropower expansion Dam projects of various scales are analysed as infrastructure projects that shape peoples livelihoods the environment and China's relations with Southeast Asia Africa and Latin America Ecoambiguity Karen Thornber, 2012-03-02 Delving into the complex contradictory relationships between humans and the environment in Asian literatures Development-Induced Displacement in India and China Florence Padovani, 2016-08-29 The world seems to have recently discovered India and China as major players in Asia and political and economic connections between the two countries are rapidly growing Beyond the fashionable phenomenon the two countries have much in common and many shared experiences Both are developing countries with dynamic economies focused on lifting their people out of poverty There are also differences as well as India is a democracy while China is an autocratic state and the speed of economic growth is much higher in India This collection provides a comparative analysis of development induced migration in India and China caused by urbanization and dam construction The contributors include scholars from both countries working in both academia and consultancy positions Human Societies Mark Q. Sutton, 2025-05-28 Human Societies A Brief Introduction succinctly covers the basic concepts of cultural anthropology in a way that is relevant and engaging to the introductory student Less time is spent on anthropological detail and more time on the relevance of anthropological understanding to the contemporary world The issues facing the contemporary Western world are also confronting the thousands of other societies The book deals with topics such as the variety of sexualities the thousands of religions how people adapt to their environments the ways people organize themselves the multitude of foods and cuisines adaptations to climate change refugees and migrants and the many different approaches to reproduction all topics to which students should already be generally aware Included are succinct chapters discussing personality adaptation social political and economic organization food and diet sex and gender religion and ritual and change and development The book also includes short Spotlight boxes that enlighten the reader about specific topics of interest as well as chapter summaries exercises key terms and a comprehensive glossary Human Societies A Brief Introduction is essential reading for undergraduate students taking their first steps into cultural and applied anthropology Chinese Ecocinema Sheldon H. Lu, Jiayan Mi, 2009-12-01 This anthology is a book length study of China s ecosystem through the lens of cinema Proposing ecocinema as a new critical framework the volume collectively investigates a wide range of urgent topics in today s world

Climate Change Discourse in China Sidan Wang, 2022-01-24 This book focuses on the politics discourse and actors surrounding climate change issues in China This framework offers a new way of observing Chinese discourses around climate change Discursive changes in coal consumption and air pollution have been raised to uncover the various motivations of China towards addressing climate issues This book will be of interest to a variety of different stakeholders including policy makers non state actors business communities and media and anyone who are interested in the climate governance of China

Dams, Migration and Authoritarianism in China Sabrina Habich, 2015-12-22 Past studies on the Chinese state point towards the inherent adaptability effectiveness and overall stability of authoritarian rule in China The key question addressed here is how this adaptive capacity plays out at the local level in China clarifying the extent to which local state actors are able to shape local processes of policy implementation This book studies the evolution of dam induced resettlement policy in China based on extensive fieldwork conducted in Yunnan province It shows that local governments at the lowest administrative levels are caught in a double bind facing strong top down pressures in the important policy field of hydropower development while simultaneously having to handle growing social pressure from local communities affected by resettlement policies In doing so the book questions the widespread assumption that the observed longevity and resilience of China s authoritarian regime is to a large extent due to the high degree of flexibility that has been granted to local governments in the course of the reform period The research extends beyond previous analyses of policy implementation by focusing on the state on society and the ways in which they interact as well as by examining what happens when policy implementation is interrupted Analysing the application of resettlement policies in contemporary China with a focus on the multiple constraints that Chinese local states face this book will be of interest to students and scholars of Political Science Chinese Studies and Sociology Humans Versus Nature Daniel R. Headrick, 2020 Since the appearance of Homo sapiens on the planet hundreds of thousands of years ago human beings have sought to exploit their environments extracting as many resources as their technological ingenuity has allowed As technologies have advanced in recent centuries that impulse has remained largely unchecked exponentially accelerating the human impact on the environment Humans versus Nature tells a history of the global environment from the Stone Age to the present emphasizing the adversarial relationship between the human and natural worlds Nature is cast as an active protagonist rather than a mere backdrop or victim of human malfeasance Daniel R Headrick shows how environmental changes epidemics climate shocks and volcanic eruptions have molded human societies and cultures sometimes overwhelming them At the same time he traces the history of anthropogenic changes in the environment species extinctions global warming deforestation and resource depletion back to the age of hunters and gatherers and the first farmers and herders He shows how human interventions such as irrigation systems over fishing and the Industrial Revolution have in turn harmed the very societies that initiated them Throughout Headrick examines how human driven environmental changes are interwoven with larger global systems dramatically reshaping the complex relationship between people and the natural world In doing so he roots the current environmental crisis in the deep past
