Environmental Permits:

Environmental Permits Donna Rona,2012-12-06 Environmental permits enable regulatory agencies to control the disturbance and degradation of the environment caused by man's activities. Created by governments through legislation, the permit processes are administered by elected officials. Environmental legislation is relatively new as an independent field of the law; the laws themselves are primarily a conglomeration of older legal doctrines from other fields of law modified and adapted for particular situations. Landau and Rheingold 1971. Like other laws, environmental laws are meant to serve and protect the rights and well-being of the public. However, like other laws, they have created confusion, a proliferation of costly paperwork, and some inequities. Numerous statutes dealing with most aspects of pollution exist at every level of government, so many in fact that they frequently conflict and overlap. These statutes establish a public policy toward polluters. They also empower the regulatory bodies that issue permits. It would be impossible to compile a list of requirements for each type of permit. Therefore, this book will acquaint the reader with the common aspects of environmental permits, their terminology, components, and application processes. This book covers the permit process from initial agency applicant contacts through application parts and procedures to application approval. Special emphasis has been placed on bringing together copies of laws and lists of agencies as appendices. The appendices give the reader easy access to materials that will help clarify the permit process.

Environmental & Economic Impact on Sustainable Development

J.L. Miralles i Garcia,2016-12-28 Delegates to the 3rd International Conference on Environmental and Economic Impact on Sustainable Development contributed the peer reviewed papers contained in this book The papers discuss the most serious problems affecting sustainable development They consider the impact of economic constraints on the environment taking into account the social aspects as well as the over use of natural resources

Uncontrolled development can also result in damage to the environment in terms of the release of toxic substances and hazardous waste. Thus attention is paid to issues related to whether some forms of development are compatible with environmental protection particularly in cases of possible serious contamination and toxicity. The focus in the book is on more constructive and progressive approaches to the problems discussed to ensure sustainability. The hope is that through the shared experiences of experts we can learn from past failure to avoid repeating similar mistakes while attempting to prevent emerging threats to the environmental and ecological systems. Fundamental to these concepts are an analysis of the inherent risks and the development of appropriate strategies. The papers in this book cover such topics as Environmental assessments, Environmental policies and planning, Water resources management, Natural resources management, Legislation and regulations, Development issues, Economic impact.

Nordic Environmental Permitting Processes Darpö, Jan, 2023-07-03

Available online <https://pub.norden.org/temanord2023/522>. Environmental permitting procedures have been in the focus of the public debate in all the Nordic countries for some years leading us to perform a study comparing the decision making procedures in the five Nordic countries. We focused on two scenarios for starting and changing industrial activities. First we describe environmental law, the permit procedure and system for supervision and enforcement in each country. Thereafter highlights are presented from two workshops with representatives from the administrations and different stakeholders in our countries. The discussion focuses on whether the environmental permitting systems are integrated or divided into different procedures, case processing time, time limited or eternal permits, changes in given permits and the relation between the permitting body and the supervising and enforcing authorities of the regulation in given permits.
