Environmental Psychology Directions And Perspectives:

Environmental Psychology Nickolaus R. Feimer, E. Scott Geller, 1983 Person-Environment Psychology W. Bruce Walsh, Kenneth H. Craik, Richard H. Price, 2000-05 A variety of theoretical approaches to person environment psychology has been developed over the years representing a rich range of intellectual perspectives This second edition links the past and present and looks toward the future in reviewing new directions and perspectives in person environment psychology Stated differently the main thrust of this volume is to present contemporary models and perspectives that make some sensible predictions concerning the individual and the environment using the person environment relationship Within a person environment framework these models and perspectives are concerned with how people tend to influence environments and how environments reciprocally tend to influence people Thus this second edition presents new directions in person environment psychology and the implications for theory research and application Environmental Psychology Fred van Staden, 1987 Environmental Psychology Mirilia Bonnes, Gianfranco Secchiaroli, 1995-08-11 This textbook provides a clear and comprehensive introduction to the rapidly expanding field of environmental psychology The authors start with a review of the history of environmental psychology highlighting its interdisciplinary nature They trace its roots in architecture ecology and geography and examine the continuing relationship of these subjects to the psychological tradition The book then moves through key contemporary lines of research in the field contrasting models from perception and cognition such as those of Gibson and Brunswick with major social psychological approaches as represented by Lewin Barker and others The book concludes with an analysis of the most promising areas of research and practice Human Territorial Functioning Ralph B. Taylor, 1988-08-26 Contrary to popular thought this study argues that territorial functioning is relevant only to limited locations such as street blocks and that it reduces conflicts and helps maintain settings and groups

Environmental Psychology Tony Cassidy, 2013-10-31 This text contains an up to date survey of theory research and practice in environmental psychology drawing on international literature It adopts the perspective that physical and social factors are inextricably linked in their influence on human behaviour and experience and that the world in which we live is changed and often damaged by human action Throughout the text the issues which are important in contemporary psychology such as levels of explanation methodological diversity and the relationship between psychology and other disciplines are brought to the fore The text covers established areas of environmental concern and also brings together research on rarely covered topics such as the effects of smell colour and light and the way in which physical environments influence social identity Handbook of Environmental Psychology Robert B. Bechtel, Arza Churchman, 2003-01-17 An international team of leading scholars explores the latest theories research and applications critical to environmental psychology Featuring the latest research and concepts in the field straight from the world's leading scholars and practitioners Handbook of Environmental Psychology provides a balanced and comprehensive overview of this rapidly growing field Bringing together contributions from an international team of top researchers representing a myriad of disciplines this groundbreaking resource provides you with a pluralistic approach to the field as an interdisciplinary effort with links to other disciplines Addressing a variety of issues and practice settings Handbook of Environmental Psychology is divided into five organized and accessible parts to provide a thorough overview of the theories research and applications at the forefront of environmental psychology today Part I deals with sharpening theories Part II links the subject to other disciplines Part III focuses on methods Part IV highlights applications and Part V examines the future of the field Defining the ongoing revolution in thinking about how the environment and psychology interact Handbook of Environmental Psychology is must reading for anyone coping directly with the attitudes beliefs and behaviors that are destroying our environment and putting our lives in jeopardy Topics include Healthy design Restorative environments Links to urban planning Contaminated environments Women s issues Environments for aging Climate weather and crime The history and future of disaster research Children s environments Personal space in a digital age Community planning

Handbook of Japan-United States Environment-Behavior Research Jack Demick,T. Takahashi,Seymour Wapner,C. Takiji Yamamoto,2013-11-11 This volume is an outgrowth of research on the relations between human beings and their environments which has developed internationally This development is evident in environment behavior research studies conducted in countries other than the United States See Stokols and Altman 1987 for examples of such work in Australia Japan France Germany the Netherlands Sweden the United King dom the former Soviet Union and Latin and North America The international development of this research area is also evident in the establishment of profes sional organizations in different countries such as the Environment Behavior De sign Research Association EDRA in the United States the Man Environment Research Association MERA in Japan the International Association for People En vironment Studies IAPS in Great Britain and the People and Physical Environ ment Research Association PAPER in Australia This volume focuses on environment behavior research within Japan and the United States as well as cross cultural studies involving both countries As we note in detail in Chapter 1 the conference on which the work presented herein is based was preceded by three Japan United States conferences on environment behavior research the first of which took place in Tokyo in 1980 As currently conceived the present volume stands alone as a compendium of a Significant proportion of cross cultural research on environment behavior relations in Japan and the United States that has been developing over the last 15 years As such we envision the volume as a basic interdisciplinary reference for anthropolgists archi tects psychologists SOCiologists urban planners and environmental geographers

Theoretical Perspectives in Environment-Behavior Research Seymour Wapner,Jack Demick,C. Takiji Yamamoto,Hiroufmi Minami,2012-12-06 Following upon the Handbook of Japan United States Environment Behavior Research published by Plenum in 1997 leading experts review the interrelationships among theory problem and method in environment behavior research The chapters focus on the philosophical and theoretical assumptions underlying current research and practice in the area and link those assumptions to specific substantive questions and methodologies

Decision-Making Groups and Teams Steven Silver, 2013-11-12 In recent years there has been increasing implementation of group and team decision making within organizations much of it managed electronically between members of what are virtual groups or teams Recent research into effective team implementation emphasizes trust as an intermediary process and trust must be a part of any account of team decision making This book provides an integrated framework that represents process in decision making by interactive groups and teams This framework furthers both our understanding of process and our capabilities in implementation based on an account of group decision making that differentiates the information types contributing to decision quality and relates them to process in interactive groups and teams Author Steve Silver emphasizes the social structure that is inherent in the interaction of decision makers as group or team members and effects on the information they exchange

Place Branding Pantea Foroudi, Chiara Mauri, Charles Dennis, T C Melewar, 2019-11-28 Place branding as a field of research is still in a state of infancy This book seeks to address this offering a theory of place branding based on the tourist experience keeping in mind the roles of stakeholders both public and private organisations and DMOs in managing the place brand Place Branding Connecting Tourist Experiences to Places seeks to build a customer based view of place branding through focusing on the individual as a tourist who travels to undertake a memorable experience The place is the key creator of this experience which begins well before the travel to and ends well after the travel back Individuals choose the places where to go collect information on them ask for advice and suggestions from fellow travellers give feedback when they come back and talk a lot about their experience spreading word of mouth The book enables readers to understand how the tourist experience can be managed as a brand Readers are exposed to a variety of problems methodological approaches and geographical areas which allows them to adapt frames to different contexts and situations This book is recommended reading for students and scholars of business marketing tourism urban studies and public diplomacy as well as practitioners business consultants and people working in public administration and politics

Root Shock Mindy Thompson Fullilove, 2016-10-24 Dr Mindy Thompson Fullilove a clinical psychiatrist exposes the devastating outcome of decades of urban renewal projects to our nation's marginalized communities Examining the traumatic stress of root shock in three African American communities and similar widespread damage in other cities she makes an impassioned and powerful argument against the continued invasive and unjust development practices of displacing poor neighborhoods

Understanding Concepts of Place in Recreation Research and Management, 2008 Over a 3 day weekend in the spring of 2004 a group of scientists interested in extending understanding of place as applied in recreation research and management convened a working session in Portland Oregon The purpose of the gathering was to clarify their understanding of place related concepts approaches to the study of people place relations and the application of that understanding in recreation management for the purpose of integrating perspectives from different disciplines discussing approaches to understanding and measuring sense of place and other questions around the study and application of place related concepts Topics that generated the most discussion included how social processes influence place meanings how place meanings are shared and negotiated within social groups and when and how place meanings and attachments focus reduce or avert conflict in natural resource planning and management This collection of papers is a result of that meeting General Technical Report PNW-GTR ,2008 Understanding Concepts of Place in Recreation Research and Management; Proceedings (2004) Linda E. Kruger,2010-10 In 2004 a group of scientists met to clarify their understanding of place related concepts approaches to the study of people place relations and the application of that understanding in recreation mgmt for the purpose of integrating perspectives from different disciplines discussing approaches to understanding and measuring sense of place and other questions around the study and application of place related concepts Topics that generated the most discussion included how social processes influence place meanings how place meanings are shared and negotiated within social groups and when and how place meanings and attachments reduce or avert conflict in natural resource planning and mgmt This collection of papers is a result of that meeting Corporate Assessment (Routledge Revivals) Adrian Furnham,Barrie Gunter,2015-06-11 Corporate Assessment first published in 1993 looks at four types of company audit and provides a pragmatic readable guide for managers The authors show how assessment of a company in terms of its culture climate communications and customers can enhance management vision and lead to recommendations designed to improve employee satisfaction motivation loyalty and performance Insight is provided into the kinds of measurement tools and assessment techniques that are available and the authors offer recommendations for the use of these instruments and how best to utilize the information they can produce This book will not only be of interest to managers who need to assess their companies but to students of business organizational psychology and human resource management Home Environments Irwin Altman,Carol M. Werner,2013-06-29 The present volume in the series focuses on homes residences and dwellings Although many fields have had a long standing interest in different aspects of home environments the topic has recently come to the forefront in the interdisciplinary environment and behavior field Researchers and theorists from many disciplines have begun to meet regularly share ideas and perspectives and move the investigation of psychological social and behavioral aspects of home environments to the central arena of environment and behavior studies This volume representative though not comprehensive attempts to provide a sampling of contemporary perspectives on the study of home environments As in previous volumes the authors are drawn from a variety of disciplines including environmental design fields of architecture and planning and from the social science fields of psychology sociology anthropology and history This diversity of authors and perspectives makes salient the principle that the study of homes in relation to behavior requires the contributions of many disciplines Moreover the chapters in this volume reflect an array of research and theoretical view points different scales of home environments e g objects and areas the home as a whole the home as embedded in neighborhood and communities etc design and policy issues and necessarily a comparative and cross cultural perspective Home environments are at the core of human life in most cultures and it is hoped that the contributions to this volume display the excitement potential and importance of research and theory on homes Equity Home Bias in International Finance Kavous Ardalan, 2019-05-17 This book provides a comprehensive and critical analysis of research outcomes on the equity home bias puzzle that people overinvest in domestic stocks relative to the theoretically optimal investment portfolio It introduces place attachment the bonding that occurs between individuals and their meaningful environments as a new explanation for equity home bias and presents a philosophically multi paradigmatic view of place attachment For the first time a comprehensive and up to date review of the extant literature is provided demonstrating that place attachment is a contributing factor to 22 different topics in which variations of home bias are present The author also analyses the social psychological underpinnings of place attachment and considers the effect of multiculturalism on the future of equity home bias The book's unique approach discusses the issues in conceptual terms rather than through data and statistical methods This multi and interdisciplinary book is an invaluable resource for graduate students and researchers interested in economics finance philosophy and or methodology introducing them to a new line of research Behavioral Business Ethics David De Cremer, Ann E. Tenbrunsel, 2012-03-12 This book looks at how and why individuals display unethical behavior It emphasizes the actual behavior of individuals rather than specific business practices It draws from work on psychology as Max Bazerman said efforts to improve ethical decision making are better aimed at understanding our psychological tendencies Environment, Space, Place: Volume 8, Issue 1 (Spring 2016) C. Patrick Heidkamp; Troy Paddock; Christine Petto, CONTENTS Victor COUNTED Making Sense of Place Attachment Towards a Holistic Understanding of People Place Relationships and Experiences ABSTRACT The article is an attempt to make sense of the different interdisciplinary perspectives associated with people's attachment to places with a view to construct a holistic template for understanding peopleplace relationships and experiences We took note of the theoretical contributions of Jorgensen a theory of evolved tastes such as that developed by Dennis Dutton and an aesthetics of evolving nature based on Carlson's positive aesthetics After exploring both theories I argue that while the two positions approach aesthetics from different directions they support similar aesthetic judgments concerning landscapes and this suggests that the two positions might be incorporated into a broader theory of evolutionary aesthetics That theory is briefly outlined and applied to both natural landscapes and parks Jeffrey B WEBB Watershed Redesign in the Upper Wabash River Drainage Area 1870 1970 ABSTRACT The Huntington Salamonie and Mississinewa reservoirs in northern Indiana control seasonal flooding in the Upper Wabash River drainage area They appeared in the 1960s after a long period of study and planning in response to large scale flooding in central and southern Indiana in the first half of the twentieth century Their construction disrupted the pattern of human ecology along the Wabash and its tributaries for many of the watershed's inhabitants Supporters touted the projects economic and recreational benefits while opponents experienced the change as a desecration of sacred space. The projects saved millions in property damage and perhaps many human lives but at the cost of an enduring sense of place amid the advent of a new regime of scientific watershed management and state control over natural resources in the region.

Winnie L. M. YEE Fashion Affect and Poetry in a Global City ABSTRACT Everyday life is a central theme of Hong Kong poetry. Many Hong Kong poets use the quotidian as a starting point for the exploration of history and alternative imaginings. This is a mundane focus unlike the colonial dreamscape of Hong Kong as an economic miracle allows writers to reflect upon Hong Kong as a post colonial and global space. The Hong Kong writer Natalia Chan examines the complex nature of everyday life within the space of the global and post colonial city. Chan's poems deal with the essence of everydayness and use commodities to conjure up the vivacity of the urbanscape of Hong Kong. Unlike the political and economic discourse that is usually used to define Hong Kong, Chan's work portrays Hong Kong as a city that offers the possibility of daily recreation against the background of history. In this article we will examine Chan's use of the circulation of commodities in the global world and explore the way fashion becomes a point where high and popular culture, private and public domains, and local and global interests clash, negotiate and fertilize each other. Chan's works do not conform to the economic and prosperity discourse that has repressed Hong Kong; rather she guides her readers to re-experience the everydayness of routines, to celebrate alternate ways of understanding the urbanscape and to open themselves to the potentialities of art and the everyday.

Emmanuel YEWAH African Documentaries: Films, Texts and Environmental Issues ABSTRACT This study draws from theoretical environmental debates as well as a selection of films, documentaries and texts to discuss Africans' approaches to environmental and ecological problems. Furthermore, it highlights the various strategies that Africans have developed in their attempts to provide holistic and much more comprehensive responses to environmental challenges. Informed by African indigenous knowledge, those strategies do involve community-based, micro-level initiatives, grassroots organizations, ancestral spirits and use local languages or lingua franca to educate as well as prod the people's consciousness about environmental and ecological issues.
