Global Climate Change Demystified James G. Speight, 2019-12-17 Tackling one of the most controversial subjects of our time one of the world's foremost environmental and petroleum engineers explores the potential causes and ramifications of global climate change For too many years climate change also referred to as global warming has been assigned predominantly to the emissions of carbon dioxide through the combustion of fossil fuels It must never be forgotten or ignored however that the Earth has been constantly changing since its formation and has gone through different eras like glaciations among others These changes need thousands of years to be made visible and are likely still continuing given the increase in the average temperature of the Earth since the pre industrial period provided that the measurements of past climatic temperatures are accurate and beyond reproach It follows that the warming trend that has occurred over the past 100 years is very likely to have some origins in natural events as well as in human activity The precise contributions of natural effects and anthropogenic effects on the climate are not known but it is accurate to conclude that many factors continue to influence climate Whether or not human activities have become a dominant force in the changing climate and are responsible for most of the warming observed is still open to question When studying the climate system of the Earth an area of common confusion is whether climate scientists agree or disagree as to whether or not climate change is happening or if it is happening whether or not humans are the primary cause There are a variety of reasons for this but a majority of scientists who study climate and publish in peer reviewed journals agree that human activity is causing the warming of the Earth The purpose of this book is to weigh all of these various data points and in a scientific and unemotional way arrive at likely conclusions regarding global climate change Whether human activity is the main driver behind our current changes in climate one thing is certain Climate change is happening and we all need to make informed rather than emotional decisions

Discovering Careers for Your Future Ferguson, 2009 Science and Citizens Melissa Leach, Ian Scoones, Brian Wynne, 2013-04-04 Rapid advances and new technologies in the life sciences such as biotechnologies in health agricultural and environmental arenas pose a range of pressing challenges to questions of citizenship This volume brings together for the first time authors from diverse experiences and analytical traditions encouraging a conversation between science and technology and development studies around issues of science citizenship and globalisation It reflects on the nature of expertise the framing of knowledge processes of public engagement and issues of rights justice and democracy A wide variety of pressing issues is explored such as medical genetics agricultural biotechnology occupational health and HIV AIDS Drawing upon rich case studies from Asia Africa Latin America and Europe Science and Citizens asks Do new perspectives on science expertise and citizenship emerge from comparing cases across different issues and settings What difference does globalisation make What does this tell us about approaches to risk regulation and public participation How might the notion

Rationality and the Environment Bo Elling, 2012-05-04

Environmental assessment and management involve the production of scientific knowledge and its use in decision making processes. The result is that within these essentially rational political assessment frameworks experts are creating and applying scientific knowledge for decision and management purposes that actually have strong ethical and aesthetic dimensions. Yet these rational political frameworks lack the tools to provide guidance on ethical and aesthetic issues that affect the wider public. This revolutionary work argues that ethical and aesthetic dimensions can only be brought into environmental politics and policies by citizens actively taking a stand on the specific matters in question. The author draws on Habermas' trisection of rationality as cognitive, instrumental, moral, practical and aesthetic, expressive to suggest that truly effective environmental policy needs to activate all three approaches and not favour only the rational. To achieve this objective, the author argues that public participation in environmental policy and assessment is necessary to counteract the dictatorship of technical and economic instrumentality in environmental policy, the failure to take ethical and aesthetic rationalities into account and more importantly how such policy is applied on the ground to shape our natural and material world. The Science and Technology of the Environment James G. Speight, 2022-10-27

Understanding current environmental issues requires having a critical eye to all information related to the release and distribution of chemicals into the environment. This new book offers scientists, researchers and students an essential understanding of natural environments and the way in which they function by providing clear explanations of the fundamental aspects of environmental science and technology from a multidisciplinary perspective. Written in a convenient and easy-to-read style, this volume covers the important aspects of environmental science and technology, focusing on the many issues that are related to the effects of chemical waste on various ecosystems as well as on pollutant mitigation and clean up. The volume discusses several key environmental problems such as pollution, ozone layer depletion, acid rain and global warming affecting the Earth's atmosphere, hydrosphere and geosphere over the past four decades. The author takes an interdisciplinary approach to explain the environmental conditions of earth affected by physical, chemical, biological and human interactions that transform and transport materials and energy. The Science and Technology of the Environment is a ready-at-hand guide to the many issues that are related to the effects of chemicals on various ecosystems as well as to pollutant mitigation and clean up that will be valuable to students at all levels as well as a refresher for scientists, researchers, policymakers and others.
