The Life Cycles of the Council on Environmental Quality and the Environmental Protection Agency James K. Conant, Peter J. Balint, 2016 In 1970 due to increasing public concern about the environment a dramatic series of bipartisan actions were taken to expand the national government's efforts to control pollutants In that year the Congress and President Nixon established two key federal agencies to address the nation's growing environmental problems the Council on Environmental Quality CEQ and the Environmental Protection Agency EPA But despite this initial recognition of the pressing problems presented by environmental degradation support for related policymaking and administration waxed and waned over the next thirty five years as other domestic and foreign policy problems rose to the top of the public and legislative agendas What does the future hold for environmental policy in the United States given the highly polarized politics surrounding the issue today In this book James K Conant and Peter J Balint examine what happened to the CEQ and EPA between 1970 and 2010 by using changes in leadership and budgetary resources as key indicators of the agencies vitality and capacity for implementing pollution control laws They also examine correlations between the agencies fortunes and various social political and economic variables The authors conclude with several scenarios about what the future holds for these important environmental agencies
