Defining the Urban Deljana Iossifova, Christopher N.H Doll, Alexandros Gasparatos, 2017-10-02 What is urban How can it be described and contextualised How is it used in theory and practice Urban processes feature in key international policy and practice discourses They are at the core of research agendas across traditional academic disciplines and emerging interdisciplinary fields However the concept of the urban remains highly contested both as material reality and imaginary construct The urban remains imprecisely defined Defining the Urban is an indispensable guide for the urban transdisciplinary thinker and practitioner Parts I and II focus on how Academic Disciplines and Professional Practices respectively understand and engage with the urban Included among others are Architecture Ecology Governance and Sociology Part III Emerging Approaches outlines

how elements from theory and practice combine to form transdisciplinary tools and perspectives Written by eminent experts in their respective fields Defining the Urban provides a stepping stone for the development of a common language a shared ontology in the disjointed fields of urban research and practice It is a comprehensive and accessible resource for anyone with an interest in understanding how urban scholars and practitioners can work together on this complex theme Perspectives on Environment and Behavior Daniel Stokols, 2013-11-11 The inception of this volume can be traced to a series of Environmental Psychology Colloquia presented at the University of California Irvine during the spring of 1974 These colloquia were held in conjunction with Social Ecology 252 a graduate seminar on Man and the Environment Although the eight colloquia covered a wide range of topics and exemplified a diversity of research techniques they seemed to converge on some common theoretical and methodological assumptions about the nature of environment behavioral research The apparent continuities among these colloquia suggested the utility of developing a manuscript that would provide a historical overview of research on environment and behavior a representation of its major concerns and an analysis of its conceptual and empirical trends Thus expanded versions of the initial presentations were integrated with a supplemental set of invited manuscripts to yield the present volume of original contributions by leading researchers in the areas of ecological and environmental psychology

Domestic Architecture and the Use of Space Susan Kent, 1993-06-25 Domestic Architecture and the Use of Space investigates the relationship between the built environment and the organisation of space The contributors are classical and prehistoric archaeologists anthropologists and architects who from their different backgrounds are able to provide some important and original insights into this relationship

Designing for Therapeutic Environments David Canter, Sandra Canter, 2025-09-01 Originally published in 1979 Therapeutic Environments brings together a set of previously unpublished accounts of studies by internationally recognized experts in North America and Britain of the full range of places which are designed to facilitate the processes of healing caring and helping The papers have been collected and edited by David Canter an Environmental Psychologist who has published a number of books on people and buildings and Sandra Canter a Clinical Psychologist who has published previously on the determinants of personality and the effect of vitamins During the previous two decades there had been a growing outcry in both Europe and North America against the environments in which society housed those undergoing treatment or requiring care and attention Clearly institutions should not make their inmates worse and the consensus of opinion at the time was that if they were not actually making people worse the caring buildings certainly were not helping to make them better In response to this awakened desire to produce physical environments which contributed positively to the therapeutic process this book drew together specially commissioned papers written by those who had been actively involved in studying or creating therapeutic environments both in Britain and America Forming a unique overview of the present state of thought and action in this increasingly important area of design Therapeutic Environments was an important work of reference not only for clinical community and environmental psychologists but for all social work groups and aware architects with an active interest in the planning and operation of environments with a specialist caring responsibility This book is a re issue originally published in 1979 The language used is a reflection of its era and no offence is meant by the Publishers to any reader by this re publication
