Enslaved A Mystery:

Enslaved Ron Burns, 1994 In a fact based historical mystery Army officer Harrison Hull is asked by Thomas Jefferson to investigate the disappearance of two slaves from Jefferson's nephew's plantation an investigation that leads Hull into extreme danger and some shocking revelations The Mysterious Black Migration 1800-1820 L. Lloyd

Stewart, 2013-01-22 The story that unfolds in this work manifests the pursuit of one of the many historical mysteries that plague the early history of people of African descent in New York State a mass migration of thousands of African descendants to Washington County New York at the turn of the 19th century The impact of this devalued history and its absence from the historical record has distorted the recollection and remembrance of people of African descent in New York whose ancestors were trapped in the confinement of enslavement and second class citizenship This unrecorded migration transpired while New York was beginning to alter its highly profitable economic system from an enslavement based economy to a more capitalist system of production They journeyed to Washington County families and expectations in tow under the suggestion of a rumor of opportunity and anticipation that a better life was possible for them at the end of this arduous journey Newly disposed of the day to day dehumanizing nature of enslavement they struggled to find a more sustainable prosperous and humane way of life The correlation between my family the Van Vrankens and the thousands of other individuals of African descent who migrated to Washington County during this period is the personal festering wound of omission that is still not healed or resolved This work is a continuing byproduct of genealogical research begun by the author in 2000 It represents the second in a series of books relating to his families experiences in early New York The first Book A Far Cry From Freedom Gradual Abolition 1799 1827 New York States Crime Against Humanity was published in 2006 The Mysterious Voodoo Queen, Marie Laveaux Ina J. Fandrich, 2005-04-21 This study investigates the emergence of powerful female leadership in New Orleans Voodoo tradition It provides a careful examination of the cultural historical economic demographic and socio political factors that contributed both to the feminization of this religious culture and its strong female leaders Mysteries of Sex Mary P. Ryan, 2009-01-06 In a sweeping synthesis of American history Mary Ryan demonstrates how the meaning of male and female has evolved changed and varied over a span of 500 years and across major social and ethnic boundaries She traces how at select moments in history perceptions of sex difference were translated into complex and mutable patterns for differentiating women and men How those distinctions were drawn and redrawn affected the course of American history more generally Ryan recounts the construction of a modern gender regime that sharply divided male from female and created modes of exclusion and inequity The divide between male and female blurred in the twentieth century as women entered the public domain massed in the labor force and revolutionized private life This transformation in gender history serves as a backdrop for seven chronological chapters each of which presents a different problem in American history as a quandary of sex Ryan's bold analysis raises the possibility that perhaps if understood in their variety and mutability the differences of sex might lose the sting of inequality A Secret among the Blacks John D. Garrigus,2023-09-19 John D Garrigus provides a profound historical corrective showing that enslaved Blacks in Saint Domingue were hardly complacent before the Haitian Revolution While scholars have looked beyond the island s shores for the forces that inspired rebellion Garrigus documents African resistance and political organizing decades before the 1791 revolt Masterpieces of Mystery Joseph Lewis French,1922 Famous Mystery Stories Joseph Walker McSpadden,1922 Sophistry and Twentieth-Century Art Haim Gordon,Rivca Gordon,2021-12-06 This book deals with a rejection of the widespread fakes that have emerged in twentieth century art which we call by their Platonic name sophistry The book also presents brief descriptions of some of the ideas of Martin Heidegger and Nicolas Berdyaev as to what constitutes a beautiful work of art and how an authentic relation to the beauty in a work of art enhances human existence True to Our Native Land, Second Edition Brian K. fieldwork at the Dominican Haitian border she gives a firsthand look at how Dominicans are resisting the official account of their national identity and instead embracing the African influence that has always been part of their cultural heritage Building on the work of theorists ranging from Edward Said to douard Glissant this book expands our understanding of how national and racial imaginaries develop why they persist and how they might be subverted As it confronts Hispaniola s dark legacies of slavery and colonial oppression The Dominican Racial Imaginary also delivers an inspiring message on how multicultural communities might cooperate to disrupt the enduring power of white supremacy Sacred Mysteries

Kelly Ross,2022-12-09 Slavery Surveillance and Genre in Antebellum United States Literature argues for the existence of deep often unexamined interconnections between genre and race by tracing how surveillance migrates from the literature of slavery to crime gothic and detective fiction Attending to the long history of surveillance and policing of African Americans the book challenges the traditional conception of surveillance as a top down enterprise equally addressing the tactics of sousveillance watching from below that enslaved people and their allies used to resist escape or merely survive racial subjugation Examining the dialectic of racialized surveillance and sousveillance from fugitive slave narratives to fictional genres focused on crime and detection the book shows how these genres share a thematic concern with the surveillance of racialized bodies and formal experimentation with ways of telling a story in which certain information is either rendered visible or kept hidden Through close readings of understudied fugitive slave narratives published in the 1820s and 1830s as well as texts by Edgar Allan Poe Herman Melville Frederick Douglass Hannah Crafts and Harriet Jacobs Ross analyzes the different ways white and black authors take up these issues in their writing from calming white fears of enslaved rebellion to abolishing slavery and demonstrates how literary representations ultimately destabilize any clear cut opposition between watching from above and below In so doing the book demonstrates the importance of race to surveillance studies and claims a greater role for the impact of surveillance on literary expression in the US during the era of slavery

Going Underground Lara Langer Cohen,2022-12-16 First popularized by newspaper coverage of the Underground Railroad in the 1840s the underground serves as a metaphor for subversive activity that remains central to our political vocabulary In Going Underground Lara Langer Cohen excavates the long history of this now familiar idea while seeking out versions of the underground that were left behind along the way Outlining how the underground's figurative sense first took shape through the associations of literal subterranean spaces with racialized Blackness she examines a vibrant world of nineteenth century US subterranean literature that includes Black radical manifestos anarchist periodicals sensationalist exposés of the urban underworld manuals for sex magic and the initiation rites of secret societies Cohen finds that the undergrounds in this literature offer sites of political possibility that exceed the familiar framework of resistance suggesting that nineteenth century undergrounds can inspire new modes of world making and world breaking for a time when this world feels increasingly untenable
