Entrepreneurs in Red Kalman Rupp,1982      Entrepreneurs in Red Kalman Rupp,1983-01-01      The Second Economy in Marxist States Maria Los,2016-01-13 This book analyses and compares the unofficial economies and their control in ten marxist states the USSR Poland Hungary Romania Yugoslavia Cuba Nicaragua China Angola and Tanzania It provides a vivid mosaic like panorama of the hidden economies in these countries The book breaks with the view that the unofficial economy is simply a by product of the official economy It shows an unfolding interplay between these two economies which moulds and limits both the dynamics and the direction of the process of change In her final essay Maria Los develops a theoretical model linking second economies with the process of marxist economic development The key stages of this process are identified as 1 The stage of radical transformation 2 The monopolisation period 3 The reformist phase and 4 Post reformist decadence The volume throws a new light on the prospects and problems of the reformist movements which have swept the Soviet Union China and several other marxist states in the 1980s      Business Leaders and New Varieties of Capitalism in Post-Communist Europe Katharina Bluhm,Bernd Martens,Vera Trappmann,2013-09-23 Business leaders exert extraordinary influence on institution building in market economies but they think and act within institutional settings This book combines both an elite approach with a varieties of capitalism approach Comparing Poland Hungary and East and West Germany we perceive the transformations in East Central Europe and in Germany after 1989 as being intertwined Based on a joint survey this book seeks to measure the level of the convergence of ideas among European business leaders assuming it to be more extensive than the institutional convergence expected under the dominance of neoliberal discourse Analyzing the institutional framework organizational features like size ownership and labour relations and subjective characteristics like age social origin career patterns and attitudes of the recent business elites we found significant differences between countries and the types of organization The growing importance of economic degrees and internationalization shows astonishingly little explanatory power on the views of business leaders The idea of a coordinated market economy is still relatively widespread among Germans while their Hungarian and Polish counterparts are more likely to display a minimalist view of corporate responsibility to society and adverse attitudes towards employee representation However their attitudes frequently tend to be inconsistent which mirrors the mixed type of capitalism in East Central Europe      Managing Relationships in Transition Economies Nancy K. Napier,David C. Thomas,2004-02-28 The transition from socialist or communist economy to market economy in many countries has been dramatic unpredictable and mostly on the surface observable in new consumption patterns or higher standards of living But deeper change in the managerial mindset in these new market economies has been much slower and less evident It is crucial to business success for foreign managers to understand their transition economy counterparts This book examines the interactions that foreign and transition economy managers have in building business relationships the influences behind those interactions how the interactions themselves change over time and how to manage the process of building relationships more smoothly      Market and Plan under Socialism Jan S. Prybyla, 2019-11-07 In this volume the author provides an analysis of the centrally planned socialist state economies and their common percentage in the Stalinist Plan introduced in the Soviet Union in the late 1920s Prybyla first explores the neoclassical plan in two variants conservative and liberal the radical plan Maoplan and the Yugoslav experiment neomarket Yugoplan He then examines specific countries as their governments search for alternative solutions to the economic problems that plague them His dynamic presentation of the economic models clearly shows the transformation of the original Stalinist model reveals the obstacles to reform created by the structural problems that exist within these economies and demonstrates that inherent deficiencies within the systems must in time affect growth and balance

Populating No Man's Land János Mátyás Kovács, 2018-09-15 This edited volume opening the new series Revisiting Communism Collectivist Economic Thought in Historical Perspective focuses on the concepts of ownership the cornerstone of political economy in Soviet type societies The authors main objective is to contribute to the still unwritten chapter on collectivism in the history books of modern economic thought They trace the lengthy evolution of economic ideas of property reform under communism leading from the doctrine of blanket nationalization to projects of moderate privatization in eight countries of Eastern Europe and China The comparative analysis sheds light upon the tireless attempts of reform minded economists in communist countries to populate the no man's land of social property with quasi private economic actors such as bodies of workers self management and managers of state owned companies For a long time these were expected to crowd out the communist nomenklatura from its actual ownership position without challenging the primacy of collective property rights The fact that even the most radical reformers came to the conclusion that such surrogate owners would not be able to break the power of the ruling elite only on the eve of the 1989 revolutions demonstrates the immense strength of collectivist ideas The authors coin the term trap of collectivism to warn those demanding nationalization or other forms of non private ownership today it is rather easy even with the best intentions to walk into this trap but it may take long decades to break out from it      Crisis and Reform in Eastern Europe Ferenc Fehér, Andrew Arato, Communism in Eastern Europe is in crisis Its dimensions are social and economic its manifestation is political This volume a collection of essays by leading authorities describes the symptoms of the crisis diagnoses the causes of the malady and offers alternative scenarios for therapy A unique dimension of this collection is its avoidance of one dimensional explanations The contributors approach the subject from very different angles and start from very distinct sociopolitical premises The volume includes original accounts of unexplored aspects of East European communism as well as classic interpretations of the economic crisis and social stagnation that characterize the area Contributions not only examine the sociopolitical behavior of the ruling apparatus but also analyze its strategies political culture and the opposition Both the professional and the general reader seeking more information about Eastern Europe will find this volume an extensive in depth portrait of the current situation in what many observers predict may develop into the major area of tension in post World War II Europe Ferenc Feher a collaborator and friend of George Lukacs was a leading member of the Budapest School Forced into exile in 1977 he was taught in Australia and is now in New York at the New School for Social Research He has published widely in several languages on the philosophy of art political theory and history East European Fault Lines Janusz Bugajski,2019-04-10 This book provides a comparative analysis of oppositionist trends in the Soviet satellite states of contemporary Eastern Europe It evaluates the extent and objectives of independent social activism in these countries and explores both the causes and effects of public dissent Domesticating Revolution Gerald W. Creed,2010-11-01 The collapse of state socialism in 1989 focused attention on the transition to democracy and capitalism in Eastern Europe But for many people who actually lived through the transition the changes were often disappointing In Domesticating Revolution Gerald Creed explains this unexpected outcome through a detailed study of economic reforms in one Bulgarian village Crisis and Reform in Eastern Europe Ferenc Feher,2020-02-13 Communism in Eastern Europe is in crisis Its dimensions are social and economic its manifestation is political This volume a collection of essays by leading authorities describes the symptoms of the crisis diagnoses the causes of the malady and offers alternative scenarios for therapy A unique dimension of this collection is its avoidance of one dimensional explanations The contributors approach the subject from very different angles and start from very distinct sociopolitical premises The volume includes original accounts of unexplored aspects of East European communism as well as classic interpretations of the economic crisis and social stagnation that characterize the area Contributions not only examine the sociopolitical behavior of the ruling apparatus but also analyze its strategies political culture and the opposition Both the professional and the general reader seeking more information about Eastern Europe will find this volume an extensive in depth portrait of the current situation in what many observers predict may develop into the major area of tension in post World War II Europe The Political and Social Construction of Poverty Romano, Serena,2014-01-29 Poverty is not a neutral phenomenon nor are social inclusion programmes neutrally conceived designed and implemented Their ultimate nature is built upon ideas values actors politics and economic constraints This topical book is one of the first to examine the social and political construction of anti poverty programmes in Central Eastern Europe and their transformation from communist rule to the current economic crisis It covers the approach towards the parasite poor through to Guaranteed Minimum Income Schemes and illustrates how the distinction between different categories of deserving and undeserving poor has evolved over the years as the result of changing paradigms combined with the pressure exerted by domestic and international actors the European Union and the World Bank among others This text breaks new ground for social policy students and scholars interested in understanding how differently post communist welfare states have represented legitimised and dealt with poverty need and social justice in accordance with divergent normative frameworks constructed at national level The State in Socialist Society Neil Harding,1984-01-01 The focus of all the essays in this collection is the problem of state power in Communist regimes. The problematic nature of the relationship between state and society has troubled the marxist tradition since its inception and continues to be an unresolved issue for its contemporary theorists. Western attempts to characterise the state formations of Communist regimes are equally notoriously debatable and fraught with methodological problems. Both indigenous and Western attempts to theorise these formations are thoroughly reviewed in the early chapters of this book. Later chapters each written by an expert in the field go on to explore particular issues: the problem of nationalism within a multi national state for instance or the recent experience of selected Communist regimes in attempting to adapt their institutions to meet new problems. Special attention is paid to the USSR in view of the enormous significance of the Soviet State and the extent to which it has served as a model. Other case studies have been included on the basis that these state formations display unique features. Yugoslavia that size and importance commends them. China or that failure in the process of institutional adaptation is instructive for their pathology. Poland. What this book sets out to do is to bring a variety of approaches and a varied expertise to bear upon a very large but relatively neglected issue in contemporary politics: the nature of the state formations of Communist regimes.

The Political Economy of State-Society Relations in Hungary and Poland Anna Seleny, 2006-02-13. This book shows how Hungary and Poland led the transformations that brought down Communism.

Productivity: a Selected Annotated Bibliography, 1990. Bulletin of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, 1990. Productivity, 1990. Area Wage Survey, 1990. Chinese Entrepreneurs in the Economic Development of China Rashid Malik, 1997-11-20. The entrepreneurs of China are contributing positively to economic development but unlike Western entrepreneurs are uncertain about their position and government policies. This text examines how the Chinese Communist Party is making room for entrepreneurs and consumers in the economic arena.

The Logic of the Planned Economy Pawel H. Dembinski, 1991. This timely book examines and seeks to explain the inner contradictions of centrally planned economies and shows how the seeds of their collapse had existed within the system from the very start. The author shows how the orthodox ideological principles of the system rendered it inflexible and incapable of reform and thus unable to transform itself into an efficient modern economy. Though the system as such has ceased to exist it is as yet only the rules that have disappeared: the system's components continue to exist and the author argues a proper understanding of the origins and previous functions of each component is necessary if it is to be integrated into the new system.
