Environmental Policies And Ngo Influence:

Environmental Policies and NGO Influence Susan Carr, David Humphreys, Alan Thomas, 2013-01-11 This book examines the conditions under which non governmental organisations NGOs may exert influence on policies to conserve and sustainably use natural resources in sub Saharan Africa The book is unique in bringing together NGO campaigners in three African countries with academics specialising in development studies systems and environmental policy Environmental Policy in an International Context Andrew Blowers, Pieter Glasbergen, 1996-05-31 This volume examines the environmental issues currently under debate in the international arena The text approaches the topic at a conceptual level and from an interdisciplinary viewpoint It analyses the roles of key players in environmental policy the nation state non governmental organizations and the business community It continues with an examination of the importance of international relations trade east west north south and goes on to consider the prospects for sustainable development and social changes required for sustainable development to become a reality Environmental Policies and NGO Influence Alan Thomas, Susan Carr, David Humphreys, 2001 Global Environmental Change Programme NGOs and Environmental Policies David Potter, 2005-06-28 Covering the work of non governmental organizations in trying to change the environmental policies of governments and business organizations this study looks at field research in Asia and Africa and relates it to theoretical issues in the academic field Understanding Environmental Policy Processes James Keeley, 2014-10-14 A critical analysis of the post Rio consensus on environment and development which questions the role of particular forms of internationalized elite scientific expertise It asks why certain understandings of environmental change stick with such tenacity In exploring this the authors unravel the politics of knowledge surrounding policymaking looking particularly at Ethiopia Mali and Zimbabwe and their land and soils management The book also looks at prospects for more inclusive participatory forms of policymaking NGO Diplomacy Michele M. Betsill, Elisabeth Corell, 2007-10-05 Provides an analytical framework for assessing the impact of NGOs on intergovernmental negotiations on the environment and identifying the factors that determine the degree of NGO influence with case studies that apply the framework to negotiations on climate change biosafety desertification whaling and forests Over the past thirty years nongovernmental organizations NGOs have played an increasingly influential role in international negotiations particularly on environmental issues NGO diplomacy has become in the words of one organizer an international experiment in democratizing intergovernmental decision making But there has been little attempt to determine the conditions under which NGOs make a difference in either the process or the outcome of international negotiations This book presents an analytic framework for the systematic and comparative study of NGO diplomacy in international environmental negotiations Chapters by experts on international environmental policy apply this framework to assess the effect of NGO diplomacy on specific negotiations on environmental and sustainability issues The proposed analytical framework offers researchers the tools with which to assess whether and how NGO diplomats affect negotiation processes outcomes or both and through comparative analysis the book identifies factors that explain variation in NGO influence including coordination of strategy degree of access institutional overlap and alliances with key states The empirical chapters use the framework to evaluate the degree of NGO influence on the first phase of the Kyoto Protocol negotiations on global climate change the Cartagena Protocol on Biosafety the United Nations Convention to Combat Desertification negotiations within the International Whaling Commission that resulted in new management procedures and a ban on commercial whaling and international negotiations on forests involving the United Nations the International Tropical Timber Organization and the World Trade Organization Contributors Steinar Andresen Michele M Betsill Stanley W Burgiel Elisabeth Corell David Humphreys Tora Skodvin

Global Challenges Angela Churie-Kallhauge, Gunnar Sjöstedt, Elisabeth Corell, 2017-09-08

The World Summit on Sustainable Development WSSD in Johannesburg 2002 was the latest conference in an international process to manage environment and development issues that can be traced back to the late 1960s Three milestones mark this 30 year process of social and political interaction the United Nations Conference on the Human Environment UNCHE held in Stockholm in 1972 the first international meeting at a high political level convened to address environmental issues the 1992 United Nations Conference on Environment and Development UNCED held in Rio de Janeiro and the WSSD which attempted to set policy goals and targets for the global environmental and developmental challenges previously identified But what did the WSSD achieve Following the summit there have been various opinions of its significance and its outputs many of them negative This book argues that there is a need to place the WSSD in its broader context Understanding the connections between the WSSD and its precedents as well as those between this overall process and individual environmental decision making processes such as on climate change and how they all contribute to the overall global policy process adds a critical dimension to the analysis of the WSSD outcomes This book examines the challenges facing the global policy process for sustainable development as it continues beyond Johannesburg into the future It combines a forward outlook with a historical perspective in tracing the evolution of selected cross cutting themes on the agenda of the three conferences the institutions and formal results of the process and the actors and their patterns of interaction over time The focus is on the decision making dimension the multilateral negotiations which can be seen as the development over time of a pattern of interlinked political activities Global Challenges has four operational objectives first to define the ongoing process that formally began with the Stockholm Conference in 1972 and evolved towards its latest major manifestation at the WSSD second to present some dynamics of the Stockholm Rio Johannesburg SRJ process by exploring the themes identified third to introduce an approach on how to consider the outcomes of this process as a way of reflecting on what the process has actually accomplished and finally to discuss lessons learned for theory and practice from this exercise The practical lessons include reflections on how the continued SRJ process should best be organised and supported into the future The book takes a uniquely broad outlook and interdisciplinary approach in addressing important lessons relating to the emergence of substantive issues as well as to process and institutional dynamics It is a bridge building exercise from academic analysis to long term strategic thinking in environmental regime building Global Challenges provides a new perspective on the continuing and increasingly complex global environment and development policy process and analyses the interlinkages between the process trends and cross cutting issues that set the conditions for the global efforts to achieve sustainable development It will be essential reading for academics and practitioners interested in seeing the big picture of the global challenges facing people and planet in the 21st century

The Politics of Environmental Policy in Russia David Lewis Feldman,Ivan Blokov,2012-01-01 A fresh and up to date discussion of Russia s manifold environmental crises using the results of an elite survey and a framework based on the civil society literature I believe this is the best treatment of its subject that is presently available and given Russia s enormous territorial extent it is a study that has important implications for everyone who has any concern for the future of Planet Earth Stephen White University of Glasgow UK In recent years international inter governmental entities have acknowledged the importance of civil society for engaging stakeholders in environmental change especially at the local community level and in promoting democracy In Russia efforts by NGOs to promote reform since the fall of the Soviet Union have been aimed at achieving both objectives This fascinating and highly illuminating book explores the political legal and attitudinal barriers to environmental reform in Russia since 1991 The authors renowned experts in the field explore efforts to develop a mature civil society in Russia and analyse the policy views of environmental groups the media and the scientific community Three important case studies underpin the study suspended plans to build an oil pipeline near Lake Baikal management of Cold War generated radioactive waste at Chelyabinsk and public reaction to the introduction of genetically modified foods The conclusion is that although civil society groups face obstacles in the form of apathy state imposed constraints on their activities and agency reluctance to confer on decisions there are some successes in reversing decisions due in part to NGO pressures yielding reform This path breaking book will be of enormous interest to scholars researchers and students focusing on comparative environmental policy and politics contemporary public policy in Russia and international politics

The Oxford Handbook of Comparative Environmental Politics Jeannie Lynn Sowers, Stacy D. VanDeveer, Erika Weinthal, 2023 Including 42 chapters organized across 9 sections The Oxford Handbook of Comparative Environmental Politics explores some of the most important environmental issues through the lens of comparative politics including energy climate change food health urbanization waste and sustainability The chapters delve into more traditional forms of comparative environmental politics CEP the political economy of natural resources and the role of corporations and supply chains while also showcasing new trends in CEP scholarship particularly the comparative study of environmental injustice and intersectional inequities The Handbook highlights scholarship from a broader range of regions and includes approaches from political science anthropology sociology geography gender theory law human rights and development studies

Global Environmental Politics Pamela S. Chasek, David L. Downie, Jen Iris Allan, 2025-09-25 Global Environmental Politics has provided an accurate up to date and unbiased understanding of the world s most pressing environmental issues for more than thirty years This ninth edition continues this practice by covering critical new developments in global environmental politics and policymaking Updated case studies on key issues such as climate change endangered species ozone depletion land degradation and desertification marine biodiversity in areas beyond national jurisdiction whaling hazardous wastes toxic chemicals mercury and biodiversity detail the ongoing development of major environmental treaty regimes and a new case study on plastic pollution showcases the challenges of creating new treaties during a period of significant global change There is also new material on the challenges to implementing the Sustainable Development Goals the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development the World Trade Organization s agreement on fisheries subsidies and the use of the International Court of Justice to improve compliance with environmental agreements Updated information about global environmental trends paradigms and actors completes this comprehensive introduction to contemporary international environmental politics Global Environmental Politics is vital reading for students of environmental politics and anyone wishing to understand the current state of the field and to make informed decisions about which policies will best safeguard our environment for the future

Ngo Influence on Forest Legislation Ramon Bravo Gonzalez, 2010-08 In the last two decades a concern on how federal forests in the United States are managed has provoked concerns among different stakeholders including NGOs The purpose of this thesis is to contribute to the understanding of NGO influence on forest management legislation Eight aspects were selected and compared in different study cases referring to legislative proposals dealing with forest management in order to define success criteria for a legislative initiative The study indicates that the following criteria are particularly important to fulfill in order to influence forest management legislation The issue to address should be on the political agenda and have high public interest Environmental and social aspects should not be at the expense of economic aspects The legislative initiative should be prepared in multi stakeholder processes including local government and organizations The supporters of the initiative should take part in all decision making processes and advise the Government in aspects related to their areas of expertise NGOs would likely improve their chances of influencing forest management legislation if they hold a flexible position regarding legislative proposals containing similar or even less strict measures than their own initiatives look at market oriented schemes as alternatives to legislation and maintain good relationships with other major stakeholders
