Industrial Pollution Prevention Thomas T. Shen,2013-06-29 Sustainable economic development is necessary to improve the standard of living and quality of life in the developing countries It is also required to maintain or enhance their attributes for those lands already commercially developed Past experience indicates that one of the most important elements in the economic growth is the development of industry It should be also recognized that developing industry if pursued according to the traditional means entails the additional inefficient consumption of limited national resource and generation of large amount of residue that called industrial pollution In general industry has three generations of pollution problems The first generation pollution problem is from the manufacturing facilities The second generation pollution problem is related to the use of the products after leaving the site of manufacturing The final disposal of the used or unused products represents the third generation pollution problem for industry The traditional way of controlling pollution by industry is building costly waste treatment facilities added on to the end of manufacturing processes Industry also has to commit continuous funding to maintain and operate these facilities for their entire life span The waste treatment facilities were supposed to solve the manufacturing related pollution problem for industry i.e. the first generation problem In fact these facilities in accordance to the Law of Conservation do not make the pollution disappear
