EnviroPOP Studies In Environmental Rhetoric And Popular Culture:

EnviroPOP Mark Meister, Phyllis M. Japp, 2002-09-30 Although much scholarly and critical attention has been paid to the relationship between rhetoric and environmental issues media and environmental issues and politics and environmental issues no book has yet focused on the relationship between popular culture and environmental issues This collection of essays provides a rigorous and multifaceted rhetorical and critical perspective on the ways in which the language and imagery of nature is incorporated strategically into various popular culture texts ranging from greeting cards to advertisements to supermarket tabloids As a distinguished group of scholars reveals our notions about the environment and environmentalism are both reflected in and shaped by our popular culture in fascinating ways never previously examined in an academic context The consumptive vision of nature presented in these texts represents a wholly American view one promoting leisure and comfort and nature as the place to experience them This good life attitude toward the environment often serves to commodify it to render it little more than space in which to pursue conventional notions of the American dream As such the volume represents a bold and striking vision both of popular culture and of popular notions of an environment that can be either protected or just simply consumed Environment, Media, and Popular Culture in Southeast Asia Jason Paolo Telles, John Charles Ryan, Jeconiah Louis Dreisbach, 2022-05-30 This book addresses the increasingly important subject of ecomedia by critically examining the interconnections between environment ecology media forms and popular culture in the Southeast Asian region exploring methods such as textual analysis thematic analysis content analysis participatory ethnography auto ethnography and semi structured interviewing It is divided into four sections I Activism Environment and Indigeneity II Political Ecologies and Urban Spaces III Narratives Discourses and Aesthetics and IV Imperialism Nationalism and Islands covering topics such as broadcast media radio and TV and the environment green cinema and ecodocumentaries ecodigital art digital environmental literature It is of great interest to researchers students practitioners and scholars working in the area of humanities media communications cultural studies environmental humanities environmental studies and sustainability The Rhetoric of Food Joshua Frye, Michael S. Bruner, 2012 This book focuses on the rhetoric of food and the power dimensions that intersect this most fundamental but increasingly popular area of ideology and practice including politics culture lifestyle identity advertising environment and economy The essays visit a rich variety of dominant discourses and material practices through a range of media channels and settings including the White House social movement rhetoric televisual programming urban gardens farmers markets domestic and international agriculture institutions and popular culture Rhetoricians address the cultural political and ecological motives and consequences of human sense-making strategic symbolizing and attendant choice making visiting discourses and practices that have impact on our species in their producing distributing regulating marketing packaging consuming and talking about food The essays in this book are representative of dominant and marginal discourses as well as perennial issues surrounding the rhetoric of food and include macro meso and micro level analyses and case studies from international neoliberal trade policies to media and social movement discourse to small group and interactional dynamics This volume provides an excellent range and critical illumination of rhetorics role as both instrumental and constitutive force in food representations and its symbolic and material effects

The Routledge Handbook of Environment and Communication Anders Hansen, Robert Cox, 2015-03-05 This Handbook provides a comprehensive statement and reference point for theory research and practice with regard to environment and communication and it does this from a perspective which is both international and multi disciplinary in scope Offering comprehensive critical reviews of the history and state of the art of research into the key dimensions of environmental communication the chapters of this handbook together demonstrate the strengths of multi disciplinary and cross disciplinary approaches to understanding the centrality of communication to how the environment is constructed and indeed contested socially politically and culturally Organised in five thematic sections The Routledge Handbook of Environment and Communication includes contributions from internationally recognised leaders in the field The first section looks at the history and development of the discipline from a range of theoretical perspectives Section two considers the sources communicators and media professionals involved in producing environmental communication Section three examines research on news entertainment media and cultural representations of the environment The fourth section looks at the social and political implications of environmental communication with the final section discussing likely future trajectories for the field The first reference Handbook to offer a state of the art comprehensive overview of the emerging field of environmental communication research this authoritative text is a must for scholars of environmental communication across a range of disciplines including environmental studies media and communication studies cultural studies and related disciplines

Ecomedia Stephen Rust, Salma Monani, Sean Cubitt, 2015-09-07 Ecomedia Key Issues is a comprehensive textbook introducing the burgeoning field of ecomedia studies to provide an overview of the interface between environmental issues and the media globally Linking the world of media production distribution and consumption to environmental understandings the book addresses ecological meanings encoded in media texts the environmental impacts of media production and the relationships between media and cultural perceptions of the environment Each chapter introduces a distinct type of media addressing it in a theoretical overview before engaging with specific case studies In this way the book provides an accessible introduction to each form of media as well as a sophisticated analysis of relevant cases The book includes contributions from a combination of new voices and well established media scholars from across the globe who examine the basic concepts and key issues of ecomedia studies The concepts of frames flow and convergence structure a dynamic collection divided into three parts The first part addresses traditional visual texts such as comics photography and film The second part of the book addresses traditional broadcast media such as radio and television and the third part looks at new media such as advertising video games the internet and digital renderings of scientific data In its breadth and scope

Environmental Communication Anders Hansen,David Machin,2016-03-17 In 2008 the editors published a well cited journal paper arguing that while scholarly work on media representations of environmental issues had made substantial progress in textual analysis there had been much less work on visual representations This is surprising given the increasingly visual nature of media and communication and in light of emerging evidence that the environment is visualized through the use of increasingly symbolic and iconic images Addressing these matters this volume marks out the present state of the field and contains chapters that represent fresh and exciting high quality scholarly work now emerging on visual environmental communication These include a range of fascinating and often alarming topics which draw on a variety of methods and forms of visual communication The book demonstrates that research needs to think much more widely about what we mean by the visual which plays a massive yet under researched role in the politics and ideology of public understanding and misunderstanding of and the environment and environmental problems The book is of relevance to students and researchers in media and communication studies cultural studies film and visual studies geography sociology politics and other disciplines with an interest in the politics of visual environmental communication This book was published as a special issue of Environmental Communication A Journal of Nature and Culture Climate, Culture, Change Timothy B.
