Urban Resilience Jon Coaffee, Peter Lee, 2017-08-24 As the cities of the world increasingly come under threat from crisis and disaster planners are searching for ways to build resilience into the foundations of modern urban centres This important book provides a comprehensive account of the theory and practice of urban resilience in response to a range of disruptions including terrorism climate change and economic crises It examines how the concepts and principles of resilience exert increasing significant influence over the form and function of planning Discussing a politics of resilience in which fundamental questions of social and spatial justice are posed this book examines how urban planners are increasingly tasked with the responsibility of safeguarding the future of urbanised centres and those that live in them Drawing on international examples and detailed case studies this book provides a nuanced account of the uses and misuses of resilience and points a way forward for planning activity from an approach that is too often narrowly technical in focus towards an integrated and adaptable model for coping with risk crisis and uncertainty It will make essential reading for students of urban planning and researchers alike

Management Skills for Effective Planners Dory Reeves, 2017-08-24 In this practical and lively guide for early career planners Dory Reeves sets out the key skills necessary to thrive in the modern day work environment Offering expert advice and in depth critical analysis of the field she further develops the reader's understanding of the specific personal and interpersonal attributes required to become a confident and creative professional planner Throughout the book chapters use a wide variety of work related situations that will help planning students and practitioners to think on their feet and navigate their way up the career ladder. They explain how the benefits of networking and selecting an appropriate mentor can help in understanding and working with the structure and culture of a professional planning organization. At the heart of the book is the encouragement of self-reflection as a way of appreciating the relevant workplace skills already developed through the Lifewide learning experience. End of chapter pedagogical features including web links, activities and a final takeaway help to build on this. Developed from extensive research into the responses of planners and their managers to internationally relevant questions surrounding planning and through the substantial experience of the author in the field, readers will be best placed to maximize effectiveness and job satisfaction within the planning vocation.

Planning and Diversity in the City Ruth Fincher, Kurt Iveson, 2017-08-24

Planning theory and practice has become more conscious in recent times of the need to cater for a diverse range of needs and preferences. But there has been less clarity about what goals and objectives should inform planning for such diversity. In this important new book, Ruth Fincher and Kurt Iveson identify three distinct working principles of planning for diversity: redistribution, recognition and encounter. Each principle is the subject of a pair of chapters. The first explaining the principle and the second showcasing and comparing efforts to shape cities according to it, drawing on relevant examples from around the world. Planning for Diversity is the ideal introduction to the issues that surround diversity and planning and provides a stimulating new line of advance for reducing inequality and working towards just diversity in cities. Ruth Fincher is Professor of Geography at the University of Melbourne, Australia. Kurt Iveson is Lecturer in Urban Geography at the University of Sydney, Australia.

Guidelines on the Collection of Demographic and Socio-economic Information on Fishing Communities for Use in Coastal and Aquatic Resources Management Lolita V. Villareal, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2004-01-01. These guidelines specify key indicators for the identification of demographic issues in coastal area management and for monitoring the impact of management measures on the socio-economic well-being of coastal and fishing communities. The guidelines also identify data sources and methods for the collection of data. Case studies on the use of demographic data in coastal area management in Italy and the United States of America and a summary of the proceedings of a regional workshop on the use of demographic data in coastal area management in the Philippines and other Southeast and South Asian countries provide practical examples of how demographic indicators are used.

Industrial Change and Regional Economic Transformation Lloyd Rodwin, Hidehiko Sazanami, 2017-08-22. Originally published in 1991. This book deals with industrial and regional changes in Western Europe and the effectiveness of policies designed to cope with them. It examines the regional experiences, including successes as well as problems, to illuminate the trends and policies, raises questions about the issues and reports on the effects and further implications for not just Europe but Japan and many newly industrializing countries. Analysing the evolution and effectiveness of local, regional, national and European policies, this is of interest for industrial and development specialists as well as economists, planners, geographers and policy makers.
