Japanese Economic Development Penelope Francks, 2002-02-07 This newly revised clearly presented text looks at Japan's economic history from the nineteenth century through to World War II. Working within a framework based on the theories and approaches of development studies, Francks demonstrates the relevance of Japan's pre war experience to the problems facing developing countries today and draws out the historical roots of the institutions and practices on which Japan's post war economic miracle was based. New features include fresh theoretical perspectives, additional material derived from new sources, an increased number of case studies, fully up dated references and bibliography. This broad ranging textbook is both topical and easy to use and will be of immense use to those seeking an understanding of Japanese economic development.

The Economic Development of Japan Ryōshin Minami, 1994 In this book Ryōshin Minami studies the last hundred years of Japan's remarkable economic growth from the Meiji period up to the present day. Second he explains why Japan achieved a more rapid rate of economic growth than other developed countries. This forms the major part of the book and will interest those in the developed countries who have felt the full force of Japan's export drive and whose own industries are consequently in decline. Finally the author evaluates the results of Japan's economic growth and makes predictions for its future. The book makes a comprehensive survey of the Japanese experience in the pre and post war periods and points out lessons not only for developed countries but also for developing countries.

Traps Embraced Or Escaped: Elites In The Economic Development Of Modern Japan And China Carl Anthony Moske, 2011-02-11 Countries commencing industrialization with relatively low levels of agricultural productivity hence low wages enjoy advantages that can also prove host to daunting challenges. The chief advantage is a relatively elastic supply of labor for manufacturing; the chief challenge is how to free up farm labor for factory employment through the raising of labor productivity in farming. Key to raising agricultural labor productivity is providing incentives to increase effort levels including hours worked, access to markets, being crucial and improving the quality of labor as measured by health indicators and educational attainment. The willingness of elites to promote improvements in infrastructure, physical infrastructure in the form of roads and railroads and hydroelectric systems, human capital enhancing infrastructure, augmenting the educational attainment and health of populations in rural areas and financial infrastructure and to invest directly in factories is crucial to the process by which labor is transferred from farming to manufacturing activities. During the period 1850 to 1935 elites in China tended to resist the requisite changes while elites in Japan did not. This legacy played a crucial role in shaping the nature of post 1950 economic development in the two countries.
