Vyas, 2009 Commemorative volume published on the 75th birth anniversary of V S Vyas economist from Rajasthan India most of the papers presented at a seminar held at Jaipur in February 2008 The contribution of IFPRI research and the impact of the Food for Education Program in Bangladesh on schooling outcomes and earnings Ryan, James G., Meng, Xin, 2004-11-17

This paper evaluates the influence and impact that IFPRI research and related activities had on the initiation evolution and impact of the food for education FFE program in Bangladesh It reviews the outputs from the IFPRI program and summarizes the perceptions of various stakeholders about the value and influence of these on the FFE program A novel experimental evaluation methodology is used on household sample survey data to analyze the effects of FFE on schooling outcomes Earnings functions are then estimated using national household income and expenditure survey data to assess the effect of schooling on earnings Combining the two the effects of the increased participation and duration of schooling due to the FFE program on lifetime earnings of children are derived Using these incremental earnings figures the internal rates of return for both national and private investments in the FFE program are estimated From these a conservative assessment of the economic value of IFPRI's contribution to the generation of the national benefits is made We conclude that a very conservative assessment of the economic value of IFPRI's contribution to the generation of the national benefits estimated above is that the FFE program began one year earlier than it might have without the IFPRI input Based upon the total cost of the IFPRI FFE research program of US 151 000 the internal rate of return on this research investment ranges from 64.96 percent of all the other benefits are added to this clearly the IFPRI contribution has been an outstanding economic investment These benefits might have been even greater had IFPRI had an explicit communications strategy with more timely and available publications along with appropriate advocacy based upon a more thorough knowledge of the dynamic political economy of government decision making in Bangladesh from Authors Abstract TRIPS Agreement of the WTO Mohammad Towhidul Islam, 2014-07-24 This book examines the application of the World Trade Organization's WTO Agreement on Trade Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights TRIPS in the fields of agriculture public health and economic development in a Least Developed Country LDC such as Bangladesh In particular it evaluates the question whether the TRIPS one size fits all approach compulsorily applicable for all countries irrespective of their development standing fulfils the developmental needs of Bangladesh and other such LDCs in the fields of agriculture public health and economic development The book shows that the TRIPS introduction of IPRs in the name of Plant Varieties Protection PVP and patents not only secures private sector investment in agriculture but also brings traditional agricultural practices within the spectrum of private monopoly increases the price of agricultural products and forces people into dependency on engineered seeds and other agricultural inputs To guard against such trade rules this book recommends that Bangladesh should incorporate the TRIPS flexibilities in the form of redefining patentable invention choosing between patents and PVP and providing for compulsory licensing This book also reveals that the TRIPS patenting in pharmaceuticals encourages innovations by ensuring royalty collections and protects public health by raising standards of living However patenting offers exclusivity to pharmaceutical companies extending the duration of the patent term and establishing their control over production supply and distribution Such control results in exclusivity over drug pricing The flexibilities of the compliance deadline compulsory licensing and parallel importation built into the TRIPS are set to tackle untenable situations arising from patenting exclusivity However patent laws in most LDCs are out dated in terms of dealing with such flexibilities Given this the research recommends that Bangladesh should invoke the TRIPS flexibilities The author of this book further establishes that the TRIPS standard setting in agriculture and pharmaceuticals does not help the country to fulfil subsistence needs or promote economic development through innovation However the appropriation of agricultural and pharmaceutical goods during the use of the TRIPS flexibilities has the potential to feed the people protect public health interests and increase economic development with the supply of food and drugs at home and abroad To this end the research asks Bangladesh to reform its existing IPRs provisions by redefining patentable inventions and simplifying compulsory licensing and other differential treatments to appropriate foreign technologies SAPANA: South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC) Imtiaz Alam, 2006 The Modern World Sarolta Takacs, Mounir Farah, 2015-03-04 Designed to meet the curriculum needs for students from grades 7 to 12 this five volume encyclopedia explores world history from approximately 5000 C E to the present Organized alphabetically within geographical volumes on Africa Europe the Americas the Middle East and Southwest Asia and Asia and the Pacific entries cover the social political scientific and technological economic and cultural events and developments that shaped the modern world Each volume includes articles on history
