Theories of Imperfectly Competitive Markets Luis Corchon, 2013-06-29 One of the most fascinating debates of our times is the discussion over the merits and capabilities of market economies Very often one sees strong endorsements to the idea that markets provide an efficient way of allocating resources Some years ago opposite views on this issue used to be very popular at least in Europe and were held by similarly qualified people In my opinion the contribution of economics to this question can not be dismissed on the grounds that economics still in its infancy and that this question is a practical one whatever this means Economics started with similar naive ideas two hundred years ago In particular it has taken a long time to realize that competition does not work in such a smooth way as many classical writers thought it did and that many facts can not be explained by the theory of perfectly competitive markets This issue is explored at depth in the Introduction to this Lectures In this sense the contribution of the Theory of industrial Organization has been to make a convincing case for the view that monopoly and oligopoly can persist in the long run in a world populated by rational agents Despite of the fact that we are far from having a satisfactory theory of how markets work progress has been immense and we certainly understand why current theories are still not completely satisfactory

Sustainable Resource

Use and Economic Dynamics Lucas Bretschger, Sjak Smulders, 2007-07-19 This volume includes a selection of papers presented at the conference Sustainable Resource Use and Economic Dynamics SURED held on Monte Verita in Ascona Switzerland in June 2004 Thirty years after the publication of the famous symposium issue of the Review of Economic Studies in 1974 which started the neoclassical literature on growth theory and resource economics The conference sought to reinforce research efforts in order to provide adequate solutions for today's challenges in the field of sustainable development The conference compiled innovative research from resource energy and environmental economics and dynamic economic theory By bringing together leading experts junior and senior scholars in these fields it covered a broad range of aspects regarding the relationship between natural resource use and long term economic development The SURED conference made use of the wonderful surroundings on the mountain of truth and the remarkable history of the conference centre which was shaped by the desire to return to a natural way of life In this tradition the conference aimed at finding ways of living in an economically developed world and at the same time taking into account the natural environment with its restrictions and requirements We take the opportunity to thank the staff of the Monte Verita centre for the hospitality and the excellent service
