The Psychoses Jacques Lacan, 2013-11-19 During the third year of his famous seminar Jacques Lacan gives a concise definition of psychoanalysis Psychoanalysis should be the science of language inhabited by the subject From the Freudian point of view man is the subject captured and tortured by language Since psychosis is a special but emblematic case of language entrapment Lacan devotes much of this year to grappling with distinctions between the neuroses and the psychoses As he compared the two relationships symmetries and contrasts emerge that enable him to erect a structure for psychosis Freud's famous case of Daniel Paul Schreber is central to Lacan's analysis In demonstrating the many ways that the psychotic is inhabited possessed by language Lacan draws upon Schreber's own account of his psychosis and upon Freud's notes on this case of paranoia The analysis of language is both fascinating and enlightening The Seminar of Jacques

Lacan Jacques Lacan, 1988 Often controversial always inspired French intellectual Jacques Lacan begins the twentieth year of his famous Seminar by weighing theories of the relationship between the desire for love and the attainment of knowledge from such influential and diverse thinkers as Aristotle Marx and Freud From here he leads us through mathematics philosophy religion and naturally psychoanalysis into an entirely new and unexpected way of interpreting the two most fundamental human drives Anticipated by English speaking readers for more than twenty years this annotated translation presents Lacan's most sophisticated work on love desire and jouissance Sexuality in the Field of Vision Jacqueline Rose, 2020-10-13 A pivotal work in the history of feminism and a groundbreaking intervention into film theory Sexuality in the Field of Vision is a brilliantly original exploration of the interface between feminism psychoanalysis semiotics and film theory

Camden, 1989 These essays are collected from the Fourth International Conference on Literature and Psychology held at Kent State University 7-9 August 1987 In selecting the essays for this first collection to emerge from the varied conferences now being sponsored by the Kent State University Center for Literature and Psychoanalysis Vera Camden has brought together representative contributions from two major contemporary schools of psychoanalytic criticism object relations and Lacanian theory These essays define the questions which emerge when both schools are brought into the kind of association engendered by this conference offering not so much a resolution to opposing positions as a fuller articulation of the space each occupies and a fluidity of discussion which has characterized psychoanalysis since Freud's earliest discoveries Each contributor is concerned with the place of the unconscious in the determination of the human subject and its representations Whether the approach is primarily clinical or literary each identifies and analyzes the anguish of the incomplete self a self which looks to construct identify regain or even deny meaning A crucial difference emerges among these authors as to how the experience of human alienation and the quest for identity is to be analyzed Some would suggest after Jacques Lacan that the task of analysis is to recognize the illusion of the unitary self and to reconcile the individual to that state Others would contend the task of analysis is to recover by the transference relationship the lost unity missing in childhood and reflect in adult object relations These essays range from clinical perspectives in psychosis and creativity to critical readings of Joyce and Shakespeare to recent applications of brain research to traditional psychoanalytic notions of the human subject The
