Remaking Eastern Europe – On the Political Economy of Transition J.M. Van Brabant, 2012-12-06 This compact volume is meant as a modest contribution to the ongoing debate on how to transform in particular the radically reforming Eastern European economies into more productive sociopolitical organizations Although my main focus here is on the economics of reform and east west assistance I have tried to embed the multiple technical aspects of restructuring such a resource allocation into the context of remaking Eastern Europe That the volume coincides with the seminal transformations of the communist countries of Eastern Europe is of course not fortuitous But I shall have much less to say about the political transitions from communism to parliamentary democracy except the ways in which the latter may bolster or hinder the hoped for economic mutations In taking stock of where I stand on the issue of radical reform of planned economics in general and the CMEA in particular both still moving targets I have benefited greatly from participation in formal and informal conferences on economic reform The product has also profited from many informal discussions and exchanges of views among friends and colleagues including those entrusted with and purely interested in efforts on the overall topic of the study launched from within the broad context of the United Nations my at times reluctant employer

Lessons from the Economic Transition Salvatore Zecchini, 2013-12-01 An attentive reader embarking on this book might wonder what the economic transition to which the title refers might be In this century almost all countries have gone through periods of economic transition but which period of economic history can claim to embody the notion or to represent the era of the transition Definitely no country or group of countries has experienced anything comparable to the economic upheavals that the fall of communism has brought about in a large portion of the world in just three years 1989 to 1991 No other transition to date has prompted more interest and more studies among economists academics and policy makers than has the transformation of centrally planned economies into market based systems It is this transformation that has come to define the transition Early in the transformation process in November 1990 with the support of the Centre for Co operation with the Economies in Transition CCET I launched a conference to examine the challenges faced by these countries About six years have gone by and a new economic landscape has emerged in that part of the world The difficulties in transforming these economies have exceeded all expectations and economic performances have varied considerably across countries The time has come therefore to make a first evaluation of progress and problems with a view to extracting useful policy lessons to guide policy makers in successfully completing the transition in the near future
