togetherness I feel in all my work and life that I am focused upon Indian sages say it is yoga the union of body mind and soul by means of achieving peace and happiness By the term soul I mean the self that enlightens and enlivens all individual living beings This work is actually a tour of my body through my own mind to reach my soul myself discriminating and differentiating the likes and dislikes each body and mind owns Individual likes and dislikes are there with everyone as a deciding factor of our happiness and unhappiness We start our life as a weeping child with its helplessness in a new world of creative environment due to ignorance to adjust itself with the available ambience Our ambitions expectations and desires may compromise with our unlimited needs or it may fight with the limited resource both are trouble makers as the more we get the more we need We have our likes and dislikes that create love and war success and failure achievements and frustrations But no one is bothered to analyse why we like or why we don't like certain men and matters we deal with It's not because of the quality or characteristics of things or men we face but because of our own taste and habits that make us attract or repel from people and this world which is full of colours and attractions for those who need it There are deserts and gardens the two sides of our life that can be created beautifully with our imagination There is no desert as desert and no garden as garden in our life if we don't know how to enjoy both with our imaginative power It is our passion love and imagination that make things beautiful or filthy as per our own vision One can convert the desert into a garden and the garden into a desert using or misusing the wisdom Everything is beautiful and loving if we perceive so as our likes and dislikes happens to be the two sides of the same coin all what we do is on our likes and everything starts and ends on the basis of our love on account of love and on the expectation of love Love for a man or for a woman love for money and wealth love for travel love to conquer love to save oneself and love to save others love to fight and win love for peace and love for a real loving that may or may not help us for our living All types of love in the world create war and all our war is for love of any sort within We create war for peace and we fight against war for peace the contrast it is the essence of a true love to ourselves Love visible and invisible we have but the real essence of love is enjoyed when it is invisible It will be fully filled within our mind not seen to others as a fragrant breeze that binds us in our solitude that we can create even in crowd This book is specified in three parts as Body Mind and Soul that seemed separate but all set in one text just like our body mind and soul that no one will exist without the other Our body won't listen many of the voices it hears in this world There the mind interferes and mind also sometimes will fail to answer many of the questions the world including this body ask us Definitely the soul will find an answer although a little bit late Better let us have a coordination of our body mind and soul for a sooner realization of anything and everything in this life itself The content of these poems is the essence of observations that our body mind and soul do together and separately remaining truthfully to itself in this world Let me also open up my eyes as a student teacher a family man a citizen of my nation and as a particle of this globe with a positive perception Sincerely CP RAJASEKHARAN cp99rajsekhar@gmail.com 91 9447814101 INDIA Two 'I's, Two Hearts, One Soul Ivor E.
