Empire of Time Daniel Godfrey, 2017-06-20 For fifteen years the Romans of New Pompeii have kept the outside world at bay with the threat of using the Novus Particles device to alter time Yet Decimus Horatius Pullus once Nick Houghton knows the real reason the Romans don't use the device for their own ends they can't make it work without grisly consequences This fragile peace is threatened when an outsider promises to help the Romans use the technology And there are those beyond Pompeii's walls who are desperate to destroy a town where slavery flourishes When his own name is found on an ancient artifact dug up at the real Pompeii Nick knows that someone in the future has control of the device The question is whose side are they on

Empire of Ruin John Levi Barnard, 2018 From the US Capitol to the Lincoln Memorial and the 9 11 Memorial Museum classical forms and ideas have been central to an American nationalist aesthetic Beginning with an understanding of this centrality of the classical tradition to the construction of American national identity and the projection of American power Empire of Ruin describes a mode of black classicism that has been integral to the larger critique of American politics aesthetics and historiography that African American cultural production has more generally advanced While the classical tradition has provided a repository of ideas and images that have allowed white American elites to conceive of the nation as an ideal Republic and the vanguard of the idea of civilization African American writers artists and activists have characterized this dominant mode of classical appropriation as emblematic of a national commitment to an economy of enslavement and a geopolitical project of empire If the dominant forms of American classicism and monumental culture have asserted the ascendancy of what Thomas Jefferson called an empire for liberty for African American writers and artists it has suggested that the nation is nothing exceptional but rather another iteration of what the radical abolitionist Henry Highland Garnet identified as an empire of slavery inexorably devolving into an empire of ruin
