Empowering Workers in an Age of Automation Tom Parr, 2025-02-14. Empowering Workers in an Age of Automation explores how labour market policymakers should respond to the threats and opportunities that arise from automation, artificial intelligence and other forms of technological progress. The book's aim is twofold. First, it is to develop and defend a novel philosophical framework for theorizing about the demands of social justice in the labour market, which Parr calls the empowerment model. At the heart of this view is a concern for fairness and more specifically a concern for the growing inequality in prospects between members of the working class and their middle and upper class counterparts.

Second it is to examine a range of concrete political controversies relating to labour markets and the future of work in the light of the empowerment model The analysis presented is wide ranging and includes discussion of technological unemployment the four day work week the gender earnings gap working from home and role of higher education Throughout the text Parr is keen to caution against sensationalist narratives and instead emphasizes the more prosaic but still hugely consequential ways in which technology is changing how we work To do this he draws on a wealth of empirical research and extensively from findings in labour economics The result is a book that takes seriously and aims to shed light on some of the most pressing challenges that we actually face Empowering Users through Design David Bihanic, 2015-01-12 At the crossroads of various disciplines this collective work examines the possibility of a new end user engagement in ongoing digital technological products and services development It provides an overview of recent research specifically focused on the user s democratic participation and empowerment It also enables readers to better identify the main opportunities of participatory design a concept which encourages the blurring of the role between user and designer This allows people to escape their status as end user and to elevate themselves to the level of creator This book explores new avenues for rethinking the processes and practices of corporate innovation in order to cope with current socio economic and technological changes In so doing it aims to help companies renew industrial models that allow them to design and produce new ranges of technological products and services by giving the user an active role in the development process far beyond the basic role of consumer Intended for designers design researchers and scientists interested in innovation and technology management this book also provides a valuable resource for professionals involved in technology based innovation processes
