Empowerment Of Women And Politics Of Reservation:

Empowerment of Women and Politics of Reservation Shiri Ram Bakshi, 2002-01-01 Women are embracing the concept of empowerment because of their situations their disempowerment and their unmet needs As women have increasingly discovered their commonalities through improved means of communications and through international conferences such as the 1995 NGO Conference in Beijing they have attempted to understand the global and local political economic and cultural forces that shape these situations While there are many factors that play a role in gender based stratification an examination of international development during the past half century provides insight into some of these factors The changes in the world since the end of World War II have been profound in the Third World many of these changes positive and negative have occurred under the rubric of development In India especially the special provisions have been made in the constitution for the empowerment of women by reservation of jobs in the administration legislatures and local bodies like the municipal corporations and the panchayats This book highlights the efforts made in India for the empowerment of women in its successive five year plans An effort has been made to evaluate the work done so far

Women and the Political Process Dr. Renu Mishra, 2022-01-22 Political parties are among the most important institutions affecting women's political participation In most countries parties determine which candidates are nominated and elected and which issues achieve national prominence The role of women in political parties is therefore a key determinant of their prospects for political empowerment particularly at the national level Because political parties are so influential in shaping women's political prospects Governments and international organizations seeking to advance the participation of women in elections justifiably tend to focus on the role of political parties Political participation extends beyond parties however Women can also become involved in certain aspects of the electoral process through independent action particularly at the local level and by joining civil society organizations Some women in post conflict countries have gained political experience by participating in non elected transitional assemblies Women's networks trade unions non governmental organizations and the media can all provide avenues for women s political participation In many countries the rights of women are enshrined in law and there are no formal legal barriers to women s political participation in election processes In practice however there are often formidable obstacles to women s active participation in politics The hurdles to be overcome can be particularly daunting for women considering running for office and maybe overwhelming for women in post conflict countries Politics has traditionally been a male domain that many women have found unwelcoming or even hostile Societies in which traditional or patriarchal values remain strong may frown on women entering politics In addition to dealing with unfavorable cultural predilections women are often more likely than men to face practical barriers to entering politics including a paucity of financial resources lower levels of education less access to information greater family responsibilities and deprivation of rights that has left them with fewer opportunities to acquire political experience This book gives a critical account of women s participation in politics and the politicization of women s issues Women s Liberation Movement has concentrated on women s oppression which includes the sexual division of labor control of sexuality and the relation of reproduction access to education jobs and power over our lives
