American Perceptions of Immigrant and Invasive Species

Peter Coates, 2007-01-09 Sometimes by accident and sometimes on purpose humans have transported plants and animals to new habitats around the world. Arriving in ever increasing numbers to American soil, recent invaders have competed with, preyed on, hybridized with, and carried diseases to native species, transforming our ecosystems and creating anxiety among environmentalists and the general public. But is American anxiety over this crisis of ecological identity a recent phenomenon? Charting shifting attitudes to alien species since the 1850s, Peter Coates brings to light the rich cultural and historical aspects of this story by situating the history of immigrant flora and fauna within the wider context of human immigration. Through an illuminating series of particular invasions, including the English sparrow and the eucalyptus tree, what he finds is that we have always perceived plants and animals in relation to ourselves and the politics to which we belong. Setting the saga of human relations with the environment in the broad context of scientific, social, and cultural history, this thought-provoking book demonstrates how profoundly notions of nationality and debates over race and immigration have shaped American understandings of the natural world.

Ecology and Silviculture of Eucalypt Forests RG Florence, 2004-03-30 This classic forest management text examines the ecology and silviculture of eucalypts in forests and plantations in Australia and overseas. The book presents approaches to the formulation of ecologically sustainable forest practices through a more fundamental understanding of Eucalyptus. The 14 chapters of the book are divided into three sections: covering the ecological background to silvicultural practice, the regeneration and continuing development of the forests, and silvicultural practice, including the current practices within the eucalypt forests.

Trees in Paradise Jared Farmer, 2013-10-21 From roots to canopy, a lush, verdant history of the making of California. California now has more trees than at any time since the late Pleistocene. This green landscape, however, is not the work of nature; it is the work of history. In the years after the Gold Rush, American settlers remade the California landscape, harnessing nature to their vision of the good life. Horticulturists, boosters, and civic reformers began to improve the bare brown countryside, planting millions of trees to create groves, wooded suburbs, and landscaped cities. They imported the blue-green eucalypts, whose tangy fragrance was thought to cure malaria. They built the lucrative Orange Empire on the sweet juice and thick skin of the Washington navel, an industrial fruit. They lined their streets with graceful palms to announce that they were not in the Midwest anymore. To the north, the majestic coastal redwoods inspired awe and invited exploitation. A resource in the state, the durable heartwood of these timeless giants became infrastructure transformed by the saw teeth of American enterprise By 1900 timber firms owned the entire redwood forest by 1950 they had clear cut almost all of the old growth trees In time California s new landscape proved to be no paradise the eucalypts in the Berkeley hills exploded in fire the orange groves near Riverside froze on cold nights Los Angeles s palms harbored rats and dropped heavy fronds on the streets below Disease infestation and development all spelled decline for these nonnative evergreens In the north however a new forest of second growth redwood took root nurtured by protective laws and sustainable harvesting Today there are more California redwoods than there were a century ago Rich in character and story Trees in Paradise is a dazzling narrative that offers an insightful new perspective on the history of the Golden State and the American West Silviculture in the Tropics Sven Günter,Michael Weber,Bernd Stimm,Reinhard Mosandl,2011-06-24 This book integrates the latest global developments in forestry science and practice and their relevance for the sustainable management of tropical forests The influence of social dimensions on the development of silvicultural concepts is another spotlight Ecology and silvicultural options form all tropical continents and forest formations from dry to moist forests and from lowland to mountain forests are covered Review chapters which guide readers through this complex subject integrate numerous illustrative and quantitative case studies by experts from all over the world On the basis of a cross sectional evaluation of the case studies presented the authors put forward possible silvicultural contributions towards sustainability in a changing world The book is addressed to a broad readership from forestry and environmental disciplines Domestication Gone Wild Heather Anne Swanson,Marianne Elisabeth Lien,Gro B.
