Rodriguez, 1975 Urban Transportation Research and Planning, Current Literature, 1966 Integrated Urban Systems Modeling: Theory and Applications Tschangho John Kim, 2012-12-06 A wide range of books on urban systems models are available today for the student of urban planning geography and economics There are few if any books however that deal with integrated urban systems modeling from the operational viewpoint The term integrated is used here in the same sense as the general equilibrium in contrast to such approaches as sequential or partial equilibrium In fact the main thesis of this book is that the characteristics of urban activity that best distinguish it from rural activity are 1 the intensive use of urban land and 2 urban congestion On this basis models that are introduced in this book are three dimensional in character and produce urban land use configurations with explicit optimal density of urban production activities along with optimal levels of transportation congestion It is also assumed that both public and private sectors play significant roles in shaping urban forms structures and functions in mixed economic systems From this viewpoint models developed in this book address two integrated decision making procedures one by the public sector which provides urban infrastructure and public services and the other one by the private sector which uses provided infrastructure and public services in pursuing parochial interests Planning Methodologies for Analysis of Land Use/water Quality Relationships Thomas Ross Hammer, 1976 Forecasting transportation impacts upon land use P.F. Housing and Neighborhood Dynamics John F. Kain, William C. Apgar, 1985 This book assesses the effects of spatially concentrated programs for housing and neighborhood improvement These programs provide direct assistance to low income property owners in an attempt to arrest neighborhood decline and encourage revitalization The authors used the Harvard Urban Development Simulation Model HUDS in evaluating these programs HUDS a large scale computer model represents the process of housing rehabilitation the production and consumption of housing services household moving decisions and other determinant of neighborhood change The model simulates the behavior of approximately 80 000 individual households in two hundred residential neighborhoods of various quality levels Unlike more aggregate models of urban development HUDS has the capacity to identify how specific housing policies affect individual households as well as particular neighborhoods Since program evaluations are no better than the models on which they are based the authors provide sufficient detail to permit those readers primarily interested in the policy analysis to assess the methodology and to understand how the policies are represented in the model a more technical discussion of the model is then presented in appendixes Although the simulations focus on policies that induce central city property owners to upgrade their properties and thus stimulate revitalization many of the authors findings are relevant to larger issues of urban development For example the analysis of how housing rehabilitation subsidies affect the investment behavior of nonsubsidized property owners provides insights about the link between initial upgrading and sustained neighborhood improvement The analysis also demonstrates how differences in location household and housing stock characteristics affect a particular neighborhood s responsiveness to a common policy initiative

Urban residential location models S.H. Putman, 2012-12-06 The decade of the 1970 s has seen substantial improvement in our understanding of the determinants of urban spatial patterns It is typical of western science and technology of the past several centuries that these advances in urban spatial analysis have resulted from the efforts of many individuals No one of these claims to have found the answer rather each contributes some additional understanding of a rather complex set of inter related phenomena All of this most recent work in one way or another rests on preliminary analysis work done in the previous ten to fifteen years Those earlier efforts are the subject of this book A very few studies of urban spatial patterns were done prior to 1960 However it was not until then with the coming of age of electronic data processing machinery that work began in earnest Many theories and theoretical models of urban form were postulated and some were tested Often the tests were inconclusive or unsuccessful The theories often lacked consistency and coherence Some of the testing was inadequate or even inappropriate Much of the research was done amidst the turmoil and sometimes chaos of attempted and often premature application The results were frequently incompletely described if described at all Yet out of all this there began to emerge some clearer notion of the determinants of urban spatial patterns Housing and
