Making a Place for Community Thad Williamson,David Imbroscio,Gar Alperovitz,2014-06-03 When pundits refer to the death of community they are speaking of a number of social ills which include but are not limited to the general increase in isolation and cynicism of our citizens widespread concerns about declining political participation and membership in civic organizations and periodic outbursts of small town violence Making a Place for Community argues that this death of community is being caused by contemporary policies that if not changed will continue to foster the decline of community Increased capital flow between nations is not at the root of the problem however increased capital flow within our nation is Small towns shouldn t have to hope for a prison to open nearby and downtown centers shouldn t sit empty as suburban sprawl encroaches but they do and it s a result of widely agreed upon public policies Welfare reform states' early experiences with benefit termination : report to the ranking minority member, Committee on Finance, U.S. Senate United States. Congress. House. Committee on Government Reform and Oversight. Subcommittee on Human Resources and Intergovernmental Relations,1997 This document reports the oral and written testimony submitted at a Congressional hearing on how job training works how effective employment training programs succeed and how that success is measured The hearing was based on a General Accounting Office study that found four hallmarks of effective job training individual commitment removal of personal barriers to employment a focus on basic employment skills and a close connection to the realities of the local job market Witnesses included persons who had completed job training programs operators of nonprofit organizations that conduct job training government officials involved in job training programs and representatives of corporations such as Marriott International that conduct extensive job training programs The testimony focused on the need to coordinate efforts of job training programs so that potential participants do not have to work through a maze of hundreds of agencies The witnesses pointed out that even well educated people and professionals in the human services field have a hard time determining which agencies can help them and how to find those agencies Some of the witnesses endorsed one stop services such as those supported in the GI Bill and in a proposed Career Bill KC Resources in Education ,1997 Examining the Federal Effort to Prevent Juvenile Crime United States.
