Women in the Judiciary Ulrike Schultz,Gisela Shaw,2013-09-13 Does gender matter in judging And if so in what way Why were there so few women judges only two or three decades ago and why are there so many now in most countries of the Western world How do women judges experience their work in a previously male dominated environment What are their professional careers How do they organise and live their lives And finally and most notably do women judge differently from men or even better These are the questions dealt with in this collection of contributions by seven authors from six countries UK Australia USA Canada Syria and Argentina contrasting views from common law and civil law countries In spite of differences in the two legal systems as well as greater gender diversity on the bench and the overall higher income and prestige enjoyed by judges in common law countries women judges in all these countries Syria included share many problems Diverse and intriguing facets are added to a debate that started thirty years ago but continues to leave ample space for further discussion This book was originally published as a special issue of International Journal of the Legal Profession

Gender Transitions Along Borders Marlene Solis,2016-04-28 In recent decades women living in border cities have taken on new roles and have become one of the most vulnerable population groups experiencing the effects of the economic crisis of the early 21st century and the consequent increase in social inequality and violence This situation is particularly evident for the northern borderlands of Mexico and Morocco The geopolitical position of these regions is defined by their strong existing asymmetry with their neighbouring countries the United States in the case of Mexico and the Mediterranean European countries in the case of Morocco This book contributes to the understanding of current changes in the workplace in family in sexuality and sexual violence within the setting of the borderlands through various studies addressing the manner in which these transformations are interpreted and experienced by women in everyday life and in their individual and collective agency
