Entrepreneurship in Cities Colin Mason, Darja Reuschke, Stephen Syrett, Maarten van Ham, 2015-12-18 Entrepreneurship in Cities focuses on the neglected role of the home and the residential neighbourhood context for entrepreneurship and businesses within cities The overall objective of the book is to develop a new interdisciplinary perspective that links entrepreneurship research with neighbourhood and urban studies A key contribution is to show that entrepreneurship in cities is more than agglomeration economies and high tech clusters This is the first book to connect entrepreneurship with neighbourhoods and homes recognising that business activity in the city is not confined to central business districts high streets and industrial estates but is also found in residential neighbourhoods It highlights the importance of home based businesses for the economy of cities These often overlooked types of businesses and workers significantly contribute to the buzz that makes cities favourable places to live and work Theoretical Developments and Future Research in Family Business Philip Phan, John E. Butler, 2008-03-01 Until recently research in family business has been confined to a sub group of entrepreneurship scholars labor economists and sociologists Family business employment is often the only economic option available to migrants the first entrepreneurial experience for young people and a source of an economy's new business creation activities These issues are typically framed in terms of the generational transfer of wealth management succession or the interplay between the economic system of a family and its sociopolitical system The phenomenon is clearly widespread but for some reason continues to be poorly understood We believe that progress on the empirical front has been hampered by a lack of accepted theoretical frameworks For example attempts to employ agency theory geographic agglomeration and spillovers social networks sense making bargaining and other frameworks have been scattered In our view the extant research has not created the theoretic ballast that can withstand repeated empirical verification More fundamentally researchers are beginning to ask Is family business theoretically distinctive or a convenient phenomenon for exploiting familiar theories with new data We believe the time is ripe for a focused look at the theoretical history and prospects of family business research Review articles grounded in economics sociology psychology and political economy and that offer multidisciplinary implications are especially sought Theory based empirical papers are also welcomed We believe that there are exciting opportunities for theory development and so encourage authors to focus on this in their submissions In sum the focus of this volume is on showcasing and advancing the latest research in family business
