Theories on Law and Ageing Israel Doron, 2008-09-25 This book is about trying to answer questions These questions were well introduced by Prof Margaret Hall in the opening of her chapter in this book The fundamental idea of law and aging as a discrete category of legal principle and theory is controversial how and why are older adults or seniors or elders the very terminology is controversial and fraught with difficulties a discrete and distinct group for whom special legal thought and treatment is justified For some a category of law and aging is inherently paternalistic suggesting that older persons are like children especially in need of the protection of the law In this sense the argument continues the category itself internalizes ageist presumptions about older adults and is therefore inherently flawed and even harmful If certain older adults are because of physical or mental infirmities genuinely in need of an enhanced level of legal protection this entitlement should be conceptualized in terms of their disability older adults are not a distinct group but an arbitrarily delineated demographic category which contains within it any number of groups that are legitimately distinct for the purposes of legal theory the disabled women persons of colour Aboriginal persons rich and poor etc Indeed the artificial category of older adults may be seen as obfuscating submerging these more meaningful distinctions Feminist Perspectives on Family Care Nancy R. Hooyman, Judith Gonyea, 1995-08-29 Today women find themselves playing an ever increasing role in caring for older family members who are frail developmentally disabled or suffering from serious mental illness While this role of women as caregivers has been documented the actual impact on the lives of women has remained largely unstudied In this volume the authors examine caregiving as a central feminist issue looking at its impact on women socially personally and economically The authors review how changing family structures the changing economy and workforce and the changing health care demands of needy adults have impacted on women's lives They critique existing public and private policies demonstrating a need for fundamental structural changes in social institutions and attitudes to improve the lives of women Finally they propose a social model of care that is oriented toward gender justice recognition of the work of caring and its impact upon women socially personally and economically For students scholars and practitioners in the field of gerontology gender studies and social work this book is a must The Cambridge Handbook of Age and

Zarit, Leonard I. Pearlin, K. Warner Schaie, 2019-02-21 Caregiving has emerged as a critical issue in the second half of the life cycle With the growth of the older population there have been dramatic increases in the number of people needing care and assistance The responsibility for care typically falls on families at a time when they have limited resources to meet these needs At a societal level the need for care for growing numbers of disabled elders poses a major challenge for how to organize supportive services in an efficient and responsive system Bringing together multiple perspectives on caregiving the authors explore informal and formal family caregiving and the pivotal issue of how these systems interface and interact An overview of this variation is provided by examining family caregiving from three perspectives the effects of culture on helping patterns and family responsibility how different disabilities affect patterns of family care and longitudinal perspectives on the impact that caregiving has on family members Family and Aging

Caro, 2014-05-01 Learn how public policies can help families provide the care their elderly relatives need Family and Aging Policy examines how public initiatives to assist the elderly in the United States Canada Singapore Denmark and Sweden can impact families who provide them with long term care For the majority of older people the aging experience involves their families directly and indirectly affecting income security housing and health care This unique book addresses the aging issues that matter most to families struggling to deal with the demands of care giving and provides answers on how the public sector can help As the traditional nuclear family becomes a memory and the notion of extended family disappears the need for public interventions to help the elderly increases A significant number of people grow old without families they can depend on Others have families who want to help but lack the financial means or the housing needed to provide care Family and Aging Policy offers options on how families and formal services can share responsibilities including how families can juggle jobs and care giving the effects of the Family and Medical Leave Act consumer directed service options

Merrill,1997-05-30 Based on open ended interviews with adult children and children in law this book documents how plain folk from the working and middle classes manage to provide care for their frail elderly parents while simultaneously meeting the obligations of their jobs and their own immediate families Adult children who care for elderly parents are pressured daily trying to juggle the responsibilities of work family and caregiving Deborah Merrill shows how plain folk as one caregiver termed herself from the working and lower middle classes manage to provide care for their frail elderly parents while simultaneously meeting the obligations of their jobs and their own immediate families The evidence is drawn from open ended in depth interviews with adult children and children in law all of whom have worked outside of the home at some point during caregiving Merrill examines the strategies that caregivers use to combine work and caregiving and the accommodations they make in their jobs She also points to the pathways that lead family members to caregiving roles and how those pathways vary according to family history gender and in law status By focusing on class differences in caregiving and pointing to policy implications Merrill has provided an invaluable resource for students researchers and policymakers in social work gerontology family studies and social issues      DISADVANTAGED GROUPS: A SOCIAL POLICY PERSPECTIVE Deniz SAY ŞAHİN, Sevinç PEHLİVAN SÜTLÜ,2022-01-19 Universal Declaration of Human Rights begins as All human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights and Everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth in this Declaration without distinction of any kind such as race colour sex language religion political or other opinion national or social origin property birth or other status But some segments of the society have more rights and freedoms than others Although the Others have been given names such as Groups that Need Special Protection they are now called Disadvantaged Groups and include children young people addicts the elderly the disabled immigrants minorities ex convicts women single parent families the poor Considering that the majority of the world's population consists of children young people women and the elderly it is obvious that the problems of disadvantaged groups are actually the problems of society Although the groups are counted individually a person is in more than one group The disadvantaged poor child can grow up to be a woman who becomes a single parent
