National Geographer , 2003 Cities, Neighborhoods, and Houses Kathryn Elizabeth Keith, 1999 The New Urban Frontier Neil Smith, 2005-10-26 Why have so many central and inner cities in Europe North America and Australia been so radically revamped in the last three decades converting urban decay into new chic Will the process continue in the twenty first century or has it ended What does this mean for the people who live there Can they do anything about it This book challenges conventional wisdom which holds gentrification to be the simple outcome of new middle class tastes and a demand for urban living It reveals gentrification as part of a much larger shift in the political economy and culture of the late twentieth century Documenting in gritty detail the conflicts that gentrification brings to the new urban frontiers the author explores the interconnections of urban policy patterns of investment eviction and homelessness The failure of liberal urban policy and the end of the 1980s financial boom have made the end of the century city a darker and more dangerous place Public policy and the private market are conspiring against minorities working people the poor and the homeless as never before In the emerging revanchist city gentrification has become part of this policy of revenge Crabgrass Frontier

Kenneth T. Jackson, 1987-04-16 This first full scale history of the development of the American suburb examines how the good life in America came to be equated with the a home of one s own surrounded by a grassy yard and located far from the urban workplace Integrating social history with economic and architectural analysis and taking into account such factors as the availability of cheap land inexpensive building methods and rapid transportation Kenneth Jackson chronicles the phenomenal growth of the American suburb from the middle of the 19th century to the present day He treats communities in every section of the U S and compares American residential patterns with those of Japan and Europe In conclusion Jackson offers a controversial prediction that the future of residential deconcentration will be very different from its past in both the U S and Europe
