The Third World in the Age of Globalization Ash Narain Roy,1999 In the new unipolar world of globalisation the bargaining power and sense of solidarity of Third World countries have never been weaker But their shared problems this author argues remain a reality which requires political expression But does the Third World still even exist What role if any can it have in the 21st century's new topography of power And with what agenda These are the critical questions explored These questions lead the author into his second theme Latin America has long had to confront how to conduct its relations with an over mighty neighbour the USA It may now be well placed to help developing countries concert together To this end the author explores modern Latin American history with emphasis on the changes wrought in the 1980s and 90s in the context of the continent's wider relations with the Third World and the USA The result is an insightful account of where developing countries now are and how they might seek to reassert themselves in order to defend their interests in the new world order

The British Empire and Commonwealth Martin Kitchen,1996-08-14 From its modest to its recent disappearance the British Empire was an extraordinary and paradoxical entity North America Africa South and Southeast Asia and Australasia and innumerable small islands and territories have been fundamentally shaped economically socially and politically by a nation whose imperial drive came from a bewildering mixture of rapacity and moral zeal of high mindedness and viciousness of strategic cunning and feckless neglect Martin Kitchen has written a fascinating crisp informative account of the rise and fall of the British Empire concentrating on the 19th and 20th centuries but giving the background of the First British Empire which was lost with the creating of the United States of America His book is of particular value in relating the importance of the Empire to Britain's success as the only genuinely world power in the Victorian era and to Britain's ability to win the two great wars of the 20th century

Guyana, 1838-1985 Steve Garner,2007 This book traces the creation of ethnic groups in nineteenth century Guyana and its ultimate impact on the colony's political constituencies as it moved to independence The construction of the nation in the postcolonial period is approached through an analysis of cricket trade unions and women traders in the late 1970s and early 1980s The author argues that ethnicity as a historical relationship can be understood as a social experience if it is viewed as part of a set of overlapping identities which include class and gender It also contends that ethnicity in Guyana was created in colonial times and deployed as a tool for dominance which has reconfigured itself to function effectively in postcolonial times

The Luxury of Nationalist Despair A.J. Simoes da Silva,2021-11-01 This book offers a timely critique of the work of the Barbadian novelist George Lamming examining the ways in which his novels exhibit the luxury of nationalist despair and exploring the tensions between his strongly voiced anti colonialism and his ambiguously articulated politics of self Although stressing the place occupied by Lamming and his work in the context of an anti colonial first generation of nation writing that has emerged in the formerly colonized world over the past half century the study also addresses the novelist s problematic reductive focus on a nationalist project that is ultimately deeply flawed in essence the result of an uneasy relationship between form and thesis Lamming s continued struggle with the novel as a genre especially with its ability to get beyond the cultural and political baggage of colonialism demonstrates the power of one of his most poignant assertions the colonial experience is a continuing psychic experience that has to be dealt with long after the actual situation formally ends Written from a postcolonial perspective the study draws also on contemporary feminist criticism in order to examine Lamming s characteristically simplistic depiction of female characters in terms of a greater willingness to embody the neocolonial The book starts by addressing the place Lamming s work occupies both within postcolonial writing at large and specifically within Caribbean literature Subsequent chapters provide close textual readings of Lamming s six novels paired in terms of their foregrounding of issues of race gender and class Despite a clear shift in Lamming s thematic focus on the rewriting of Caliban s project with his last novel offering a basis for a re imagining of the post colonial encounter there remains a perturbing inability to relinquish the privileged stance afforded the postcolonial intellectual in self imposed exile cultural much more than geographical The book represents an important contribution to criticism on the work of one of the most influential voices in postcolonial literature of the last fifty years

Democracy and Development R.C. Bhardwaj,K. Vijayakrishnan,2018-10-26 Published in 1998 The question of whether democracy and development are allies or adversaries has long been debated and with the triumph of the democratic spirit worldwide the relationship between democracy and development has once again come to attract much attention globally The collapse of the Soviet Union and the developments in Eastern Europe led to considerable rethinking in political circles on the efficacy of the economic policies pursued in those countries and the long term viability of political systems prevalent there Elsewhere several newly industrialized countries are striving to consolidate their gains though there are differing perceptions of whether their politics conform to the classical framework of democracy or not In a remarkable turn around some other countries have initiated measures for economic reforms and structural adjustment setting aside their earlier approaches towards economic management In short the last decades of this millennium have witnessed meaningful efforts worldwide on forging a new partnership between democracy and development In February 1996 the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association jointly organized a conference entitled Parliamentary Democracy and Development Allies or Adversaries with the Wilton Park an international agency of the British Commonwealth and Foreign Office in Wilton House West Sussex United Kingdom The week long conference brought together parliamentarians diplomats administrators political scientists economists and specialists from all over the world The participants shared their views and experiences on diverse aspects of the main theme
