Falling In Love By Alberoni Francesco

Victor C. de Munck

Falling In Love By Alberoni Francesco:

Falling in Love Ayala Pines, Ayala Malach Pines, 2013-05-13 Falling in Love is the first book to unlock the mysteries of how and why we fall in love. Renowned psychologist Ayala Pines shows us why we fall for the people we do and argues convincingly that we love neither by chance nor by accident. She offers sound advice for making the right choices when it comes to this complicated emotion. Packed with helpful suggestions for those seeking love and those already in it, this book is about love's many puzzles. The second edition furthers the work of the popular and successful first edition. With expanded research, theory, and practice, this book once again provides one of a kind understandings of the experience of love. The new edition offers updated references to recent research, new chapter exercises, and case examples of romantic stories to begin each chapter.

Romantic Love and Sexual Behavior Victor C. de Munck, 1998-04-16 Westerners believe that love makes life worth living; that sex is a natural desire, different in kind from love, and that only cynics reduce our love life to a calculation of economic or genetic factors. In this volume, essays explore these and other assumptions about the relationship between romantic love and sex. This represents the first interdisciplinary social science study of love and sex. Contributors ask and answer questions such as: Is love just sex idealized, or is it a transcendent and divine emotion? Is love a cultural construct that is shared by members of the same culture, or is it a matter of personal taste? What keeps promiscuous people from using condoms even when they know they are at risk? Are black professional men so rare that their conceptions of love and sex differ from those of white professional men? Are brutal sexual fantasies an exclusively male domain, and are they always excluded from love fantasies among normal adolescents? Is divorce a culturally induced response to evolutionary reproductive strategies that compel individuals to maximize their genetic legacy? Are marriages or relationships less satisfying or stable when an actual mate falls short of the fantasy of the ideal mate? Is there a universal core to love and sex that is camouflaged by other cultural norms such as modesty and sexual segregation? Is rape perceived as more acceptable when the rapist says he was motivated by love? What do cult movements and romantic love have in common? As they attempt to answer these and other questions, the authors extend our understanding of the variety of ways that love and sex are conceptualized, connected, or separated.

A love story... with a happy ending Flávio Gikovate, 2013-08-06 Technological advances and changes in society have led to the growth of individuality and the impoverishment of conventional love, which nonetheless prevails in the collective imagination as an ideal. This slow transformation, according to Flávio Gikovate, is excellent news. He believes that adults today have two options, both of which are much better than the possessive conventional relationships of old: to live alone, establishing more superficial emotional and physical connections, or to develop relationships based on what he calls love, which respects individuality and can create ties capable of lasting a lifetime. In this work, Gikovate explains how to take the second path, definitely more difficult but far more rewarding.

Crucible of Love Jay Ramsay, 2012-06-29 Crucible of Love is a roadmap for a new understanding of love, radically challenging our conventional ideas about relationships. Written from the heart with passion and clarity it offers us a vision of what it means to live with love at the centre of our lives and where the wedding means all of us in true freedom and openness

Falling in Love Francesco Alberoni, 1983 Explores the phenomenon of romantic love describes its forms and stages and discusses how love dies when it fails to establish new value sets

Nature and Culture in Intimate Partner Violence

Silvia Bonino,2018-11-16 This innovative book aims to further our understanding of violence in intimate relationships between men and women by combining research from psychology cultural studies and biology The author examines why western culture often justifies and encourages primitive forms of relationships based on domination and submission and considers not only the cultural influences but also the biological aspects in their interaction The book clarifies the biological roots of aggression and affection in intimate relationships in humans showing that considering the biological roots of male dominance on women does not imply any justification Bonino makes the case that awareness about the biological roots of violence and about the cultural messages supporting them is necessary for developing different messages and educational practices promoting human capacity of personal affective relationship where partners empathically recognize themselves as equal human beings Relationships are examined in relation to a domination submission framework with the author emphasizing the role individuals can play in promoting non aggressive relationships By examining aggressive behaviour in relation to cultural social psychological and biological ideas the author seeks to clarify the cause of violence in relation to gendered roles This is fascinating reading for anyone interested in violence in relationships and suitable for students and academics in psychology and the social sciences

Christian Conversion Walter E. Conn, 2006-07-01 Walter Conn has provided us with something we have needed for a long time a scholarly study of Christian conversion that draws synthetically from present day psychology philosophy and theology and uses these insights to analyze actual Christian religious experience And in doing that Conn has produced what is probably the best treatment to date of foundational moral theology To follow Conn through the pages of this volume is to become acquainted with most of today's important reflection on human moral and personal development But one emerges with much more than relevant information about what is being said Conn's own view of conversion goes beyond the thinkers from whom he draws and provides a basic challenge to and enrichment of our understanding of faith and morality Bernard Cooke Holy Cross College Walter E Conn is Professor of Theology and Religious Studies at Villanova University He is also the editor of Horizons journal of the College Theology Society

Anthropology Of China, The: China As Ethnographic And Theoretical Critique Stephan Feuchtwang, Charlotte Bruckermann, 2016-07-13 Putting China into the context of general anthropology offers novel insights into its history culture and society Studies in the anthropology of China need to look outwards to other anthropological areas while at the same time anthropologists specialised elsewhere cannot afford to ignore contributions from China This book introduces a number of key themes and in each case describes how the anthropology and ethnography of China relates to the surrounding theories and issues The themes chosen include the anthropology of intimacy of morality of food and of feasting as well as the anthropology of civilisation modernity and the state The Anthropology of China covers both long historical perspectives and ethnographies of the twenty first century For the first time ethnographic perspectives on China are contextualised in comparison with general anthropological debates Readers are invited to engage in and rethink China's place within the wider world making it perfect for professional researchers and teachers of anthropology and Chinese history and society and for advanced undergraduate and graduate study

Invitation to Existential Psychology Bo Jacobsen, 2008-04-15 Existential psychology examines how people deal with the biggest issues such as finding meaning in life and facing death It deals with many of the same problems as psychoanalysis and analytical psychology but emphasises the view that one can understand the life of another by listening to their way of seeing existence and opening up their phenomenal world As a therapeutic approach it is recognised by the British Psychological Society and taught on a number of courses This introductory text discusses all the main contemporary theories of existential psychology and illustrates them with case examples Practical implications for clinical work are considered and comparisons with other approaches such as humanistic psychotherapy are made throughout
