Strife in the Sanctuary Phil Zuckerman, 2000-01-01 For more than forty years there was a single synagogue in the quiet town of Williamette Oregon But then disagreements over gender roles homosexuality Israeli politics and other issues tore the synagogue in two Where there was once one Jewish community under one roof there are now two hostile congregations_ one Reconstructionist one Orthodox_ across the street from one another Through a year as a participant in both congregations and in depth interviews Zuckerman tells a mesmerizing story of this religious schism Strife in the Sanctuary then contemplates why religious groups split apart and how religious symbols come to mean different things to different groups The first book length study of a single congregation breaking in two Strife in the Sanctuary provides a welcome ethnographic study for sociologists of religion Plus its moving story makes it an excellent read for undergraduate classes or anyone interested in religious divisions

International Relations Theory of War Ofer Israeli, 2019-04-10. Covering 1816-2016, this book deals extensively with the international system as well as the territorial outcomes of several key wars that were waged during that time period, providing an instructive lesson in diplomatic history and international relations among global powers. Based on an in-depth review of the leading theories in the field of international relations, International Relations Theory of War explains an innovative theory on the international system developed by the author that he applies comprehensively to a large number of case studies. The book argues that there is a unipolar system that represents a kind of innovation relative to other systemic theories. It further posits that unipolar systems will be less stable than bipolar systems and more stable than multipolar systems, providing new insights relative to other theories that argue that unipolar systems are the most stable ones. The first chapter is devoted to explaining the manner of action of the two dependent variables: systemic international outcome and intra-systemic international outcome. The second chapter presents the international relations theory of war and its key assumptions. The third chapter precisely defines the distribution of power in the system. The fourth chapter examines the theory's two key phenomena. The fifth and last chapter presents the book's conclusions by examining the theoretical assumptions of the international relations theory of war.

University of Pittsburgh, Western University of Pennsylvania, 1921      The Recombinant University Doogab Yi, 2015-03-23. The advent of recombinant DNA technology in the 1970s was a key moment in the history of both biotechnology and the commercialization of academic research. Doogab Yi's The Recombinant University draws us deeply into the academic community in the San Francisco Bay Area, where the technology was developed and adopted as the first major commercial technology for genetic engineering. In doing so, it reveals how research patronage, market forces, and legal developments from the late 1960s through the early 1980s influenced the evolution of the technology and reshaped the moral and scientific life of biomedical researchers Bay Area scientists university administrators and government officials were fascinated by and increasingly engaged in the economic and political opportunities associated with the privatization of academic research Yi uncovers how the attempts made by Stanford scientists and administrators to demonstrate the relevance of academic research were increasingly mediated by capitalistic conceptions of knowledge medical innovation and the public interest Their interventions resulted in legal shifts and moral realignments that encouraged the privatization of academic research for public benefit The Recombinant University brings to life the hybrid origin story of biotechnology and the ways the academic culture of science has changed in tandem with the early commercialization of recombinant DNA technology Register Cornell University,1922 Reports of Proceedings of the City Council of Boston for the Year ...
