False Mirror:

Australian Crickets (Orthoptera) Daniel Otte, 2007-12 This work began with 12 months of field work in Australia between June 1968 and June 1969. During approx 46 000 miles of travel the authors obtained data at 905 different localities visited all of the major Australian collections. Material in the European museums was examined on the return trip to the U S many types were borrowed later. The National Insect Collection at Canberra subsequently sent their entire collection of crickets for further study the Univ of Queensland sent a major part of their collection. This work includes 492 species of which 376 are new. These species are arranged in 85 genera of which 41 are new. Fourteen previously published names are synonymized 17 names are treated as nomina dubia. Illustrations. Cyberattack Muka, 2018-07-13 Its amazing how we go about our days and pay no mind to how the internet influences our moods and behaviors. This book is a depiction of how lethal and toxic the things we see on our screens can be to an individual. Book 1 of this series focuses on cyberspace as a new frontier a place that connects us all with our screens a grid system of millions and millions of networks where information is inserted and removed to affect an outcome. But is there a group of bad guys out there trying to invade our minds or are we just so stimulated by the trends of technology that we will become our own enemy. Only time will tell. The Key To Unlock The World Book One, Beyond Minimalism Enoch Brater, 1990-12-27 Beyond Minimalism explores Beckett's drama of the 70s and 80s examining the ways in which play text and performance merge through the playwright's poetic idiom. Beginning with Not I and continuing through Catastrophe and What Where Brater examines the plays not only as texts but also as theater pieces. Discussing the technical and aesthetic demands that productions like Footfalls and Rockaby make on actor director and spectator Brater clarifies the essential relationship between Beckett's achievement in the context of the breakdown of genre performance poetry and the electronic intrusion of the recorded voice as a new theatrical convention. In the course of his analysis Brater demonstrates how Beckett's late style in the theater both continues and clarifies the dramatic lyricism that is the hallmark of earlier works such as Endgame and Waiting for Godot. Lessons on Aging and Dying Ronald J. Pelias, 2020-12-07 Lessons in Aging and Dying: A Poetic Autoethnography captures the experience of being elderly and facing the end of life. The book presents a collection of poems about life's end accompanied with narrative commentary. Organized as 73 lessons, they can be read as personal curiosities, momentary realizations, farcical departures, embarrassing fears, therapeutic encounters, experiential truths, hopeful conjectures, and inevitable destinations. This book is a poetic inquiry that calls upon the lyrical in narrative and poetic forms to enter its subject. It also is an autoethnography that examines culture through the deployment of the self. Framed by introductory and concluding remarks, the book is organized around three developmental stages. The initial pages, Beginnings, recognize the author's birth into the end, a time when he knew he had arrived at a place beyond middle age. The middle unit, From Here to There, displays an unsettled settling in, driven by an ongoing tension between resistance and acquiescence. It serves as a transitional stage into Endings, the final section that anticipates death's imminent arrival and speculates about how the author might meet his end. Together, these units provide opportunities for identification, speculation, and resistance. Published as part of the prestigious autoethnographic series Writing Lives: Ethnographic and Autoethnographic Narratives and written by one of the foremost academics in the fields of communication and performance studies, this text is particularly suitable for students and researchers in subjects such as relational and family communication, gerontology, and end of life care and performance studies.
