A Future for Religion? William H. Swatos, 1993 In the 1960s many sociologists proclaimed traditional religion to be in its death throes But just as secularization gained nearly universal acceptance among scholars religious resurgence burst forth from many directions new religious movements and the growth of Islamic fundamentalism for example In A Future for Religion contributors ask whether if such dynamic forces are at work is religion really dying They discuss issues usually excluded from books on the sociology of religion including religious experience emotional renewal religion and the body The Sage Encyclopedia of LGBTQ+ Studies, 2nd Edition Abbie E. Interpersonal Communication in Older Adulthood Mary Lee Hummert, John M. Wiemann, John F. Nussbaum, 1994-09-13 This book is particularly relevant now as the baby boomer generation is aging and a greater proportion of the world s population is growing older Interpersonal communication is clearly the most critical process for promoting social integration and adaptation of older adults within society Yet understanding of the complex dynamics of interpersonal communication with the elderly is severely limited and the aged are often stigmatized stereotyped and isolated This book will help clarify the role of communication in effective social integration and adaptation of the aged by providing comprehensive and in depth analyses of relevant research and theory The book integrates information on the most important issues and contexts influencing interpersonal communication and aging and the individual chapters are written by an excellent group of authors who have demonstrated expertise on their topics The book is well organized clearly written and comprehensive The major topics are logically organized and compelling I highly recommend this book Gary L Kreps Northern Illinois University Aging obviously occurs at many levels with biological psychological and social systems showing multidirectional and interdependent changes What is less obvious is how these factors affect communication in later life This volume represents a strong contribution toward solving this problem by bringing together a group of prominent scholars with diverse perspectives on language communication and aging Elizabeth A I Stine University of New Hampshire The Hummert Wiemann and Nussbaum book brings together a strong theoretical base with the presentation of new data The chapters go well beyond the typical literature reviews usually found in edited volumes The contributors provide sophisticated presentations of a variety of socially significant and unique topics including the communicative impact of physical and cognitive changes sometimes associated with aging patronization verbosity frailty conversational skills proper names and the presentation of self Some of the chapters are strongly quantitative while others are more interpretive After building a strong rationale for the volume the editors go on to put together a series of well written chapters that provide a much needed emphasis on the social construction of relationships through communication The book should prompt much new research and advance our understanding of interpersonal communication and the aging process significantly Teresa Thompson University of Dayton The rich diversity of theoretical and methodological perspectives highlighted within the various chapters is an impressive feature of this edited collection. These essays add conceptual breadth and depth to our understanding of interpersonal communication and the process of aging. Mary Anne Fitzpatrick, Department of Communication Arts, University of Wisconsin. This book is a valuable addition to the gerontological literature. Written from the perspective of the communication researcher, it brings together existing literature and offers new insights to gerontologists working in many social science disciplines. I recommend Interpersonal Communication in Older Adulthood as a resource to any scholars interested in older adults. Victor G. Cicirelli, Professor of Developmental and Aging Psychology, Purdue University. This book is very timely. Communication is offering a new wave of aging research and interpersonal processes in communication are where our experiences and our personal theories of aging are grounded. This book brings together many of the researchers who are breaking new ground in communication and aging. It offers a valuable overview of where we have gone in aging theory, communicatively, and where we need to go. Interpersonal Communication in Older Adulthood demonstrates the rich diversity of methods and traditions of communication research that are beginning to illuminate gerontology. Nikolas Coupland, University of Wales, Cardiff. By highlighting the commonalities across a range of disciplines, Interpersonal Communication in Older Adulthood provides a unique and broad-based perspective on communication and aging. This integrative approach brings together the best of the current research and theory from communication, cognitive psychology, psycholinguistics, and medical sociology. The underlying framework of the book centers around three topics: cognition, language, and relationships, exploring the individual areas as well as the ways they intersect. In addition, this volume brings to light the implications of the elderly population's individual differences as they affect communication and illustrates the positive as well as the negative effects of the aging process on language production, relational satisfaction, and other communication-related variables. This major reference source, Interpersonal Communication in Older Adulthood, is essential reading for anyone concerned with the issues of aging and communication. Families and Retirement. Maximiliane Szinovacz, David J. Ekerdt, Barbara H. Vinick, 1992-03-10. What are the long-term effects of retirement on family relationships? Do personality characteristics or attitudes of one spouse impinge on the other spouse's retirement plans and adjustment? What differences exist in the ways males and females adapt to retirement? Leading researchers in the fields of family studies and gerontology present enlightening information on the impact of retirement on family relations. Original essays focus on gender and ethnic differences, the role of children, siblings, and significant others, and the multiple changes retirement creates in marriage. In addition, a variety of theoretical models, existing research, and methodological problems in studying retired families are explored. Families and Retirement is essential reading for graduate students, researchers, and professionals in gerontology, sociology, social work, family psychology, and policy studies. This is a well-written book. The editors have done a great job in selecting chapter authors whose research is important and directly related to the focus of the book. The book will be an excellent text for sociology classes focusing mainly on retirement. It will also serve well as a supplemental text in gerontology family studies economics and other college and university courses wherein retirement is studied Journal of Marriage and the Family Just when it seems too complex a task to produce a text that addresses retirement from the perspective of the family a new work appears that does just that The editors have successfully expanded the traditional concern with the individual by choosing studies showing relationships and issues on aspects of retirement and family Family Relations

Religion in Aging and Health Jeffrey S. Levin, 1994 This book brings together key scholars and practitioners from a range of fields in order to advance epidemiological and gerontological research into the role of religion in physical psychosocial and mental health Part One addresses such issues as hope forgiveness the psychodynamics of faith and belief and coping in a theoretical context Part Two seeks to advance the methodological sophistication of research in this area with an emphasis on measurement and design issues

The Elderly Caregiver Karen A. Roberto, 1993-08-09 By bringing together contributions from the fields of gerontology and developmental disabilities the editor of this volume makes an important statement about the need for collaborative and multidisciplinary research to be conducted in this area and for the developmental disabilities service system and the aging network to work together to support these caregivers and their family members with developmental disabilities American Journal on Mental Retardation The shift from institutional to community based care for individuals with developmental disabilities and their increase in longevity has resulted in more and more elderly serving as primary caregivers for adults with developmental disabilities The Elderly Caregiver addresses the predominate issues and concerns confronting these older caregivers By bringing together the empirical work of researchers from a variety of disciplines this volume provides insight into the physical psychological and social needs of this growing segment of the population Contributors explore the needs of elderly parents caring for adult children with mental retardation changes in their caregiving activities the increasing burden of caregiving and the ordeal of facing their own frailties while planning future out of home placement for their children Additional chapters focus on the needs of caregivers of aging adults with Down syndrome and Alzheimer s disease Finally case management is examined from the perceptions of family members as well as case managers themselves A concluding chapter draws together the implications for the future directions for practice policy and research Unique in its presentation The Elderly Caregiver is invaluable to researchers practitioners and advanced students in aging health rehabilitation social work and family studies Not only does the author provide insight into some of the physical social and psychological needs of these developmentally disabled adults she explores certain needs of the elderly parents who are facing their own aging problems This accessible book is geared for caregivers providers family members and professionals involved with older adults who have developmental disabilities This book offers highly practical advice of use to a wide variety of readers including the caregivers professionals and health care providers concerned with adults having these disabilities Academic Library Book Review In addition to enlightening the reader with its contemporary knowledge of the field the text is well organized and includes some of the most impressive empirical work conducted in this area As well it provides some good suggestions for future research The work provides a comprehensive perspective on family caregivers aging caregivers and the aging of people with developmental disabilities who are recipients of care At a time when numerous books on deinstitutionalization community care of the mentally ill and the intellectually impaired are appearing on the market it is a great pleasure to see a book that is well rounded I recommend this book as a valuable text for researchers practitioners and students of gerontology Further it will serve as an invaluable book for caregivers themselves It has undoubtedly made a significant contribution in the field The Canadian Health Psychologist This collection fills a significant unmet need and can be related to other caregiving situations It is an up to date and very readable book for practitioners and policy makers as well as researchers and educators Families should also find it useful The topic is a timely example of the need for service integration in our aging society This collection helps to address their needs and those of their children by applying theory suggesting additional research and making specific practice and policy recommendations

Contemporary Gerontology Aging, Society, and the Life Course, Fourth Edition Leslie A. Morgan, Suzanne Kunkel, 2011-03-15 Doody's Score 91 4 Stars This book's unfading preoccupation with social context social processes and social structures distinguishes itself and greatly contributes to the discourse in gerontology The Gerontologist This is a comprehensive textbook for both undergraduate and graduate level courses detailing the impact of societal forces on the aging process The book focuses on the diversity of the older population examining it from micro macro perspectives in order to understand aging and the life course as social phenomena This latest edition examines significant changes in the field of social gerontology such as the paradigms of aging and the life course the baby boomer cohorts as they approach retirement and later life the growing interest in global aging and civic engagement This text encourages students to examine aging from personal familial community societal and global perspectives including both the positive and negative realities of aging Key Features Provides websites of interest at the end of each chapter Presents provocative essays on love sex music medicine and crime to further expand on chapter contents Provides review questions and key terms as study guides at the end of each chapter Young Adult Reader's Adviser Marion Sader, 1992-01-30 The best in literature and language arts mathematics and computer science

Mass Communication and Public Health Charles K. Atkin, Lawrence Wallack, 1990-08 The media influence how we live and die Tobacco can kill us yet we continue to smoke Drinking and driving is a lethal combination yet we continue to drive when inebriated Poor diet slowly destroys us yet we continue to eat unhealthily Why Evolving from a national conference Mass Communication and Public Health examines why public information campaigns have achieved limited success and what can be done to improve their effectiveness This up to date volume has a fourfold focus The Oxford Handbook of Emerging Adulthood Jeffrey Jensen Arnett, 2016 The Oxford Handbook of Emerging Adulthood is the first and only comprehensive compilation spanning the field of emerging adulthood

Sharing Social Science Data Joan E. Sieber, 1991-02-12 Although major funding agencies now require social scientists to share their documented raw data scientists have been reluctant to comply The reasons include unwillingness to divulge all of the conditions under which the data were generated cost in time and money and the desire by social scientists to carry the research further themselves Data sharing however promises to foster more open cost effective and cumulative research and to improve the quality of methodology data and inference Sharing Social Science Data presents the major accomplishments of social scientists who have pioneered in data sharing highlighting the advantages for social science It also includes an examination of the reasons for data sharing the specific sharing practices in various disciplines the factors affecting the usefulness of shared data documentation archiving and marketing and individual and institutional concerns about data sharing A timely examination this cohesive and well written volume will interest graduate students and researchers in all areas of the social sciences the chapters are thoughtful and well written and they address many of the crucial issues faced by the social sciences in the 1990s anyone who wants to help shape the future of the social and behavioral sciences can benefit from giving this book at least a quick read Contemporary Psychology Handbook of Aging and the Social Sciences Kenneth Ferraro, Deborah Carr, 2021-01-09 Handbook of Aging and the Social Sciences Ninth Edition provides a comprehensive synthesis of the latest research findings in the science of aging The complexities of population dynamics cohort succession and policy changes modify the world and its inhabitants in ways that must be vigilantly monitored Completely revised this edition not only includes the foundational classic themes of aging research but also a rich array of emerging topics and perspectives that advance the field in exciting ways New topics include families immigration social factors and cognition caregiving neighborhoods and built environments natural disasters religion and health and sexual behavior among others This book will serve as a useful resource and an inspiration to those searching for ways to contribute to the aging enterprise Includes aging topics at both the micro and macro level Addresses the intersection of individual and aggregate factors Covers a spectrum of disciplines including demography economics epidemiology gerontology political science psychology social work sociology and statistics Brings together the work of almost fifty leading scholars to provide a deeper understanding of aging The New Localism Edward G. Goetz, Susan E. Clarke, 1993-10-07 How have local economic conditions been affected by the emergence of a global economy What changes if any have local political authorities made to counterbalance the new emphasis on world interests Comprehensive and timely this book answers these and other vital questions by exploring local political restructuring in the face of massive global economic change Social Research on Children and Adolescents Barbara Stanley, 1992 The important issues of what theory and research on human development can teach us about adolescents vulnerability how to reduce that vulnerability and under what circumstances parental consent does not protect children s rights are considered in this volume The editors skilfully bridge the gap between those volumes which set out legal requirements that govern research on minors and the research methodology literature on adolescent psychology Hidden Conflict In Organizations Deborah Kolb, Jean M. Bartunek, 1992 Conflict is a persistent fact of organizational life Much of it however rarely becomes public and instead is expressed behind the scenes in such forms as avoidance toleration gossip and vengeance This book takes examples from a number of organizational settings and makes the case that far from being an occasional occurrence conflict is embedded in their very fabric The authors go on to illustrate the frequency of conflict show how conflicts are actually handled and suggest that these conflicts can be better managed for organizational effectiveness
