Famine And Hunger:

Mass Starvation Alex de Waal, 2017-12-08 The world almost conquered famine Until the 1980s this scourge killed ten million people every decade but by early 2000s mass starvation had all but disappeared Today famines are resurgent driven by war blockade hostility to humanitarian principles and a volatile global economy In Mass Starvation world renowned expert on humanitarian crisis and response Alex de Waal provides an authoritative history of modern famines their causes dimensions and why they ended He analyses starvation as a crime and breaks new ground in examining forced starvation as an instrument of genocide and war Refuting the enduring but erroneous view that attributes famine to overpopulation and natural disaster he shows how political decision or political failing is an essential element in every famine while the spread of democracy and human rights and the ending of wars were major factors in the near ending of this devastating phenomenon Hard hitting and deeply informed Mass Starvation explains why man made famine and the political decisions that could end it for good must once again become a top priority for the international community Food and Famine in the 21st Century William A. Dando, 2012-02-13 This comprehensive two volume encyclopedia examines specific famines throughout history and contains entries on key topics related to food production security and policies and famine giving readers an in depth look at food crises and their causes responses to them and outcomes Famines have claimed more lives across human history than all the wars ever fought This two volume set represents the most comprehensive study of food and famine currently available providing the broadest analysis of hunger and famine causes as well as a detailed examination of the ramifications of cultural and natural hazards upon famine Volume one focuses upon 50 topics and issues relating to the creation of hunger and famines in the world from 4000 BCE to 2100 including an overview of how agriculture has evolved from primitive hunting and gathering that supported limited numbers of people to a worldwide system that now feeds over seven billion people Volume two entitled Classic Famines begins with famines of the past from 4000 BCE to 2100 CE includes ten classic famine case studies and concludes with predictions of famines we could see in the 21st century and beyond Hunger John R. Buttery, Jack Shepherd, 2010-12-14 A timely and provocative look at the role political developments and the biology of nutrition play in world famine Famine, Hunger and Starvation in Africa John Karefah Marah, 2006 During the many years of teaching drawing and painting I saw a number of students copying from paper back books These books contained outlined drawings of various subjects some in color indicating what color and where I wondered how can a student ever learn from a method such as this After an art session one evening outlining some of the points covered in this book almost in one voice they said How easy your method is to understand why don t you put it in book form For anyone wanting to draw or paint THIS BOOK IS FOR YOU Whose Hunger? Jenny Edkins, 2000 We see famine and look for the likely causes poor food distribution unstable regimes caprices of weather A technical problem we tell ourselves one that modern social and natural science will someday resolve To the contrary Jenny Edkins responds in this book Famine in the contemporary world is not the antithesis of modernity but its symptom A critical investigation of hunger famine and aid practices in international politics Whose Hunger shows how the forms and ideas of modernity frame our understanding of famine and consequently shape our responses Famine and Hunger Lawrence Williams,1992 Famine, a Heritage of Hunger Arline Tartus Golkin,1987

Hunger and Famine in the Long Nineteenth Century Gail Turley Houston,2022-05-19 This volume examines the rhetorics used around race and famine in the colonies vis vis the persistence of hunger and poverty in the island nation empire As William Booth reminded the British in his aptly titled In Darkest England 1890 one need not look further than London s underbelly to find intractable hunger The Coming Famine Julian Cribb,2010 Lays out a picture of impending planetary crisis a global food shortage that threatens to hit by mid century that would dwarf any in our previous experience This book describes a dangerous confluence of shortages of water land energy technology and knowledge combined with the increased demand created by population and economic growth Famine in Retreat? Gordon A. Bridger,Maurice De Soissons,1970 Study of trends in agricultural policies and the use of new cultivation techniques to eliminate world hunger covers methods of raising agricultural production and of improving nutrition in developing countries examines agrarian reform programmes irrigation schemes the use of agricultural machinery and fertilizers methods of soil conservation credits for marketing cooperatives the role of FAO in research and in organising training programmes for rural workers etc Bibliography pp 194 to 197 Famines. Understanding the Causes of Hunger and Disease in Sub-Saharan Africa Marc Bonenberger,2015-02-09 Seminar paper from the year 2009 in the subject Medicine Epidemiology grade 1 0 University of Basel Centre for African Studies Basel course Seminar Current Ecological and Health Issues language English abstract Despite the fact that there is currently enough food in the world for all the poorest billion of the world s population is suffering from starvation and hunger related diseases It was estimated that in the 20th century between 70 and 80 million people died in famines worldwide of which 4 million famine deaths occurred in Africa Even though the last two decades saw a reduction in famines in other parts of the world on the African continent it is still a sad reality There are numerous factors causing a famine most importantly natural disasters policy failures conflicts and wars production and market failures In most cases it is not a single factor triggering a famine but it is rather the result of interlocking processes The overall research question of this paper is How are famines caused what effects do they have on human health and what are the chances to reduce poverty and hunger in Africa This research question is answered in three chapters The first chapter is an attempt to explain the causes of famines by using the Panarchy Framework as developed by Gunderson and Holling in 2002 In the second chapter the relationship between hunger undernutrition and both communicable and non communicable diseases is explored This includes an analysis on how undernutrition is measured and which relief practices in emergency situations are usually being applied In the third chapter the strategies needed to meet the extreme poverty and hunger Millennium Development Goal are explored As there are a number of threats endangering the achievement of this goal in a second part of this chapter the main threats are identified to deliberate about whether or not this goal may be achieved in Africa

The Famine of 1896-1897 in Bengal Malabika Chakrabarti, 2004 This book is a focussed treatment of a famine both as an event and a process It is a close up of a peasant economy in the throes of a crisis which temporarily eroded the value system determining the normal pattern of entitlements An investigation of the socio economic ecological and cultural determinants of the famine helps evolve a coherent framework The emphasis is on the distinctive problems of the various economic regions most notably the tribal belts Chakrabarti applies Amartya Sen s theory of exchange entitlements to a nineteenth century famine situation in Bengal and finds that a market based entitlement failure precipitating severe famine conditions even without receiving any impulse from food production has little relevance here Though the book underlines the predicament of the subalterns the famine is not seen from the viewpoint of any specific group or community The focus is rather on the phenomenon of famine in its totality on the agony and trauma of a peasant society thrown out of gear in an abnormal situation and the crisis of identities that ensued

The Hungry Are Dying Susan R. Holman,2001-07-19 This study examines the theme of poverty in the fourth century sermons of Basil of Caesarea Gregory Nazianzen and Gregory Nysson These sermons are especially important for what they tell us about the history of poverty relief and the role of fourth century Christian theology in constructing the body of the redemptive involuntary poor Some of the topics explored include the contextualization of the poor in scholarship the poor in late antiquity and starvation and famine dynamics In exploring this relationship between cultural context and theological language this volume offers a broad and fresh overview of these little studied texts

The Aesthetics and Politics of Global Hunger Anastasia Ulanowicz,Manisha Basu,2018-02-14 This collection investigates modern imperialist practices and their management of hunger through its punctuated distribution amongst asymmetrically related marginal populations Drawing on relevant material from Egypt Ireland India Ukraine and other regions of the globe The Aesthetics and Politics of Global Hunger is a rigorously comparative study made up of ten essays by well established scholars from universities around the world Since modernity we have been inhabitants of a globe increasingly connected through discourses of equal access for all humans to the resources of the planet but the volume emphasizes alongside this reality the flagrant politicization of those same resources From this emphasis the essays in the volume place into relief the idea that ideological and aesthetic discourses of hunger could inform ethical thinking and practices about who or what constitutes the figure of the modern historical human
