Electronic Media Criticism Peter B. Orlik, 2008-11-19 Electronic Media Criticism introduces readers to a variety of critical approaches to audio and video discourse on radio television and the Internet. The book applies key aesthetic, sociological, philosophical, psychological, structural, and economic principles to arrive at a comprehensive evaluation of both programming and advertising content. It includes numerous critiques to illustrate the ways in which critical expression can be structured, providing readers with feasible and flexible tools for focused and rational analysis of electronic media products as well as enhanced understanding of the role and essential ingredients of criticism itself. These insights range from the perceptions of Plato and Aristotle to the research that motivates twenty-first century marketing and advertising. Selling

Broadcasting and Electronic Media Abani Malik, 2025-01-03. The illustrations in this book are created by Team Educocore. Broadcasting and Electronic Media: A Modern Guide delves into the essential study of mass communications: radio, television, popular culture, journalism, and emerging electronic media platforms in the 21st century. We explore the growth and development of electronic and broadcasting media from its earliest days to the present. This book is designed for both beginners and veterans looking to expand their knowledge. It provides a comprehensive introduction to media studies, highlighting how media influences our surroundings and the processes behind broadcasting and media production. We emphasize the role of new technologies in publishing accurate news quickly and efficiently. Readers will learn fundamental concepts and benefit from real-life case studies that enhance understanding. Written in accessible language, this book is perfect for those aspiring to become professionals in the field. Through practice and continuous learning, we aim to equip readers with the skills needed to excel in broadcasting and electronic media. Electronic Media and Technoculture John Thornton Caldwell, 2000. Never before has the future been so systematically envisioned, aggressively analyzed, and grandly theorized as in the present rush to cyberspace and digitalization. In the mid-twentieth century, questions about media technologies and society first emerged as scholarly hand-wringing about the deleterious sweep of electronic media and information technologies in mass culture. Now, questions about new technologies and their social and cultural impact are no longer limited to intellectual soothsayers in the academy but are pervasive parts of day-to-day discourses in newspapers, magazines, television, and film. Electronic Media and Technoculture anchors contemporary discussion of the digital future within a critical tradition about the media, arts, society, and culture. The collection examines a range of phenomena from boutique cyber practices to the growing ubiquity of e-commerce and the Internet. The essays chart a critical field in media studies, providing a historical perspective on theories of new media. The contributors place discussions of producing technologies in dialogue with consuming technologies, new media in relation to old media, and argue that digital media should not be restricted to the constraining public discourses of either the computer, broadcast motion picture, or Internet industries.

The collection charts a range of theoretical positions to assist readers interested in new media and to enable them to weather the cycles of hardware obsolescence and theoretical volatility that characterize the present rush toward digital technologies Contributors include Ien Ang John Caldwell Cynthia Cockburn Helen Cunningham Hans Magnus Enzensberger Guillermo Gomez Pea Arthur Kroker Bill Nichols Andrew Ross Ellen Seiter Vivian Sobchack Allucqure Rosanne Stone Ravi Sundaram Michael A Weinstein Raymond Williams and Brian Winston John Thornton Caldwell is chair of the film and television department at the University of California at Los Angeles He is a filmmaker and media artist and author of Televisuality Style Crisis and Authority in American Television also from Rutgers University Press
