history of musical composition in the late twentieth century when on the one hand so much of it seems impossibly fractured and disassociated and on the other there has been so little certainty about what the notion of music history might entail under the critiques of post modernism One of the most productive ways forward is to pursue case studies involving single composers whose music reflects several aspects of recent activity This enables the discussion of broad issues in a relatively focussed way whilst avoiding the pitfalls of traditional narrative histories and the centrifugal tendencies of the relativistic approach that some have called for The music of the English born 1943 and Australia domiciled composer Roger Smalley is ideal material for such a study because of his involvement with and response to an unusually large number of the myriad concerns and practices of post 1950s composition including post serial constructivism parody electro acoustic composition and the electronic modification of conventionally produced sound Moment Form aleatorism minimalism the use of non Western resources Aboriginal and South East Asian sonorities neo Romanticism and arguably the new classicism as well as a brief flirtation with rock music in the late 60s Employing an interview with the composer as a kind of cantus firmus the book the first extended single author study of Smalley s music to be published incorporates critical commentary on the composer s major works in a chronological narrative that engages with broad issues of central relevance to Smalley s generation such as the process of learning the craft of composition in the early 60s the motivation behind the adoption of certain technical and aesthetic positions the effects on technical and aesthetic orientation of both the changing relationships between composer performer and audience and technological change and the distinction between late and post modernism in music
