S. White,2015-10-23 Originally published in 1986 This collection of essays is unified by one leading idea that the active and creative abilities of listeners and readers deserve as much attention as the skills of speakers and writers. It is shown that hearers far from being passive recipients in the communicative process are in fact active in selecting, interpreting and creating from the disparate signals they receive. Equally, readers are involved in creating individual patterns of significance from a text. In presenting this argument, some essays deal with the importance of gender considerations, some with special modes of writing such as the private diary and literary translations, and others with the more familiar fields of poetry and drama. In the sphere of popular music, distinctions such as folk and pop indicate special problems in assessing the authenticity of a listener's response. By concentrating on active listening, the collection develops and illustrates the conviction that there are fundamental premises underlying the various disciplines under review, the analysis of which makes for a fuller understanding of communication in all its forms.

Focus on Them Ryan Changcoco, Megan Cole, Jack Harlow, 2018-12-26. Perfect the Skills to Excel as a Manager. An engagement crisis, a management skill shortage, a retention problem, call it what you will, today's research and workplace insights emphasize that many employees leave managers, not companies. Good managers know they need to deliver results to be successful. But great ones? They understand the essence of managing encompasses something more: making connections embodying the right skills and developing their direct reports. They also realize managing well takes practice. With Focus on Them, you'll get the tools and know how to excel as a manager. Edited by the Association for Talent Development's own management authority, Ryan Changcoco, research expert Megan Cole, and content developer Jack Harlow, this book explores ATD's new management framework, the ACCEL model. Each chapter, written by a leader in management and talent development, focuses on one of the five skills all managers need: Accountability (Timothy Ito), Communication (Ken O'Quinn), Collaboration (Winsor Jenkins), Engagement (Hunter Haines), Listening and Assessing (Michele Nevarez). By investing in your own development, boosting your ACCEL skills, you signal to your employees that you're serious about their development and learning, too. Becoming a manager isn't climbing a mountain. By focusing on the basics, you can transform from a results-oriented manager to the super people manager your employees need.
