Good Intentions Writing Center Work For Postmodern Times:

Good Intentions Nancy Maloney Grimm, 1999 Writing centers cannot resolve the national confusion about literacy but over time they can contribute to a better understanding and more democratic approaches to literacy education But to do this writing centers need to be more fully engaged with the paradox of literacy the way that literacy both dominates and liberates both demands submission and offers the promise of agency Nancy Grimm believes that postmodern theory which emphasizes the diversity of our society offers the best opportunities for this engagement Her book offers a fundamental reconsideration of writing center work work she maintains that must be informed by an understanding of the cultural role of literacy education Because so many educational practices are based on tacit assumptions about the normal way to do things Grimm argues that both the teaching and tutoring of literacy must be informed by a radical reconsideration of academic fairness Change will depend on the willingness of comfortably situated people to open themselves to authentic listening and the possibilities of having their world views transformed by writing center students Good intentions alone particularly good intentions grounded in a missionary narrative are not enough to overcome the potentially oppressive nature of literacy education Grimm begins by positioning the debate about the function of the writing center in the larger cultural conflict created by postmodern conditions She locates writing center work within the historical contradictions of literacy then analyzes the way composition teaching regulates an academic identity She goes on to show how postmodern theories of subjectivity offer ways to intervene in that regulation After reconceptualizing the politics of writing center administration Grimm ultimately argues for a conception of fairness that holds writing center workers responsible for not only granting students membership to the academic literacy club but also for changing the gates of that club when change is necessary Good Intentions is essential reading for educators involved with writing centers in any capacity whether they be directors researchers professional and undergraduate staff or simply teachers of students who use writing centers

Around the Texts of Writing Center Work R. Mark Hall, 2017-05-01 Around the Texts of Writing Center Work reveals the conceptual frameworks found in and created by ordinary writing center documents The values and beliefs underlying course syllabi policy statements website copy and comments assessment plans promotional flyers and annual reports critically inform writing center practices including the vital undertaking of tutor education In each chapter author R Mark Hall focuses on a particular document He examines its origins its use by writing center instructors and tutors and its engagement with enduring disciplinary challenges in the field of composition such as tutoring and program assessment He then analyzes each document in the contexts of the conceptual framework at the heart of its creation and everyday application activity theory communities of practice discourse analysis reflective practice and inquiry based learning Around the Texts of Writing Center Work approaches the analysis of writing center documents with an inquiry stance a call for curiosity and skepticism toward existing and proposed conceptual frameworks in the hope that the theoretically conscious evaluation and revision of commonplace documents will lead to greater efficacy and more abundant research by writing center administrators and students

The Writing Center Director's Resource Book Christina Murphy, Byron Stay, 2012-11-12 The Writing Center Director's Resource Book has been developed to serve as a guide to writing center professionals in carrying out their various roles duties and responsibilities It is a resource for those whose jobs not only encompass a wide range of tasks but also require a broad knowledge of multiple issues The volume provides information on the most significant areas of writing center work that writing center professionals both new and seasoned are likely to encounter It is structured for use in diverse institutional settings providing both current knowledge as well as case studies of specific settings that represent the types of challenges and possible outcomes writing center professionals may experience This blend of theory with actual practice provides a multi dimensional view of writing center work In the end this book serves not only as a resource but also as a guide to future directions for the writing center which will continue to evolve in response to a myriad of new challenges that will lie ahead

Writing Centers and the New Racism Laura Greenfield, Karen Rowan, 2011-12-16 Noting a lack of sustained and productive dialogue about race in university writing center scholarship the editors of this volume have created a rich resource for writing center tutors administrators and scholars Motivated by a scholarly interest in race and whiteness studies and by an ethical commitment to anti racism work contributors address a series of related questions How does institutionalized racism in American education shape the culture of literacy and language education in the writing center How does racism operate in the discourses of writing center scholarship lore and how may writing centers be unwittingly complicit in racist practices How can they meaningfully operationalize anti racist work How do they persevere through the difficulty and messiness of negotiating race and racism in their daily practice The conscientious nuanced attention to race in this volume is meant to model what it means to be bold in engagement with these hard questions and to spur the kind of sustained productive multi vocal and challenging dialogue that with a few significant exceptions has been absent from the field

Writing Center Research Paula Gillespie, Alice Gillam, Lady Falls Brown, Byron Stay, 2001-12-01 There are writing centers at almost every college and university in the United States and there is an emerging body of professional discourse research and writing about them The goal of this book is to open formalize and further the dialogue about research in and about writing centers The original essays in this volume all written by writing center researchers directly address current concerns in several ways they encourage studies data collection and publication by offering detailed reflective accounts of research they encourage a diversity of approaches by demonstrating a range of methodologies e g ethnography longitudinal case study rhetorical analysis teacher research available to both veteran and novice writing center professionals they advance an ongoing conversation about writing center research by explicitly addressing epistemological and ethical issues The book aims to encourage and guide other researchers while at the same time offering new knowledge that has resulted from the studies it analyzes

this collection writing program and writing center administrators from a range of academic institutions come together to explore their work through the lens of sensemaking Sensemaking is an organizational theory concept that enables institutions supervisors teachers tutors and others to better understand the work they do by using narrative metaphor and other theoretical lenses The book is divided into two sections Sensemaking with Tutors and Teachers and Sensemaking and Institutional Structures Chapter authors employ several theoretical approaches to sensemaking ranging from individual experience to institutional history to document design providing readers with ideas for how to administer and teach within their programs more effectively how to advocate for their programs within larger university contexts and how to positively influence the lives and careers of those they work with Sensemaking for Writing Programs and Writing Centers theorizes daily experiences from working lives and suggests problem solving strategies Writing program administrators writing department chairs and writing center directors tutors and staff will find value in its pages
