Fravel, 1991 This 192 page report describes the experiences of the Rural Connection Program RCP an attempt to link existing rural public transportation services with those of intercity carriers The study includes data gathered from 36 of the rural systems participating in the program and detailed case studies of four systems among these The RCP has not proven to be a big generator of revenue for the participating systems and only five systems reported more than 150 riders over the course of the program There is some evidence that local resources and expertise for marketing may be particular limiting factors on the arrangements The report should be especially interesting to operators of rural transportation services Rural Public and Intercity Bus Transportation, 1993

Best Practices in Rural Regional Mobility KFH Group, Cambridge Systematics, 2017 TRB's National Cooperative Highway Research Program NCHRP Research Report 861 Best Practices in Rural Regional Mobility addresses the role of state transit program policies and regional planning agencies in the development of services that fall in the middle ground between intercity bus service and rural public transportation This middle ground is defined as rural regional services The report provides lessons learned on how to address needs for rural regional mobility and includes a checklist for developing a rural regional route cf <http://www.trb.org/main/blurbs/176823.aspx> Analysis of State Rural Intercity Bus Strategies
