Effective Staff Development for School Change William T. Pink, Arthur A. Hyde, 1992 Any conception of staff development emerges from an understanding of teaching schooling and education The way people define and think about staff development will be influenced inevitably by their philosophy of education their values beliefs and their taken forgranted assumptions about what is and what ought to be Clearly education theories interpretations of research and experiential considerations impinge on educators ideas and actions Thus these three broad frameworks must be illuminated in order to examine staff development This work explores these three major sources of conceptions of staff development theory research and analytical reflection of educators experiences It offers fresh insights into teaching and schools as well as a broader and more powerful conception of staff development Resources in Education ,2001-04 Towards a Theory and Practice of Teacher Cultural Politics Barry Kanpol, 1992 In a series of insightful excursions through the institutional culture of schools and classrooms Kanpol provides us with a rich tapestry of experiences within which are found not only conformity coercion and alienation but also hope dignity and an empowering pedagogy of the other Most significantly the practices that value cultural differences and that enhance the voice of those historically silenced and demeaned emerge out of the egalitarian commitments and struggles of teachers In Kanpol's clear but simple formulation of similarity within difference there is the vision of human relationships which honor cultural linguistic and historical distinctiveness but which insist on the continuing vitality and viability of a common human vision and on the necessity of finding the common ground of political struggle Svi Shapiro From the Foreword Official Encouragement, Institutional Discouragement William G. Tierney, 1992 American Indian students are among the most underrepresented groups in academe and few of those who enter college finish This book attempts to provide greater understanding of Native American experiences in higher education through analysis based on critical theory focusing particularly on the recruitment and retention of Native Americans by postsecondary institutions At least two stories are told about the challenges and obstacles that Native Americans face in college The first story told by traditional research considers minority retention in higher education as a problem that has existed throughout academe s history Traditional research such as that of V Tinto focuses on student characteristics the fit between student and institution and the extent of student integration into the institution s academic and social life In contrast this book uses comparative case studies to provide multiple perspectives and to analyze the patterns of American Indian students experience within the conceptual framework of critical ethnography Over 200 interviews of students and staff were conducted at 10 postsecondary institutions including 4 tribal colleges with sizable Indian enrollments The voices of Indian students speak of how the world of higher education appears to them reflecting influences of family culture gender and class on student experience The final section analyzes the culture of power that exists in academe discusses rituals of student empowerment and offers suggestions for constructing alternative forms of authority and a culturally responsive pedagogy that empowers rather than disables Appendix comments on methodology and praxis Contains 157 references and The Creation of a Professional Learning Community for School Leaders Amalia author and subject indexes SV Humada- Ludeke, 2013-09-03 The unwavering culture of continuous improvement efforts to bring about school change has irrevocably changed the role expectations for the school leader. The school leader in the 21st century is increasingly perceived as an instructional leader expected to implement whole school reform models that can shape teacher practice and influence student outcomes The significant changes in role expectations for school leaders present considerable challenges to an educational system that was not designed to incorporate these conceptualizations. In light of the increased acceptance of changed leadership expectations the elements that are needed for developing supporting and sustaining instructional leaders who can lead systemic change efforts are frequently not present are fragmented or are observed at various developmental stages throughout the pK 20 pipeline This book is centered on the learning and changed behaviors of school leaders who engaged in a sustained job embedded professional learning community facilitated through a university district partnership The learning from the findings suggested that job embedded learning with their peers can be instrumental for these principals to build the capacity to lead systemic change efforts The findings further suggested that creating conditions for new understanding to occur and sustained opportunities to apply new learning in context to their role entailed a collaborative effort by a partnership involving two separate institutions with different priorities. The author makes a case for the educational pipeline to prioritize the support and understanding of complex systemic change efforts and innovations as they School Cultures Mary E. Henry, Mary E. Gardiner, 1993 Focusing on private schools are linked to school improvement this book makes an important contribution to our understanding of schools as social settings illustrating their potential to create alternative cultures Intriguing comparisons are made between the Waldorf School a clear example of holistic education and St Catherine's a traditional elite college preparatory school The characteristics of each school are examined and compared On the one hand the Waldorf School embracing an holistic model advocates an aesthetically enriching life in harmony with nature for its students Its emphasis on natural materials as well as its developmental view of the child and curriculum focused on music and the arts is unique The Waldorf School asserts a romantic and progressive view of education that is relevant in a world that is becoming increasingly alienating and dehumanizing On the other hand St Catherine s represents an academic elite model of education and faces the problems of our modern society in a different way by teaching students to compete and excel in a competitive world while holding onto moral and ethical values The schools meanings are shown to be imbued through five cultural domains history and myths curriculum rituals time and space and social relationships The analysis reveals the schools quite different responses to the world to others and toward the individual self

Education leadership Leentjie van Jaarsveld, Charl C. Wolhuter, C.P. van der Vyver, 2023-03-01 Leadership in education has been demonstrated to make a measurable and significant impact on the success of schools and the achievement levels of learners This book displays the scope and range of the emerging field of the scholarship of education leadership by means of chapters zooming in on various areas of research in the field The ensuing chapters focusing on various areas in the field of Education Leadership scholarship are ordered in the following categories chapters dealing with teacher leadership school leadership and mid level leadership The sections cover Collective Teacher efficacy in high performing high schools in South Africa leadership and leadership challenges of school principals of special schools entrepreneurial leadership perceptions of school staff and school governing bodies regarding the use and maintenance of ageing school facilities and continuous professional development of teachers in Namibia All the chapters employ a variety of research methods The research reported on in each of the chapters does not only give clear indications as to how and where to improve practice but also opens vistas for new and future research suggesting to scholars in the field promising ways to take the field forward with research critical to the continual advance and relevance of the field EBOOK: Educational Inclusion as Action Research Christine O'Hanlon, 2003-10-16 One of the most accessible features of the book is the incorporation of vignettes of real life action research enquiries and in some cases drawing on the field notes an journals kept by the teachers themselves There is much to welcome in this book There is an engaging honesty of tone an abiding sense of authenticity in the author s voice this is writing which comes out of long professional experience of teaching pupils with learning difficulties and challenging behaviour and equal experience of facilitating action research enquiries in her practice as a teacher educator European Journal of Special Needs Education In its detailed elaboration of action research as a basis for teacher professional development this book locates inclusive practice in a discursive process that continually interprets its meaning while at the same time inevitably changes educational cultures The book starts by linking government policy with social justice and inclusion issues and argues that inclusion is currently promoted via a democratic political process which needs to be complemented at a professional level through the demonstration of democratic and inclusive procedures in the investigatory process itself. The text argues for action research as a means of implementing and evaluating inclusive practice in classrooms. and schools action research as an interpretive and discursive process inclusion related to specific educational contexts inclusion as responsive to change and improvement at any level This book is ideal for postgraduate students teachers and educational professionals who need a basis for developing inclusive practice Religion in Education Joyce Miller, Kevin O'Grady, Ursula McKenna, 2013 This volume explores numerous themes including the influence of ethnography on religious education research and pedagogy the interpretive approach to religious education the relationship between research and classroom practice in religious education providing a critique of contemporary religious education and exploring the implications of this critique for initial and continuing teacher education American Book Publishing Record, 1992

Struggling With Their Histories Alan J. DeYoung,1991 This monograph draws on case studies of school community partnership projects in four rural southeastern school districts in order to elaborate a thorough description of school contextual factors in the rural Southeast In 1986 Appalachia Educational Labaoratory AEL one of nine federally funded research and development laboratories received funding as part of a rural initiative to address economic decline and educational opportunities in rural areas The following year AEL implemented demonstration projects in Braxton County West Virginia Charlotte County Virginia and two Tennessee and Kentucky counties identified by pseudonyms The goal of the 2 year project was to help rural schools and communities identify problem areas for school improvement and to analyze community and economic factors contributing to economic decline Chapter 1 describes methodologies focal concerns and project implementation Chapters 2.5 present the four case studies focusing on community and school leadership dynamics and providing a historical analysis of each county s economic political and sociological context The last chapter expands on the general theme that previous and current social economic and political conditions surrounding rural schools affect present educational conditions and school improvement strategies and practices This chapter also describes recent 1990 dynamics in each county and assesses school improvement practices implemented by AEL Contains references and author and subject indexes LP Books in Print Supplement ,1994 The Tapestry of Caring A. Renee Prillaman, Doris M. Kendrick, 1994 Intending to ground the theories of caring in education this book expands the current discourse on caring The work of those who have examined the ethic of caring has provided a rich and useful discussion of the topic from people who no doubt are caring and are committed to caring in practice However the representation of reallife expressions of caring within educational contexts has been missing from the literature This books fills this void by providing a collection of current expressions of educators and researchers experiences as they seek to manifest caring A Guide to Building Education Partnerships Matthew T. Hora, Susan B. Millar, 2023-07-03 Education partnerships are central to and often a requirement of most education reform initiatives promoted by state and local governments by foundations and by business funders Many fail for failure to understand the dynamics of their complex relationships This book provides insights and guidance to enable prospective and existing education partners to develop answers to the questions that are critical to success Why engage in this partnership How can you communicate the potential benefits of partnership to motivate teachers faculty administrators and community members How do you select the best organizational structure and procedures for a partnership How can you maintain open deliberative discussion while respecting different histories and cultures How can you produce compelling evidence that the partnership is worthwhile Based on their observation of a five year long publicly funded partnership research data and the literature the authors identify the principles that they consider critical to answering these questions The authors do not minimize the differences and complexities inherent in partnership work because they believe that doing so would be to present coherence and homogeneity where none exists Instead they seek to make evident how these principles underlie many different partnership situations. Thus rather than presenting a package of best practices or a cookie cutter approach this book presents the organizational principles for planning and implementing education partnerships along with sets of strategies for working through them The authors present the diagnostic tools for undertaking a deliberate and research based approach to planning designing and managing a partnership By surfacing participants often differing motivations and the practices and assumptions they bring to the table the book provides the foundation for developing a constructive relationship In scope the book extends beyond school university partnerships to include schools collaboration with state and local governments nonprofit organizations and the business sector Cross-Disciplinary Approaches to Action Research and Action Learning Mapotse, Tome Awshar, 2017-07-31 The complexity of 21st century lifestyle makes collaborative research and learning essential for all of the population both in well resourced and socio economically challenged regions Cross Disciplinary Approaches to Action Research and Action Learning is an advanced reference source including the latest scholarly research on the examination of the development of a community practice of research in order to improve problem solving in various fields Featuring extensive coverage on a broad range of topics such as social justice organizational development and global economy this publication is ideally designed for academics researchers scholars and managers seeking current research on the promotion of collaborative research and learning Educational Perspectives Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1993 .2000 Democratic Leadership Thomas A. Mulkeen, Nelda H. Cambron-McCabe, Bruce J. Anderson, 1994 Almost a decade ago a national commission formally announced a time of crisis in American education Since then Americans have been engaged in a debate about the purpose and organization of tomorrow s schools While the early reform reports were silent on the preparation of school administrators recent reports have focused on the failure to turn out well prepared administrators The National Commission on Excellence in Educational Administration 1987 and the National Policy Board for Educational Administration 1989 called for sweeping changes in the recruitment preparation regulation and evaluation of school administrators It was argued that raising standards for admission to educational administration programs more courses adding more rigor to existing courses tighter certification requirements competency based licensing and supervised school site internships would address the concerns raised by practitioners and numerous other critics Educational reforms directed toward raising the quality of our schools require administrators who are collaborative dynamic and innovative problem solvers administrators who can guide the educational enterprise to higher achievement provide individuals with aspirations and dreams and critically inculturate the young into a political democracy

Testing, Reform, and Rebellion H. Dickson Corbett, Bruce L. Wilson, 1991 This book represents one of the first extensive investigations of the effects of statewide testing policies on local school districts It focuses on the increasingly popular tool in education of promoting reform by comparison There is a prevailing assumption among policymakers and state education officials that they can pressure schools into action by comparing schools school districts and states on test performances However this pressure often pushes schools into taking the wrong actions The authors have detailed the local responses to statewide minimum competency testing programs in two states and conclude that these responses do not in any way resemble the kind of serious examination of purpose process and structure involving educators and education stakeholders that one would associate with the term reform They argue that the blame for this lack of progress lies not with educators misuse of tests nor necessarily with the tests themselves but with policymaker's misuse of testing as a tool for reform The authors hope is that this volume will contribute to the demise of a type of educational policy that blocks reform much more than stimulates it Handbook of Educational Psychology David C. Berliner, Robert C. Calfee, 2004 Sponsored by Division 15 of APA the second edition of this groundbreaking book has been expanded to 41 chapters that provide unparalleled coverage of this far ranging field Internationally recognized scholars contribute up to date reviews and critical syntheses of the following areas foundations and the future of educational psychology learners development individual differences cognition motivation content area teaching socio cultural perspectives on teaching and learning teachers and teaching instructional design teacher assessment and modern perspectives on research methodologies data and data analysis New chapters cover topics such as adult development self regulation changes in knowledge and beliefs and writing Expanded treatment has been given to cognition motivation and new methodologies for gathering and analyzing data The Handbook of Educational Psychology Second Editionprovides an indispensable reference volume for scholars teacher educators in service practitioners policy makers and the academic libraries serving these audiences It is also appropriate for graduate level courses devoted to the study of educational psychology s teacher educators in service practitioners policy makers and the academic libraries serving these audiences It is also appropriate for graduate level courses devoted to the study of educational psychology
