French Orientalism Desmond Hosford, Chong J. Wojtkowski, 2010-07-12 In 1798 Napoleon I launched his Egyptian Campaign and opened what has become recognized as the canonic period of French Orientalism which extends from the late eighteenth through the early twentieth century As defined by Edward W Said Orientalism 1978 Orientalism is intrinsically Eurocentric and places the Orient in opposition to the European West as the quintessentially foreign Other In this sense the Occident supposedly defines itself by gazing at the East as its inverse image and purportedly asserts a geopolitical dominance materially confirmed through imperialism and colonization Although Europe may cast the Orient as the archetypal Other this necessarily entails deep conflict since the Orient is also frequently posited as the source of Western civilization which prohibits the articulation of a complete separation between Europe and the Orient Nevertheless according to French Orientalist discourse the East had fallen into barbarism inertia and languished awaiting the mission civilisatrice by which France undertook a heroic project of universal enlightenment The canonic approach to Orientalism has drawn much criticism which calls for re-examining the notion of French Orientalism broadening the scope of enquiry and exploring the history and ideological strategies behind French formulations of the Orient from the Middle Ages through the twenty-first century Such an expanded field of investigation reveals that the canonic Orientalist paradigm is not universally applicable particularly regarding material from before the late eighteenth century New theoretical literary historical philosophical and cultural perspectives provide the opportunity to question subvert and resituate canonic Orientalist theories revealing the continuing evolution and relevance of French Orientalism as a notion with global stakes and material consequences Because of its broad scope and variety of theoretical approaches this volume will interest scholars and students from a wide spectrum of disciplines including literature gender studies history theater art history music cinema and cultural studies
