The Second Cognitive Revolution Bo Allesøe Christensen, 2019-10-17

Rom Harr's career spans more than 40 years of original contributions to the development of both psychology and other human and social sciences. Recognized as a founder of modern social psychology, he developed the microsociological approach, ethogenics, and facilitated the discursive turn within psychology, as well as developed the concept of positioning theory. Used within both philosophy and social scientific approaches aimed at conflict analysis, analyses of power relations, and narrative structures, the development and impact of positioning theory can be understood as part of a second cognitive revolution. Whereas the first cognitive revolution involved incorporating cognition as both thoughts and feelings as an ineliminable part of psychology and social sciences, this second revolution released this cognition from a focus on individuals and towards a focus of understanding individuals as participating in public practices using public discourses as part of their cognition. This edited volume adds to the scholarly conversation around positioning theory, evaluates Rom Harr's significance for the history and development of psychology, and highlights his numerous theoretical contributions and their lasting effects on the psychological and social sciences. Included among the chapters: What is it to be a human being? Rom Harr on self and identity; The social philosophy of Harr as a philosophy of culture; The discursive ontology of the social world; Ethics in socio-cultural psychologies; Discursive cognition and neural networks. The Second Cognitive Revolution: A Tribute to Rom Harr is an indispensable reader for anyone interested in his cognitive historical turn and finds an audience with academics and researchers in the social and human science fields of cognitive psychology, social psychology, discursive psychology, philosophy, sociology, and ethnomethodology. Psychology Nevid, Jeffrey S. Nevid, 2003-06-09
