Growth Without Miracles Ross Garnaut, Yiping Huang, 2001 China's economic reform constitutes one of the most remarkable events of the second half of the twentieth century It not only significantly improved the living conditions of the Chinese population but also provides a useful model of economic transition from central planning to a market economy The gradual approach to reform adopted by the Chinese was widely regarded as suboptimal and likely to fail when compared to the shock therapy method applied in the former Soviet Union and the Eastern European economies But China has out performed other transitional economies To many observers the Chinese experience is either a myth or a miracle This volume addresses key questions about the initial economic foundations the reform of macroeconomic policies and macroeconomic stability the achievements of agricultural reform and the agricultural policy choices facing the Chinese government the unique characteristics of the township and village enterprises the successful reform of the state owned enterprises the development of factor markets the contributions of the external sectors to economic growth the lessons of the Chinese experience for transitional economies and the challenges for economic theory

Growth without Miracles brings together thirty widely cited articles by prominent economists in the field of China studies to offer authoritative and thorough assessment and analyses of China's experience during the reform period It provides a complete story for teachers and students of courses on the Chinese economy and will be of considerable interest to researchers officials and business people who want to understand past experiences current problems and the future direction of the Chinese economy

Migrant Workers' Education in China Fusheng Jia,2022-06-16 Based on an extended period of ethnographic research and observation of migrant workers educational programmes this book presents a theoretical exploration of social and educational issues in an industrialised area in south China It highlights the tensions existing between the traditional ideology stressing collectivism selfless devotion and teacher centred teaching and the new social practices promoting commercialization personal development and interactive teaching The author provides first hand descriptions and analyses of rural urban migrant workers lives work and education He develops the ethnographic approach by analysing the tensions and contradictions in the implementation processes of educational policies in the region The book argues that the educational programmes which focused on elite workers to support the development of industrialization and urbanization projects assisted migrant workers as students in promoting their aspirations However this also stratified migrant workers thus increasing gaps in socioeconomic status and professional development Education policy design and implementation are observed as a dynamic process thus contributing to a nuanced understanding of adult education and migration at a micro level

Categories and Contexts Simon Szreter,Hania Sholkamy,A. Dharmalingam,2004-03-18 Throughout its history as a social science demography has been associated with an exclusively quantitative orientation for studying social problems As a result demographers tend to analyse population issues scientifically through sets of fixed social categories that are divorced from dynamic relationships and local contexts and processes This volume questions these fixed categories in two ways First it examines the historical and political circumstances in which such categories had their provenance and second it reassesses their uncritical applications over space and time in a diverse range of empirical case studies encouraging throughout a constructive interdisciplinary dialogue involving anthropologists demographers historians and sociologists This volume seeks to examine the political complexities that lie at the heart of population studies by focusing on category formation category use and category critique It shows that this takes the form of a dialectic between the needs for clarity of scientific and administrative analysis and the recalcitrant diversity of the social contexts and human processes that generate population change The critical reflections of each chapter are enriched by meticulous ethnographic fieldwork and historical research drawn from every continent This volume therefore exemplifies a new methodology for research in population studies one that does not simply accept and re use the established categories of population science but seeks critically and reflexively to explore test and re evaluate their meanings in diverse contexts It shows that for demography to realise its full potential it must urgently re examine and contextualize the social categories used today in population research
