Four Late Eighteenth Century Anglo-American Landscape Painters Jacob Hall Pleasants, 1943      Four Late Eighteenth Century Anglo-American Landscape Painters Jacob Hall Pleasants, 1970      Measure and Design in American Painting, 1760-1860 Lisa Fellows Andrus, 2018-12-07 First published in 1977 The purpose of this study is to locate the sources for the American style of painting characterised by measure and design the representation of the specific and familiar according to principles of pictorial order The reader shall see that there were a variety of conventions available to the artist and that his selection of one or another of them depended upon pragmatic philosophical and aesthetic considerations      George Washington's Eye Joseph Manca, 2012-09 Explore the beauty and history of Mount Vernon and the inquisitive independent mind of its famous architect and landscape designer Winner of the John Brinkerhoff Jackson Book Prize of the Foundation for Landscape Architecture On the banks of the Potomac River Mount Vernon stands with its iconic portico boasting breathtaking views and with a landscape to rival the great gardens of Europe as a monument to George Washington's artistic and creative efforts More than one million people visit Mount Vernon each year drawn to the stature and beauty of Washington's family estate Art historian Joseph Manca systematically examines Mount Vernon its stylistic moral and historical dimensions offering a complete picture of this national treasure and the man behind its enduring design Manca brings to light a Washington deeply influenced by his wide travels in colonial America with a broader architectural knowledge than previously suspected and with a philosophy that informed his aesthetic sensibility Washington believed that design choices and personal character mesh to form an ethic of virtue and fulfillment and that art is inextricably linked with moral and social concerns Manca examines how these ideas shaped the material culture of Mount Vernon Based on careful study of Washington's personal diaries and correspondence and on the lively accounts of visitors to his estate this richly illustrated book introduces a George Washington unfamiliar to many readers an avid art collector amateur architect and leading landscape designer of his time      Routledge Library Editions: Art and Culture in the Nineteenth Century Various, 2021-03-29 This set of 11 volumes originally published between 1946 and 2001 amalgamates a wide breadth of research on Art and Culture in the Nineteenth Century including studies on photography theatre opera and music This collection of books from some of the leading scholars in the field provides a comprehensive overview of the subject how it has evolved over time and will be of particular interest to students of art and cultural history      The Grove Encyclopedia of American Art Joan M. Marter, 2011 Arranged in alphabetical order these 5 volumes encompass the history of the cultural development of America with over 2300 entries      Stewards of Memory Carol Borchert Cadou, 2018-11-27 Mount Vernon despite its importance as the estate of George Washington is subject to the same threats of time as any property and has required considerable resources and organization to endure as a historic site and house This book provides a window into the broad scope of preservation work undertaken at Mount Vernon over the course of more than 160 years and places this work

within the context of America's regional and national preservation efforts. It was at Mount Vernon beginning with efforts in 1853 that the American tradition of historic preservation truly took hold. As the nation's oldest historic house museum, Mount Vernon offers a unique opportunity to chronicle preservation challenges and successes over time as well as to forecast those of the future. Stewards of Memory features essays by senior scholars who helped define American historic preservation in the twentieth and early twenty-first centuries, including Carl R. Lounsbury, George W. McDaniel, and Carter L. Hudgins. Their contributions, complemented by those of Scott E. Casper, Lydia Mattice Brandt, and Mount Vernon's own preservation scholars, offer insights into the changing nature of the field. The multifaceted story told here will be invaluable to students of historic preservation, historic site professionals, specialists in the preservation field, and any reader with an interest in American historic preservation. Mount Vernon Support provided by the David Bruce Smith Book Fund and the Fred W. Smith National Library for the Study of George Washington at Mount Vernon.

The Creation of the British Atlantic World

Elizabeth Mancke, Carole Shammas, 2015-10-15. Was the British Atlantic shaped more by imperial rivalries or by the actions of subnational groups with a variety of economic, social, and religious agendas? The Creation of the British Atlantic World analyzes the interrelationship between these competing explanations for the development of the British Atlantic by examining migration patterns on both the macro and micro level. It also scrutinizes the roles played by trade, religion, ethnicity, and class in linking Atlantic borders and the increasingly complicated legal, intellectual, and emotional relationship between the British sovereign and colonial charterholders. Contributors include Joyce E. Chaplin, John E. Crowley, David Barry Gaspar, April Lee Hatfield, James Horn, Ray A. Kea, Elizabeth Mancke, Philip D. Morgan, William M. Offutt, Robert Olwell, Carole Shammas, Wolfgang Splitter, Mark L. Thompson, Karin Wulf, Avihu Zakai.

Art, Artisans and Apprentices

James Ayres, 2014-06-30. Before the foundation of academies of art in London in 1758 and Philadelphia in 1805, most individuals who were to emerge as artists trained in workshops of varying degrees of relevance. Easel painters began their careers apprenticed to carriage house sign or ship painters, whilst a few were placed with those who made pictures. Sculptors emerged from a training as ornamental plasterers or carvers. Of the many other trades in a position to offer an appropriate background were limning, staining, engraving, surveying, chasing, and die sinking. In addition, plumbers gained the right to use oil painting, and for plasterers, the application of distemper was an extension of their trade. Central to the theme of this book is the notion that for those who were to become either painters or sculptors, a training in a trade met their practical needs. This training was of an altogether different nature to an education in an art school. In the past, prospective artists were offered by means of apprenticeships an empirical rather than a theoretical understanding of their ultimate vocation. James Ayres provides a lively account of the interrelationship between art and trade in the late seventeenth to early nineteenth centuries in both Britain and North America. He demonstrates with numerous illustrated examples the many cross-overs in the art and mystery of artistic training and, to modern eyes, the sometimes incongruous relationships between the various trades that
