The everyday world The public world The academic world The work world These are the Four Worlds of Writing explored in this book providing familiar contexts that help students use the writing process to expand knowledge and effect change This composition text teaches flexible strategies to hone writing skills Readers learn to begin the process by asking questions about important aspects of their lives that they seek to understand and change Writing becomes a means to build on what they know and create some form of action such as gaining new insights increasing commitment to an issue taking a new position or rejecting an old one With multiple writing examples Four Worlds of Writing offers guidance to help its readers write more powerfully and persuasively For those interested in improving their writing to help its readers write more powerfully and persuasively For those interested in improving their writing      Writing Plural Worlds in Contemporary U.S. Poetry J. Keller, 2009-08-03 This book reveals how poets within the U S multi ethnic avant garde give up the goal of narrating one comprehensive rooted view of cultural reality in favour of constructing coherent accounts of relational local selves and worlds      Academic Discourse and Critical Consciousness Patricia Bizzell, 1992-12-18 This collection of essays traces the attempts of one writing teacher to understand theoretically and to respond pedagogically to what happens when students from diverse backgrounds learn to use language in college Bizzell begins from the assumption that democratic education requires us to attempt to educate all students including those whose social or ethnic backgrounds may have offered them little experience with academic discourse Over the ten year period chronicled in these essays she has seen herself primarily as an advocate for such students sometimes called basic writers Bizzell s views on education for critical consciousness widely discussed in the writing field are represented in most of the essays in this volume But in the last few chapters and in the intellectual autobiography written as the introduction to the volume she calls her previous work into question on the grounds that her self appointment as an advocate for basic writers may have been presumptuous and her hopes for the politically liberating effects of academic discourse misplaced She concludes by calling for a theory of discourse that acknowledges the need to argue for values and pedagogy that can assist these arguments to proceed more inclusively than ever before The essays in this volume constitute the main body of work in which Bizzell developed her influential and often cited ideas Organized chronologically they present a picture of how she has grappled with major issues in composition studies over the past decade In the process she sketches a trajectory for the development of composition studies as an academic discipline      Essays on Classical Rhetoric and Modern Discourse Robert J. Connors, Lisa S. Ede, Andrea A.

Lunsford,1984 Eighteen essays by leading scholars in English speech communication education and philosophy explore the vitality of the classical rhetorical tradition and its influence on both contemporary discourse studies and the teaching of writing Some of the essays investigate the rhetorical and historical issues Others show the bearing of classical rhetoric on contemporary problems in composition thus blending theory and practice Common to the varied approaches and viewpoints expressed in this volume is one central theme the 20th century revival of rhetoric entails a recovery of the classical tradition with its marriage of a rich and fully articulated theory with an equally efficacious practice A preface demonstrates the contribution of Edward P J Corbett to the 20th century revival and a last chapter includes a bibliography of his works

Forum ,1999      English Teaching Forum ,2000      Publishing in Rhetoric and Composition Gary A. Olson,Todd W. Taylor,1997-03-13 Publishing in Rhetoric and Composition is a collection of essays about the politics and practices of generating scholarship in rhetoric and composition The contributors to this book many of whom are current or past editors of the discipline's most prestigious scholarly journals undoubtedly have their finger on the pulse of composition's most current scholarship and offer invaluable insight into the production and publication of original research They discuss publishing articles and reviews as well as book length projects including scholarly monographs edited collections and textbooks They also address such topics as how composition research is valued in English departments recent developments in electronic publishing the work habits of successful academic writers and the complications of mentoring graduate students in a publish or perish profession An inviting and helpful tone makes this an ideal textbook for research methodology and professional writing courses      Feminine Principles and Women's Experience in American Composition and Rhetoric Louise Phelps,Janet Emig,2020-03-16 In this unique collection the editors and authors examine against a rich historical background the complex contributions that women have made to composition and rhetoric in American education Using varied and at times experimental modes of presentation to portray teachers and learners at work including the very young and the elderly the text provides a generous and fresh feminine perspective on the field      Negotiating Academic Literacies Vivian Zamel,Ruth Spack,2012-08-06 Negotiating Academic Literacies Teaching and Learning Across Languages and Cultures is a cross over volume in the literature between first and second language literacy This anthology of articles brings together different voices from a range of publications and fields and unites them in pursuit of an understanding of how academic ways of knowing are acquired The editors preface the collection of readings with a conceptual framework that reconsiders the current debate about the nature of academic literacies In this volume the term academic literacies denotes multiple approaches to knowledge including reading and writing critically College classrooms have become sites where a number of languages and cultures intersect This is the case not only for students who are in the process of acquiring English but for all learners who find themselves in an academic situation that exposes them to a new set of expectations This book is a contribution to the effort to discover ways of supporting learning across languages and cultures and to transform views about what it means to teach and learn to read and write and to think and know Unique to this volume is the inclusion of the perspectives of writers as well as those of teachers and researchers Furthermore the contributors reveal their own struggles and accomplishments as they themselves have attempted to negotiate academic literacies The chronological ordering of articles provides a historical perspective demonstrating ways in which issues related to teaching and learning across cultures have been addressed over time The readings have consistency in terms of quality depth and passion they raise important philosophical questions even as they consider practical classroom applications The editors provide a series of questions that enable the reader to engage in a generative and exciting process of reflection and inquiry This book is both a reference for teachers who work or plan to work with diverse learners and a text for graduate level courses primarily in bilingual and ESL studies composition studies English education and literacy studies

Editing Sam Dragga,Gwendolyn Gong,2018-02-06 This book is intended to familiarize readers with the theoretical basis and practical applications of the editing process This involves the examination of the rhetorical canons invention arrangement style delivery and the corresponding rhetorical objectives of editing accuracy clarity propriety and artistry We envision a diverse audience for this book For aspiring editors we offer an introduction to rhetorical principles as a vehicle for developing a repertoire of theoretically sound and effective strategies For professionals directors of communications public relations specialists experienced writers and editors of professional and technical publications this book will serve as a reference and guide reinforcing their intuitive understanding and appreciation of the art of editing

Computers & Composing Jeanne W. Halpern,Sarah Liggett,1984 Intended to 1 acquaint teachers with the potential of computers 2 show them what changes writers may have to make in their composing habits and 3 inform teachers of the changes they may have to make in course syllabi to prepare students for the demands of the electronic world this book examines the impact of technology on composition instruction The first chapter discusses the capabilities and rapidly growing use in the business and professional world of such electronic technology as telecommunication systems and audio and electronic mail systems The second chapter distills information about dictation and word processing systems from an extensive review of research literature and from interviews with computer users and trainers at various business sites across the country Based on this the third chapter outlines the curricula required to enable students to be effective composers at the computer The fourth chapter contains forecasts of the kinds of research still needed for teachers to develop fruitful programs and strategies in the composition classroom Appendixes include materials from the interviews and information on audio mail systems and dictation processes

HTH A Rhetoric of Doing Stephen Paul Witte,Neil Nakadate,Roger Dennis Cherry,1992 Concerned with both the nature and the practice of discourse the eighteen essays collected here treat rhetoric as a dynamic enterprise of inquiry exploration and application and in doing so reflect James L Kinneavy's firm belief in the vital relationship between theory and practice his commitment to a spirit of accommodation and assimilation that promotes the development of ever more powerful theories and ever more useful practices A thorough introduction provides the reader with clear summaries of the essays by leading edge theorists researchers and teachers of writing and rhetoric A field context for the ideas presented in this book is provided through the division of the various chapters into four major sections that focus on classical rhetoric and rhetorical theory in historical contexts on dimensions of discourse theory aspects of discourse communities and the sorts of knowledge people access and use in producing written texts on writing in school related contexts and on several dimensions of nonacademic writing A fifth section contains a bibliographic survey and an appreciation of James Kinneavy's work The exceptional range of these essays makes A Rhetoric of Doing an ecumenical examination of the current state of mind in rhetoric and written communication a survey and description of what discourse and those in the field of discourse are in fact doing

Techne, from Neoclassicism to Postmodernism Kelly Pender, 2011-05-21 Techne from Neoclassicism to Postmodernism offers a deconstructive reading of the debates that have surrounded the term techne in rhetoric and composition explaining how we can affirm its value as a theory and pedagogy of writing without denying the legitimacy of the postmodern critiques that have been leveled against it
